The issue of child trafficking is global and growing. Courage Worldwide (501-3c) is committed to building courage houses in every city in the world that needs one so that rescued children will have a safe place to call home. There are currently two homes open- northern California and Tanzania Africa. The Courage House Hawaii team consists of a committed group of local individuals (all volunteers) who have networked with justice officials, family court, girl's court, FBI, and the local community to bring awareness to the issue as well as the need for a long-term home for these children.

Honolulu is a hub for business and trading between the East and the West. As the demand for sexual services increases in Hawaii, so does the number of victims, specifically underage victims. Young girls in Hawaii are bought and sold. They are ordered online, purchased in massage parlors and put out on the street to generate business for sex traffickers, otherwise known as "pimps." Selling young girls for sexual purposes generates huge profits. Girls—United States citizens as young as twelve years old and even younger—are having their childhoods stolen. In Hawaii, there is a significant lack of services providing short and long-term shelter for children. Currently there are no programs or facilities specifically for domestic child-victims of trafficking and sexual exploitation.

Courage House Hawai'i—Hale O' Mana'o l'o—is not just a house. It will be a home for these children. We at Courage Worldwide are building homes so rescued children have a safe place to call home—a Pu'uhonua (a safe place)—where they can begin to heal from their physical, spiritual and emotional abuse. At Courage House Hawaii, a team of caring professionals will customize a trauma treatment program specific to their individual needs and long-term growth.

The team is working to locate a site for the home in a rural location on Oahu. They are seeking financial partners to join with them to get this home up and running.
