

ShelterBox Canada Dale Perret

George Kimura introduced our first speaker, member Dale Perret who is an ambassador for ShelterBox Canada. ShelterBox is dedicated to ensuring no family is left without shelter after a natural disaster or conflict. It began in 2000 and has provided shelter for more than 1 million people. It is partnered with Rotary International and the main concentration is centered in Malawi where 2.5 million people have been displaced, and 900 thousand have been affected by environmental disasters.

ShelterBox Canada is also working in Nigeria where a fire destroyed 10,000 dwellings, in Cameroon where tents have been provided, and in Syria where tents were provided in relief camps.

My Life in Broadcasting Bart Dailley

George Kimura introduced our second speaker, member Bart Dailley, mentioning some highlights of his story: born in Toronto, tried to become a baseball player/umpire, got into radio starting at CJFS, started at CHQR in 1976, became a Calgary Flames broadcaster. Bart joined Rotary in 1992. He has three kids and five grandchildren.

Bart's Story:

He played every sport there was growing up, and excelled at baseball, but was never able to turn it into a career. He started as a Floor Trader at the TSE, and was paid $39 per week, so he augmented his income by acting as a bookie, but the TSE took a dim view of this, so his career moved on.

Ahmed works through his business, Amplifon Rockyview Hearing Clinic as a Doctor of Audiology and an Education Consultant.

Disabling hearing loss is described as greater than 40dB in the better ear for adults, and greater than 30dB in children. This condition describes around 5% of the world population ... 432 million adults and 34

He chose to become a sports broadcaster, and started in Nova Scotia. His real surname is "Warburton" but that turned out to be a name that never worked on radio. He then moved on to his mother's maiden name of Kelly for awhile, but when he moved west to Rosetown Saskatchewan, the anchorman was also named Kelly, so Bart had to change his name. He became Bart Dailley, a made-up name as he was on the radio every day. Bart met his beautiful wife, Barbara, in Rosetown Saskatchewan.

He came to Calgary as a sportscaster. Of his career in broadcasting, Bart noted that a job as sportscaster is not highly paid. The most he ever made as a sportscaster was $36,000 per year. The offset to this was that he got to meet great people. He was the broadcaster for the Flames' games in their first year.

Short story: Bart went into the Stanley Cup Champion Montreal Canadiens' dressing room, and sees general dressing room hi-jinks, and a player 'stinging' another player with his towel, and thinks to himself "these are champions!?" when Bob Hope walks in right behind him. Guy Lapointe says to Guy Lafleur in a 'stage' whisper: Bob Hope has never seen a hockey game in his life, Bob Hope then told the room, in a very loud voice, right by Bart's ear, that he was a New York Rangers fan, and proceeded to ream off stats on the players on that team to prove it!

Celebrities whom Bart has met are many, including for example, Stompin' Tom Connors, Loretta Lynn, and Fergie Jenkins, to name just a few.

The second most important day in Bart's life was in August 1981, just after he lost his job as the Flames play-by-play man. Evangelist Billy Graham came to town and Bart made Jesus Christ his Lord and his Saviour, and this would not have happened but for his losing his job as a play by play man! Today Bart continues this legacy of salvation as a preacher of the Gospel.

attended NAIT and received a degree in Gas Technology. After 5 years working with Gulf Oil and Amoco, Pat decided to get an engineering degree in order to advance into management.

In 1971 Pat followed the advice of a co-worker and travelled overseas to Great Yarmouth England, working for Baker Oil Tools. During his extensive travels in the Middle East, West Africa and Europe, Pat met his wife Sally who also was employed by the company. In 1972 Baker got a contract with Shell Oil in Spain. It was this move that spurred Pat and Sally to get married.

During his 6 months in Spain there was significant expansion globally and Pat felt he was missing out on promotion opportunities. He then went to work for Otis Engineering in Montrose Scotland and found success in managing the company of 150 employees from July 1973 to July 1976. It was in Scotland that he met and became fast friends with Henry and Janet Popoff.

Crazy oil patch pressures convinced Pat to return to farming. However after 2 years of farming, impatience beckoned him back to the oil scene. In 1978, along with a partner, he started a gas well testing company, and along with NEB slumps and a further stint with Baker Oil Tools in Scotland, Pat retired from his last partnership back in Calgary in 2013.

It was under Henry's influence that Pat joined the Chinook Rotary Club in June 2018.

Minute Men:

- Peter Bickham has settled on Apr 20 for the Cribbage Club wind-up.
- Ryan MacLean announced that his committee is proposing $300 yearly dues.

President George announced that the Apr 16 meeting has been changed from an evening meeting to our regular afternoon luncheon meeting.

Chase The Ace:

Lucky winner Bob Montgomery un-luckily picked the 9 of Hearts.

Recognition For Outstanding Service Award:

Fred Jessee was proposed to the club by Bob Graham on Apr 01, 1985. Fred has served on the board, hosted youth exchange students from Japan, Finland and Brazil, and was a tireless volunteer parking cars at Spruce Meadows. He has been a generous donor to the Rotary Foundation and holds 5 Paul Harris Fellows contributions. Along with his wife May, they enjoy Arizona winters for the past 28 years.

Sargent-At-Arms:

Ian Burgess was in a testy mood thanks to his migraine. He extracted fines from members without name tags or Rotary pins. Even the birthday table attendees had to pay. He also fined Bob Montgomery for winning the draw for the Ace of Diamonds (even though he only picked the 9 of Hearts).
