Acting Chairman Rod welcomed visiting Rotarian Elaine from Auckland NZ, and Clint Garret from the NT. Also Andrea Feast our GSE team member who recently returned from Portugal, Rod also told us that Greg James had suffered a heart attack at the weekend and is now in intensive care at Murdoch hospital. Greg, all the Club wish you a speedy recovery and are thinking of you. Don't worry about the bank, Glen has everything under control and has lent most of the money already.

Pres elect (but not for long), Glenys reported that 90 people had registered so far for the Changeover dinner this week and reminded members that should something occur between now and then that prevents you or your guests attending to ring Glenys pronto as otherwise you will be charged $50 a head as the Lighthouse will be catering on the numbers nominated. Glenys also reported the combined Board meeting held the night before had been successful and all was in place for a smooth changeover. Hopefully, volcanic ash permitting, Neil will be back in time from Alice Springs for the event. Glenys is also looking for an “anchor person” to organise and oversee the forthcoming sausage sizzle at Bunning’s on Sat 16th of July. This is usually a good money spinner but needs to be well planned and run on the day. If you can help give Glenys a ring.

Black Tie Ball: Mike Honeybell reminded us that we are now fully committed to making this event, the Club’s major fund raiser for the year, a success. Tickets need to be sold ASAP, preferably in tables of 10 but whatever we sell can be linked to others to make up complete tables. Tickets are $150 a head and Mike stressed that the 5 course meal will be the real deal, not a degustation or tapas menu and the entertainment will be top class. Beneficiaries of funds raised, (which hopefully will be about $25,000) will be the Men’s Shed project and the Waratah Women’s Refuge. So go to it members, ring Mike on 0407 445 215 if you have any queries.

This is a photo of Andrea Feast prior to her visit to Portugal in May-June. Unfortunately my camera failed me at the last meeting so I couldn’t get a shot of the “new” Andrea who was guest speaker at last weeks meeting. My apologies Andrea, we’ll have to get a more recent photo soon. Rotary Foundation Director, Mike Honeybell commented that Andrea had grown markedly as a result of the GSE trip and all agreed that the new Andrea was a very poised and confident lady who presented a very comprehensive and entertaining talk. Highlights of the 4 week trip included visits to the Sintra National Palace (built in the 14th century) and the Mayuri Palace (built in the 18th century) which is now 50% monastery and 50% library and the Portugese monument below that commemorates famous Portugese people including their many explorers when Portugal was at the forefront of sea navigation and discovery.

Cork oak plantations were visited plus several Rotary Clubs where the GSE team made presentations and learnt more about the Portugese people and their culture. Most young people are fluent in English but many of the older Rotarians are not. Andrea had previously studied Spanish so was able to make herself understood in Portugese. A live radio interview (the first for Andrea) was a great experience as were vocational visits to a Helen Keller School, a cancer treatment centre and at Centro hospital in the haematology/oncology laboratory, Andrea was thrilled to be able to see under a powerful microscope, a Philadelphia chromosome, the result of an abnormality due to interaction (translocation) between chromosome 22 and chromosome 9, often associated with chronic myelogenous leukemia. This was something she had studied and learnt about but to see this with her own eyes obviously made a great impression. Well done Andrea, you have been a great ambassador for Rotary and our Club.

And now in my last bully for the year, I thank all members for their patience and fortitude when the dates for their birthdays, anniversaries and induction anniversaries as posted in the bully were wrong or worse, left out all together. Thanks to all those who sent in contributions. But as an indulgence and to fill this last page I couldn't resist the opportunity to end with a piece of Billy Shakespeare's play, Cymbeline. Cymbeline has been described as a tragedy, a romance and a comedy but it never made it to the top hit list unlike Macbeth which has that great image of the three witches sitting round a steaming cauldron chanting:

“Double, double toil and trouble;
Fire burn and cauldron bubble.

But Cymbeline has some pretty good verse too.

Plot: Cymbeline was a mediaeval, Celtic King of Britain who had a daughter Imogen who runs off with a commoner to the annoyance of Cymbeline and the Queen. The Queen who is a nasty piece of work plots to poison Cymbeline and Imogen so her bogan son, Cloten from a previous marriage can inherit the throne by marrying Imogen. Imogen rejects Cloten much to his annoyance. The court medico when asked to mix up some poison on the Queens orders suspects evil intentions and instead produces a potion that when taken will knock the person out so as to appear dead but in time will recover and wake up. Cloten meets up with the two sons, (Guiderius and Arviragus) from King Cymbeline's earlier marriage. A fight breaks out and Cloten has his head cut off.

Later, showing a bit of remorse, Guiderius and Arviragus decide they should conduct a funeral service for Cloten on account of his link to the throne. So here is what they say. Remember this is set in mediaeval Britain when the Roman occupation was in force and there was enormous class distinction between the top and the bottom in society. I love the imagery.

G. Fear no more the heat o' the sun,
Nor the furious winter' rages;
Thou thy worldly task hast done,
Home art gone and ta'en thy wages;
Golden lads and girls all must,
As chimney sweepers, come to dust.

A Fear no more the frown o' the great,
Thou art past the tyrant's stroke:
Care no more to clothe and eat;
To thee the reed is as the oak:
The sceptre, learning, physic must
All follow this, and come to dust.

G Fear no more the lightning flash,
A Nor the all dreaded thunder-stone;
G Fear not slander, censure rash;
A Thou hast finished joy and moan:
Both All lovers young, all lovers must
Consign to thee and come to dust

G No exorciser harm thee !
A Nor no withcraft charm thee !
G Ghost unlaid forebear thee !
A Nothing ill come near thee !
Both Quiet consummation have;
And renowned be thy grave !
