PROGRAM PREVIEW

SEPTEMBER 10th

A native Texan, Charles Matthews has distinguished himself in government, business and civic leadership. He became the Chancellor of the Texas State University System on February 1, 2005. Prior to his current position as Chancellor, Matthews served as the 40th Commissioner of the Railroad Commission of Texas for ten years. First elected in 1994, he won re-election in 2000 to a second term, receiving the highest number of votes ever cast for a Railroad Commissioner. Before taking office at the Railroad Commission in January 1995, he served as the Mayor of Garland, the ninth largest city in Texas. In addition, he served as President of the Texas Municipal Power Agency and was Governor William P. Clements' appointee to the Texas Turnpike Authority. Chancellor Matthews earned a B.A. at the University of Texas at Dallas, a Master in Public Administration from Texas State University, and an Ed.D. at the University of Texas at Austin in Higher Education Administration. From his first day as Chancellor, Matthews has stated that one of his main goals is to minimize the upward pressure on tuition in order to keep higher education affordable to all potential students. In addition, Matthews has formed an Information
