PRESENTATION:

Our special guest today was Deanna Ford. Deanna is passionate about personal expression of all kinds. As well as being an author and speaker, she is a musician and a filmmaker. Deanna loves helping others find their unique voice so they, too, can communicate about topics they feel are important. Deanna provides coaching and training to help you speak about what's important to you. She'll also help you if you must speak at work.

Deanna loves speaking to audiences about presentation skills to help people express themselves. She shares skills, knowledge and strategies she's gained from over 35 years of experience in preparing for and stepping out in front of hundreds of audiences. Deanna strives to help create a world where respect exists between all people and for the natural environment. She believes that skills in respectful communication are critical to this success. One of her goals is to help people express themselves capably, comfortably and confidently. She also speaks about the environment and her love of nature and especially birds. Learn about that.

To connect with Deanna email her at deanna@deannaford.ca
Or call her at 807-475-3631

DEANNA'S BOOK:

Command the Stage is a practical and unique step-by-step guide that walks you through the speech preparation process that successful speakers use to confidently go from blank page to the stage.

It's a short yet comprehensive book designed to demystify and ease the speech preparation process so that you can speak more effectively and have more impact.

A particular strength of the book is the unique focus on your main preparation tool, your notes and how to incorporate strategic elements to create a visual landscape on the page that helps the your eyes navigate it more easily. This leads to better organized presentations and an easier time memorizing material should that be required.

Also included: strategies to develop the delivery prior to speaking; alternative ways to make notes; last minute and long presentations; critical pre-event considerations; ways to set up visual overheads effectively if they are needed; and, what to do at the presentation itself.

Command the Stage shares proven strategies and insights normally acquired through time consuming trial and error. This information will help you streamline your process and maximize your outcome.

FELLOWSHIP FINES:

Gail was in fine form opening with tribute from those of us who didn't make our bed this morning. Those who have never served as a door greeter were next to be recognized. Clifford was first with a happy dollar in praise of his great visit to Sioux Lookout. Paul shared his happy dollar for Anne who is touring Scotland and for being able to connect with her on her travels through regular facetime chats. Sandy shared her happy dollar to remind us that our meeting on September 23rd will be an offsite at former member Gary Mack's new business venture – Bay Village Coffee [more details to come]. Bill had the only sad dollar today to honour and acknowledge the passing of NHL legend Stan Makita.

FUN & SUN AT LOON LAKE:

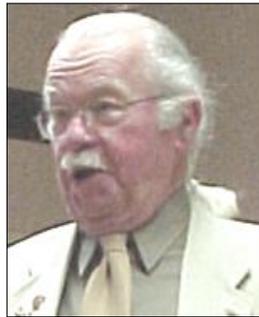

Roy and Jane Lucas will once again host us and our families for a day out at their cottage on Loon Lake. Mark the date in your books – SATURDAY, AUGUST 25th. It's a pot luck affair and we are invited to bring salads, entrees, or desserts. Roy has started a sign-up list so see him at meetings or contact him by email.

50/50:

Gail Kromm was our happy winner today and her share will be assembled with other weekly donations and forwarded to the Rotary Foundation in December.

BILL'S STUFF...

Bill Butuk is on his annual summer break but will return with his "Bill's Stuff" Column in September.
