PROGRAM

Derek Kerr introduced Stephen Moorgen, the Salvation Army Modern Slavery and Human Trafficking Specialist. Stephen spent 14 years in enforcement and some time as a teacher before becoming a Human Trafficking Specialist with the Salvation Army.

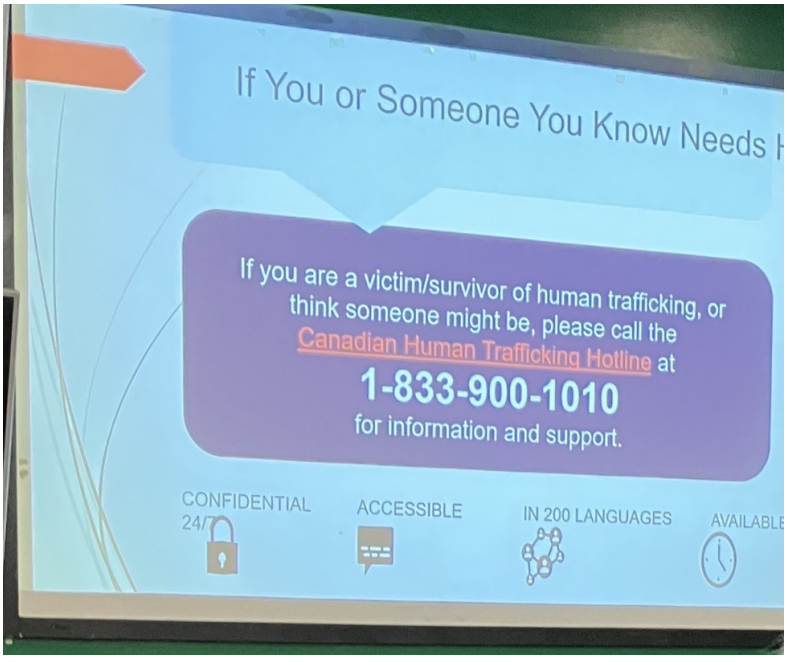

The Salvation Army has four specialists across Canada. Stephen is responsible for the Prairie region.

Anyone can be at risk to be targeted, groomed, manipulated, controlled, coerced and exploited by traffickers but vulnerability is increased by poverty and a history of abuse.

In Canada the reported incidents of trafficking between 2014 and 2024 is 5,070. 93% of the victims are women or girls and 41% of the victims were between the ages of 18 and 24.

In Canada, the average age of a trafficking victim is 13, in Saskatchewan the average age is 11.

One way to assist in combatting this serious problem is to educate yourself about modern slavery and human trafficking and insisting that our education system educate our children about the many methods used by the traffickers and their dangers.

Dorothy expressed the members thanks for the presentation.
