Our Guest Speaker today was Pablo Ruiz Beltri.

Pablo, our exchange student from Spain was introduced by Ron Prokosch. Ron, resplendent in his red blazer, said how fortunate we have been to have had an exchange student who embodies all that an exchange student can be. At school, at the club and at the District level he has engaged, and represented himself, his country and Rotary in an enthusiastic and exemplary manner.

Wherever and whenever he had a chance to try something new he was always first to say “Yes”. Perhaps the only difficulty he had was managing his double and even triple booked calendar.

Ron took this opportunity to thank the club for its continued support of the Youth Exchange Program and a special thanks to all the hosts and those who have taken him to events and activities around the Province.

Pablo started his slide presentation ...."My Year in Canada” with a big THANK YOU.

How do you cover an amazing year in 20minutes!!

Pablo is proud of his achievements and motivated to continue to University. Once again a big thank you to this club and all in Rotary for this great lifetime experience.

Chas Filipski thanked Pablo for his presentation..... he really has come out of his shell. He is a true representation of what this is all about and thanked everyone for their help. A special thanks to Ron Prokosch for everything he does for the program.

President Ken echoed the comments by Chas. Pablo “You are a credit to the program” and we all wish you well for the balance of your time here in Calgary. You are welcome back anytime.
President Ken opened the meeting...only 4 to go.... calling on Lisa Fernandes, oops Glen Potter who led us in O Canada and Rotary Grace.

Head Table: Ron Prokosch (President Elect), Pablo Ruiz (Our Speaker and Exchange Student), Bryan Walton, Charlie Gouldsborough and Bill LeClair (upcoming President)

Rotaract: Sarah Khan: brought us up to date on what they were doing. She reminded us of the Rotaract’s Annual Midsummer Soiree, James Bond Edition on June 10th at Hillhurst Sunnyside Hall. Is only $35.00 with proceeds to their School project in Honduras. See Page >>> of the Bulletin to Register.

President’s Hoedown: President Ken thanked the Social Committee for the great Presidents Hoe Down last Friday. Great meal by Michael Zacharki and team and thanks to Past President Murray Flegel and “THE FOG” for the music. President Ken mentioned that they played until past eleven when 90 years young George Adam arrived with Lois for a dance. See Bulletin for Pictures

Murray Flegel tore a strip, oops red stripe off of Sid Smith

Paul Harris Pins: Bryan Walton standing in for Jack Thompson presented Paul Harris Pins to Sherry Austin with number 7 and Phil Jackson with number 6.

Dream Home Moment: Charlie Gouldsborough standing in for Craig Stokke

He acknowledged Shellie Marshal’s brother Darren, a guest today, and a long time ticket printer volunteer at the event.

Only 5 weeks until Sneak a Peak!
Casinos: Harry Pelton is looking after the June 12th and 13th Casino at Cowboys. He still has a few of the fun shifts available late at night. They have to be filled so if you can help out contact Harry.

Rotary Mattamy Greenway: Sherry Austin left info on the table for the Rotary Mattamy Greenway. It is the kickoff for the Greenway 150 Summer Challenge and you are urged to participate……. Walk roll, run the pathway this summer and enter the event. See Bulletin for more info.

St. Mary’s Partnership: Dorothea Schaab then took over to recognize our involvement in the St. Mary’s School Partnership. It was a special meeting to celebrate all our involvement with Youth Programs with Sarah representing Rotaract, Pablo Ruiz and Lucas Rasmussen our International Exchange Students and the School Partnership representing speech and debate.

In the past we held a 4-Way Test Speech but the rules have changed and it has become an Audio Visual presentation along with readings of Slam Poetry and prose. Don’t know what Slam Poetry is…..Dorothea found out for us……

“Slam Poetry was one of the most vital and energetic movements in poetry during the 1990’s. It has revitalized interest in poetry in performance. This generation of spoken word poetry is often highly politicalized, drawing on racial, economic, and gender injustices as well as current events for subject matter. The work is judged as much on the manner and enthusiasm of its performance as its content or style, and many slam poems are not intended to be read silently from the page.

We heard Sophia Aya Cristancho present her Slam Poem which is listed on Page 6 of the Bulletin. In 2014 Karla Iglesias went to Germany on an Exchange from Chinook Club. She used this experience to develop her audio visual skills and take a look at the 4 Way Test Visually. Good presentation.

Dorothea Schaab thanked Terry Allen, Stacy Johnson and Jamie Moorhouse for judging the audio visual entries.

President Ken presented the following awards

- 4th Place $50 to John Rawlek who used Slam Poetry and the 4 Way Test to find perspective on the Palm Sunday bombing of two Coptic churches.
- 3rd place $100 to Allyxjandria Edmonds who used the 4 way test to challenge todays fashion industry to represent all people in designing clothes.
- 2nd place $150 to Veleria Aya Cristancho, a Slam Poem opening the discussion on Suicide.
- 1st place $200 to Karla Iglesias who will travel to Ottawa to start her role as a Parliamentary Page and study at U of Ottawa.

We thanked the teachers from St Mary’s, Natalie Mutsui and Ty-lar Hayden and presented a cheque for $350 to continue the program.
Dorothea introduced Katie Yoner who represented St Mary's at a National Speech competition in Winnipeg. She placed first in Interpretive Prose and 12th overall.

Time did not permit us to hear her speech but she gave us a short presentation on the importance of Speech. Her involvement in the Speech Club has inspired her to follow a career in Law and this year she was School Valedictorian. She thanked Rotary for supporting the Speech Club as we all know that Public Speaking does matter.

As she did not receive any funding to attend the Nationals we presented her with a cheque for $150.00

President Ken thanked all the students and also Dorothea for coordinating this worthwhile program. He also reminded us of our involvement in RYLA and that we had assisted 7 students to attend camp.

Jim Fitzowich was the Sergeant and due to the lack of time he zeroed in on all those who have not supported Shelter Box recently. They have an event this weekend that is sold out!

Michael Zacharki looked after the 50/50 and we were all thrilled to see Pablo win $145.00

The meeting ended on time with President Ken with the entire Board gathering for a group Photo outside the Building.

The Reason I Push You Away

the reason I push you away is because I'm tired. Hell; I'm exhausted

I'd like to go ahead, Before speaking, say that It's not about sleeping it off, that a headboard and bedspread won't solve the homestead that is entirety of the over empowering fatigue that's been shadowing over me lately.
And before interpreting it as the seven to nine hours that I am or should be getting,
Or of the sudden splitting in my shuteye because of offsetting place settings I can sometimes dream myself inside of. Or of the shoved thoughts I don't get to think of in the day that come back to hijack my “hitting the sack” at night, it's not an exhaustion I can just sleep off.

It's not about those late nights when I can't sleep and I begin to feel as if every second elongates the way when I take the gum I chew from my mouth and stretch it in my hands it's surface area becomes triple the length it once was. no
It's a tiredness of a lackadaisical girl who can’t seem to catch up to the days that keep passing by her.

Like in a hallway after that first bell goes. Those few minutes of going from math ratios to composing an la prose. Or from wearing lab coats to taking social notes. People going from point A to E, from D to C and F to G everyone getting places but not as organized as it would be if they went alphabetically. Students becoming pillars, columns, rows Of cluster.
Everything and anything goes on but in reality. Nothing really happens.

And the Days keep passing me

I do this thing where I make a mental list in my head of the good things that have happen to me on days when I'm sad but I have nothing to add lately because everything is the same

Everything is the same
For instance,
I'll always be tempted to start my essays with “According to Webster’s dictionary” only to not carry through because who starts their essays with “According to Webster’s dictionary..” anyway?
And I'll always lose everything
My books
My pens, my papers
Oh and Don’t forget to add, My shin pads and mouth guard,
I lose my phone so often that I’ve stopped looking for it when I've misplaced her. By the end of the day I’ll infer she’ll be behind a book stack in my backpack or patiently waiting for me to double check the wreck I call my locker…
I'm a forgetful person
I'm the kind of forgetful person who forgets to check her mental checklist on the things she needed to remember not to forget.
I'm the kind of forgetful that seriously googled “why do I keep forgetting things “only to find headliners on early onset Alzheimer's.
I am only a guest in this desk where people have and will continue to do their best on an identical 1992 test his aunt wrote years ago.
It wasn’t curiosity that killed the cat. It was the overstimulation of explosive distractions of a 21st century polluted with empty colors and meaningless rubber.
And with every familiar person I see my dark circles worsen.
I feel as though everyday is like I’m watching the same episode of a show over and over, there’s no roller coaster or thrill exposure. Just a safe, foreseeable day at a time.
I'm also the kind of forgetful to forget that people can be surprising.
You are surprising. And the reason I push you away is because what if your freshness regrettably becomes stale.
And I find an algorithm to your spontaneity and you somehow become predictable. And instead of being new and shiny and something to ogle at. All you are is dull.

I'm sorry I push you away—But I'm not sorry you push back.

We will have some great live music there, delicious appetizers, cool drinks, a silent auction, and some awesome prizes! We hope to close ticket sales by June 3rd.
Travel the world's largest urban pathway system for the Summer Challenge

By Anna Junker

Want to take in the beauty of Calgary, visit all four quadrants of the city and win prizes while you’re doing it?

Parks Foundation Calgary has launched Summer Challenge, an event in celebration of Canada 150. They are challenging Calgarians to walk, run, cycle or in-line skate 150 kilometres using the Rotary/Mattamy Greenway. The Greenway is a 138 km network of paths and bikeways that circles the entire city. The greenway can be used year-round and is expected to be fully completed by the end of 2017.

Areas of the city still under construction include the path joining the northwest and northeast quadrants. There is also a wetland area in the southeast which will be completed in the winter when the water is frozen over.

The Greenway directly connects 55 communities around the city and connects to almost 1,000 kilometres of Calgary’s existing pathways. It also links parks, natural areas, green spaces, river valleys and other amenities. It can be used to commute to work or for recreational activities.

“Many residents are unaware that Calgary boasts the longest urban pathway and park system in the world,” said Sheila Taylor, executive director of Parks Foundation Calgary in a press release.

The Summer Challenge kicks off June 25 and runs through to August 28. People can register for free through Facebook or greenway150.com as individuals or a team where they can add up everyone’s kilometres throughout the summer.

For those with four-legged friends, their kilometres can be added to yours.

Anyone participating can share their journey on social media, tagging Parks Foundation Calgary and using the hashtags #MyGreenway and #Greenway150 where they will be eligible to win weekly prizes.

Parks Foundation Calgary will also be using social media and online tools to inform people about the progress, areas to avoid, detours and suggested routes while the pathway is still under construction. Interactive maps are available to download at greenway150.com and the Greenway is highlighted on the City of Calgary pathways and bikes app.

Summer Challenge medals and certificates will be awarded on Sept. 2 at four simultaneous events in each quadrant of the city.
