TODAY'S PROGRAM

Tara Akitt, Senior Director for the Library Street Collective. Library Street Collective is a dynamic art space dedicated to fostering connections between Detroit's local creative community and the international art scene. The gallery showcases compelling exhibitions and actively supports nonprofit initiatives and important causes within the city.

The LSC has two locations. One in downtown Detroit contributing to Detroit's vibrant arts scene. In addition to art exhibitions, this includes The Belt Detroit and the murals on a neighboring parking structure. The other is the Little Village which includes The Shepherd, a historic church converted into a cultural arts center, a B&B, an upcoming restaurant, and a skate park. Also a part of the Village is the Lantern, a vacant bakery turned into a mixed-use anchor and Stanton Yards, a soon-to-be waterfront destination.
