Voices of RYLA

This week's meeting was an opportunity for members to hear first-hand what the 18-28 year olds got up to on their recent week long leadership camp at Busselton. Jim Stephen introduced the three students, who were Noel Hinton, Louise Foley and Bill. Bill spoke first, thanking his mum for buying him some motivation books, which at first he thought were of no interest to him, but after reading one of the books on a recent plane flight he discovered some truth to the statement that 'you should keep an open mind to education'. This prompted him to quit his job and enrol in university. Bill also thanked Jim who encouraged him to attend the RYLA Camp in the week between finishing work and starting university. Bill explained RYLA was a life changing decision, solidifying his decision to change direction, but also it taught him about public speaking, time management and motivation for the future. Bill also turned 21 today.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Trevor Wilson, International: Trevor was pleased to announce that the International Night will take place next Wednesday at the Bunbury Powerboat Club, starting at 6.00. There have been 2 bids received for the fine dining table. The menu includes seared scallops in Beurre blanc sauce with sweet pea puree. Followed by a main course of Reef and Beef, and a dessert of berry compot pavlova. The guest chef will be Dominic Consenza. Other guests will be served a range of international foods. Please come dressed in a national dress.

John Grey, Foundations; reported that the meeting on 20 March will be cancelled as we are having a combined Bunbury Rotary clubs meeting on Friday 22 March at Koombana Bay Sailing Club. This will be a meeting for the Exchange program professionals to meet us and socialize.

Kevin Eagles, Public Relations; distributed the posters for the Children's Fair. He will also email the poster out to everyone so that you can put up some notices at you points of contact. On the day, Sunday 17 February, members are encouraged to wear their hats and 't' shirts to identify us. Those who want to purchase hats and 'T' shirts can place an order with Mike Honeywell at Totally Workwear by this Friday. Kevin still needs a club history person and a web master for his committee and there was to be a meeting following tonight's meeting.

More From RYLA

Noel Hinton was next. For Noel, there was a life changing moment when it was his turn to be the DC for the day. The team of RYLA students hit a particularly challenging day and the facilitators were trying to boost the team. As the DC for the day, Noel felt he had to step up and play a part in motivating the team.

This experience gave him the courage and confidence to bring the teams moral up. Noel thanked Rotarians for offering the program, which he described as unique and very special in building young people's confidence, self-esteem and personal growth. He urged us to continue the program because of its worth.

Louise was next. She explained what the experience had meant to her. Originally she joined because she thought it might boost her confidence in public speaking. In hindsight, it has done much more than that. She has learnt to never give up, adopt a 'why not' approach to life, become more organized and always have a back-up plan. She also reiterated that RYLA friends were forever.

Simon, one of the facilitators, and a person who has been involved with youth for many years, put a challenge to Rotary clubs to expand the program and provide more benefits to a larger number of youth, thereby changing more lives. Neil Sinclair gave the vote of thanks and also thanked Murray Harris for the BBQ and Ben, who supplied some entertainment. On the whole the program seems to benefit both the participants and the facilitators- so it is a win win program!

WEEKLY COMPETITION

100 tickets were sold tonight. Terry P scored a bottle of wine as did RayJ again, that's 2 in a row. The jackpot did not go off tonight, which means it is getting close to $400. Got to be in it to win it!

FINES

Terry Paine was our fine master tonight and presented something a little different. We all had to put a dollar into the centre of the table. Then we had to say a word or a sentence that summed up our impressions of what it means to be in Rotary. This was a good way to get us to think about our 'Rotary Moment' strategy.

Terry would give the thumbs up or down. If it was down, your table lost their money. If you repeated what someone else had said you lost your money. Members were very creative, to mention a few;

Testosterone, wife-free night, work!
