

Membership in Rotary Club of Ann Arbor North proposal:

Definitions

1. Corporate Member:

A Corporate Member is any business, non-profit organization, or government/educational institution.

A Corporate Member designates the Senior Corporate Member who pays full dues and meals. Attendance is flexible.

The Senior Corporate Member may name up to three Associate Corporate Members that are fellow employees.

Associate Members pay $10 per month and the cost of meals as they attend. Attendance is flexible.

All are considered Rotary International members. Associate Corporate Members may serve on club committees but may not hold an elected office in the club. They are also expected to participate in club projects when possible.

2. Family Member:

Any spouse/significant other of an Ann Arbor North Club Rotarian in good standing may designate a Family Member.

The Family Member pays $10 per month and the cost of meals as they attend. Attendance is flexible.

The designated Family Member is considered a Rotary International member.

Family members may serve on club committees but may not hold elected office in the club. They are also expected to participate in club projects when possible.

Other suggestions:

All members of Ann Arbor North Club should be encouraged to bring their copies of the "Rotarian Magazine" to meetings and a copy should be given to any guests and our speaker each week.

The club needs to pursue a way to broadcast our meetings on the Internet to interested members who cannot be physically present, but want to see and hear the programs.

All members need to inventory their friends and the professionals in their lives and ask them to be guests at the club meetings. Examples would be your lawyer, your banker, your insurance agent, your financial planner or a member of any other organization that you belong to.

Bylaws for the club must be amended to include the above definitions to proceed.
