

Eric Hornberger, Chairman of the Loudoun County School Board will be the speaker on Thursday, March 6.

Eric is proud to claim Ashburn and Loudoun County as his home. He grew up in San Diego, CA, where he earned a B.A. in History/Political Science from Point Loma Nazarene University. He went on to serve as a Peace Corps Volunteer in Guinea, West Africa. Upon his return, he worked at Peace Corps headquarters as a Program Manager in the Office of Private Sector Relations while earning a M.A. in International Affairs from the American University in Washington, DC.

For the past 15 years, Eric has worked for the Mustard Seed Foundation, a private family foundation based in Falls Church. His work has included establishing offices for the Foundation in China, Egypt, India, Indonesia, the Philippines and Singapore, supervising an international staff team, and managing a variety of giving programs. For the past six years, Eric has served as Executive Director of the Foundation.

An active advocate for the interests of Ashburn, Eric is proud of his service as parent activist and community leader. Eric helped lead a successful civic group, Ashburn Farm Parents United, in advocating for sensible school boundaries and community-based schools. Included in these accomplishments was the successful advocacy for three new schools in northern Ashburn that eventually became known as Discovery Elementary, Trailside Middle and Riverside High Schools. He also served for three years on the Board of Trustees of the Ashburn Farm Association, one of the largest homeowners' associations in Loudoun County, including serving two years as its president.

Eric, his wife Paula, and their three children relocated to Ashburn in 2004 after living abroad in Singapore. Paula is a Reading Specialist for Loudoun County Public Schools, currently serving at Cedar Lane Elementary School in Ashburn. Their children attend Sanders Corner Elementary and Stone Bridge High Schools. Eric and his family attend Christian Fellowship Church in Ashburn, where he and his wife are both members.

Eric enjoys his role as husband and father, as well as serving his community, exploring the world, and being a life-long learner.
