APRIL GOVERNOR'S NOTES

April is Rotary Magazine Month. How are you sharing your Rotary magazine? You can bring it to your library, doctors office, any place that has a waiting area to share with people who may be interested in learning more about Rotary and our amazing projects.

Since I've been thinking about the District Conference so much, I Googled ideas and found this on the RI web site:

Problem: Member is unsure about attending district conference. You've asked a member to represent the club at this year's district conference. She is hesitant to accept. How do you convince her to attend?

Responses from Rotarians:

Club leaders must "lead by example" in most Rotary matters, including this one. If club leaders are not attending, urging others to attend will not have the same credibility. Club leaders presumably have attended previous conferences and should take time to tell their club members what they enjoyed about it and why they continue to attend.

One of the most important events in any Rotarian's life should be the District Conference. This is the celebration of their club, district and Rotary's accomplishments that year, in addition to being a learning experience and renewal of friendships, along with making new friends. Make it a cultural practice that "you just gotta do it, it's so much fun" that makes it difficult for them to miss out. I have personally asked 100% of my club to be there for at least a portion of the conference. It's hard to turn down a direct request from a friend without an awfully good reason. Once there, they'll love you for it.

Attendance at district conference can be presented as a family (husband + spouse) activity. At a minimum members should be encourage to attend the district meeting (usually the 1st day). Club should assist with costs---problem for small clubs.

As a fairly new members we (my fellow Rotarian spouse and I) have attended 2 district conferences. What got us going the first time? The enthusiasm of just a few members we had a connection with; it's contagious! Once we went we were hooked. The energy and the speakers, not to mention the hospitality suites, were amazing. There were so many like minded wonderful people attending.

You need to stress the fun they will have in making new friendships with other Rotarians in the District as well as being a great venue to learn about Rotary. During my year as Governor we provided a discount in the registration fee for new members and members attending their first conference which helped the attendance of new Rotarians. It is also important that existing members from their club join them in attending the conference. The conference committee should consider a breakout session for new Rotarians. Maybe the club can also help with some of the costs to attend the conference. Ask the member to make a presentation to the club about the conference.

What are your thoughts?

2012-2013 DG Melissa
