PROGRAM:
Joe Schmitt has 20 years of experience delivering IT infrastructure solutions to large organizations. He excels at helping teams to standardize their operations and expand their capabilities. Much of his work focuses on developing employees and bringing disparate groups and ideas together in order to create value for customers and end users. He helps people bring the best in themselves to all that they do. In addition to his IT work, he speaks frequently on the topics of critical thinking and time management. You can also regularly find him at Saint Mary's University, where he works passionately to develop new IT leaders.

Joe's presentation focused on working as an individual or in a group to explore multiple solutions to problems that we face. To recognize our biases and open ourselves to new perspectives in order to explore other options and avoid making the same mistakes over and over.

Knowledge (understanding)
Identify (the problems)
Explore (interpretation, connectivity and recognition of our biases)
Prioritize (alternatives, communication and conclusions)
Integrate (into your organization – then monitor and assess)

Joke of the Week

Two policemen call the station on the radio.
"Hello. Is that you Sarge?"
"Yes?"
"We have a case here. A woman has shot her husband for stepping on the floor she had just mopped clean."
"Have you arrested the woman?"
"No Sarge not yet"
"Why Not?"
"The floor is still wet".
