A Day in the Life of an Architect

Presented by Kendall Jessiman and Graham Coleman

Iredale Architecture

Philp Webber, President

Franco Gallo, Secretary

KENDALL JESSIMAN | Architect AAA, AIBC, SAA, MRAIC, BEP, CAHP, ALEP, Partner

Kendall Jessiman is a dedicated registered architect with over 30 years of experience. In addition to providing architectural and coordinating registered professional services, Kendall specializes in building science. He consults with other architects to ensure their buildings are technically sound and are constructed to withstand the harshest of climatic conditions.

Having serviced a broad range of clients, commissions, and industries, Kendall is skilled in client liaison, project management and consultant team coordination of entire consultant teams. His comprehensive portfolio includes buildings and facilities for municipal, educational, provincial and federal government agencies, and private and commercial institutions. Kendall is an Accredited Learning Environment Planner, one of only a few in the province.

GRAHAM COLEMAN | Architect AIBC, AAA, LEED AP, MRAIC, Partner

Graham Coleman is an Architect, a LEED Accredited Professional and a Partner at Iredale Architecture with experience in complex commercial, community, and educational design. The three pillars of his architectural ethos are design excellence, environmental ethics, and client satisfaction.

Graham was the Partner in Charge of over a dozen facilities projects in the past eight years. His integrated Quantity Surveying approach led these projects to be tendered on budget, and his effective methods of bi-weekly Project Meetings and document control logs provided Contractors with timely information and Owners with ongoing insight.

He is also the Partner-in-Charge and the Architect of Record for the Exchange Tower, a LEED Platinum heritage and new office project in downtown Vancouver.
