- Ross Afseth - Rotary Club of Saskatoon North
- Trudy Fisher - guest of Robert Fisher
- Tyler Paulgaard - guest of Sarah Leslie
- Cliff Hayes - Rotary Club of Saskatoon Meewasin
- 26 students participating in Adventures in Technology

They were welcomed with a rousing rendition of the Hello Song!

Sergeant at Arms

Don Somers (covering for Bernie Sonntag) asked for his usual golf and sports reports and managed to get a number of Rotarians to part with happy dollars.

- Mark Gryba donated a "stack of happy dollars" in celebration of the Saskatchewan Huskies and the fact his son Curtis is now a member of the Husky football team and will have his four years of university paid for by the team. Congratulations Curtis!
- Peter Whitenect happily walked 18 holes of golf, two times last week.
- Wayne McGillivray donated some happy bucks for the beginning of golf season and for his wife making sure he was awake to watch the Royal wedding live.
- Jim Weber is his usual happy self and announced that a high school in Dryden, Ontario has partnered with us through the "schools building schools" program to help our club with the building of schools in Guatemala.
- Gary Rusu fessed up that he has happily been working with London Life for 41 years - WOW! And he also greatly enjoyed the recent one day Rotary district conference.
- Peter Zakreski donated some happy dollars to thank Papa John's Pizza for supporting HOPE for Malawi Each Thursday, 10% of their profits will go towards drilling a bore hole. (Editor's note: I hope I got the details correct, Peter. I had to leave the meeting just as you got up to part with your money).

Molecular Resonance Coupling

Gary Rusu introduced Robert Fisher whose company Leaf & Stone has been providing molecular resonance coupling to the mining sector for the past number of years. Robert did a wonderful job of describing a complex subject in terms that everyone could understand and elicited quite a bit of interest from our Adventures in Technology guests.

Leaf & Stone is currently working on projects in Australia, Cambodia, and Africa. They purchased the technology they use from NASA and only really understand 4 to 7% of what molecular resonance coupling is capable of. Primarily they use the technology to see through rock 8500 feet below the surface. They primarily identify deposits of copper, silver, gold, kimberlite/diamonds and oil and gas. The majority of their clients are oil and gas companies and mining companies.

Robert showed some fascinating photographs of gold identified in Red Lake, Ontario (2700 feet under the ground). He also spoke about the largest potential diamond mine in the world at Fort a La Corne, Saskatchewan.

Interestingly enough, about 80% of the geologists in our province are still sceptical about the technology.
