ROTARY CLUB OF ASHBURN, VIRGINIA

Volume 1, Issue 19 August 12, 2010

Loudoun County Supervisor Lori Waters Visits Ashburn Rotary

Lori Waters was elected to the Board of Supervisors representing the Broad Run District in November 2003, and was re-elected in 2007.

Currently she serves on the Board's Finance/Government Services and Operations Committee. She was previously chairman of the Board of Supervisors' Economic Development Committee. She represents Loudoun County on the National Capital Region Transportation Planning Board and the Route 28 Transportation Improvement District Commission. She also represents the Board of Supervisors on the Loudoun County Parks, Recreation, and Open Space Board.

From 1997 to 2004, she worked for a pro-family, grassroots organization in Washington, D.C. While living in Alexandria, Va., she served on the Social Services Advisory Board and the Early Childhood Commission.

A native of North Carolina, she graduated cum laude from Furman University with a bachelor of arts degree in political science.

She lives in Lansdowne with her husband Matt, daughter Leigh Anna and son Tyler. She is also involved with Mothers of Preschoolers (MOPS) in Ashburn. The Waters family attends Cornerstone Chapel in Leesburg.

The Four-Way Test

"Of the things we think say or do:

1) Is it the TRUTH?
2) Is it FAIR to all concerned?
3) Will it build GOODWILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
4) Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?"

Rotary Classification Talks

When a lawyer, a coal dealer, a mining engineer, and a merchant tailor first met in 1905, they gave birth to Rotary and, by the nature of their diverse occupations, to the association's most distinctive feature — the classification principle. Today, the classification principle remains a cornerstone of Rotary, promoting fellowship and service that is based on diversity. The classification principle makes sure that no one profession or business becomes the dominant force within the club.

Another benefit of the principle is that representatives of many fields are brought together, providing the opportunity for Rotarians to broaden their knowledge of the contemporary workplace. This, in turn, enables Rotarians to fulfill one of the basic obligations of Vocational Service— recognizing the worthiness to society of all useful occupations.

A way to share information about your vocation is to give a classification talk at a club meeting. The following guidelines are designed to help you give a good presentation.

- A brief history of your career, including why you chose your particular business or profession. Discuss your training and education.
- The parts of your job you find most rewarding and most difficult. (Don't be afraid to express personal feelings; sincere emotion always increases audience responsiveness.)
- Give a brief history of yourself. This can include where you were born, childhood interests and family statistics, people who had an influence on you, major life events.
- If desired you can share your present hobbies, interests, values and beliefs. This could include why you joined Rotary, what you hope to gain from it, and what you feel you can contribute.
- Finally, the best part, it should take no more than 10 to 15 minutes. It is a great opportunity to share information about yourself. Relax and enjoy!
