

Did Someone Call this a Golf Tournament?

Forty-four Kelowna Sunrise Rotarians and their guests took to the links for a fun-packed scramble with no limit of outrageous rules and antics on Friday, September 29th at Gallagher's Canyon Golf & Country Club in East Kelowna. The 25th Annual event was once again organized by club member Wayne Duchart who had guaranteed that the sun would shine brightly and that everyone would have a grand old time, no matter the caliber of their ability. It was soon evident by observers at the first tee off box that the caliber of play was certainly questionable.

Calmness prevailed over the canyon and golf course during the golf game, but one would find that hard to believe as apparently there were a record number of arrant golf balls that found their way into the trees that lined each of the fairways as few balls actually landed on green grass. One could understand this if hurricane winds had been experienced during the highly-competitive match.

While there were no winning teams out on the course, everyone had a fantastic day of fellowship and laughs, and yes, everyone took home a prize. Two golfers did take home an extra prize as club member and pro Angela Burnell won the hole-in-one competition on the putting green and club member Mike Crowley got closest to the body bag with his drive off the tee off box on the first fairway. Golfers were disqualified if they hit the bag and thus disturbed the remains within it.

The 25th Annual Rotary Club of Kelowna Sunrise Golf Tournament will go down in history as one more golf tournament that will be remembered for some time, at least until the 26th takes place in September of 2018.
