ALASKA’S DINOSAURS
PRESENTED BY PAT DRUCKENMILLER

Pat Druckenmiller is a vertebrate paleontologist, whose research focuses on Mesozoic marine reptiles (particularly plesiosaurs and ichthyosaurs). He is also an expert on the dinosaurs of Alaska.

Druckenmiller became the earth sciences curator at the University of Alaska Museum of the North in 2007 after he moved here from Montana to take the job.

Pat has conducted paleontological fieldwork across much of the western US and Canada and has active field sites across Alaska, including the southeastern panhandle, the Alaska Peninsula, the North Slope, and several locations in between.

A long-planned dream came true for him two years ago when he worked with museum colleagues to open an exhibit about Alaska’s dinosaurs at the UA Museum of the North. Expedition Alaska: Dinosaurs is now in its final week at the museum.

Druckenmiller will discuss recent findings from around Alaska, including the first dinosaur bones discovered in Denali National Park. He will also describe what a warmer Alaska looked like during the Age of Dinosaurs.

LOVE ROTARY? SPONSOR SOMEONE TODAY!

Hello! I am Jo Kuchle, the chair of the 2016-2017 member committee. Our Committee consists of Peggy Pollen, Kathleen Hook, Bill Robertson, Sierra Hunt, Joane Johnson, and Lori Wilson.

It is so much fun to meet our new Rotarians and to integrate them into our Club and Rotary at large. I’ve sponsored several of our new members and I’ve enjoyed it. It’s a fill-in form on our website that’s easy to complete.

Think about the fun and inspiration you have had in Rotary. Isn’t that worth sharing with someone?!
