Shape our future! Together we can realize our continued success and growth: Road Map 20/20! Part of our strategic plan is to determine a focus. Do we have one? Do we need to create one? If we already have one do we need to reinvigorate our focus, celebrate it, brand it, promote it?

Let's talk about it this coming Monday at the Annual Club Assembly. 5:30 -8:00 The National Club. Cost one lunch ticket. Register through the office.

This is a member only event. It is your club and we need your thoughts as to where and how we go forward.

What You Missed October 12, 2018 - by John Carr

Once again we are visiting Bill's place for our meeting today with a full house including heavy TV coverage.

Brian Westlake, the monitor, introduced five visiting Rotarians and had the remaining 20 visitors stand to be recognized with a welcome from President Jeff. Jeff also recognized Winnie Go, President of the National Club, as a visitor. Jeff reminded us of the District Conference in Wellington, Prince Edward County on October 27 and encouraged our attendance. He followed that up with an introduction of the new member, Takako Ito, Consul General of Japan in Toronto, who spoke to us recently. Bill Morari pinned on her badge and welcomed her, John Fortney then took the mic and reminded us that October 22 here at the National Club we will see our Club Assembly focus on our club objectives for the next few years.

Don Bell was host to our speaker, His Worship John Tory Mayor of The city of Toronto. Despite the high profile speaker, Don managed to do the introduction in exactly the 90 seconds prescribed for such formalities, including an invitation for the mayor to join our club.

Mayor John took time to congratulate the Japanese Consul General and compare the Tokyo central station to Union Station here. Expressing his astonishment and admiration for their system, he promised we would be striving for similar results at Union Station. A rising tide lifts all boats, and as the city prospers, so do its people. His message was very inclusive, pointing out that Toronto is a project needing continuous development and the necessity to stick with our plans in order to improve our poor record of building transit. Other government entities seem to be able to run several projects at once, while we get tied up in procedures that sent us back to the drawing board without producing anything. He boosted our club, quoting several of our important accomplishments over the years contributing to the way the city runs. He points out that the city is better than it was four years ago. It is a magnet for talent and notes the $1.4 billion new investment by private tech giants covered this week in the press. His point was that we need to keep to our principles, keep our city livable and continue with real estate tax at or below the level of inflation.

John says that he has worked well with other layers of government and it's his job to help forge partnerships to advance the interests of Toronto. An affordable Toronto is a key goal. He says his plan to realize 40,000 low rental units over 12 years, free transit for kids under 12 and low income fare passes are other parts of the plan. These things will help keep us on the most livable cities list.

In reply to a question from the floor voicing concern about the downtown services that were being eroded Mayor Tory replied that part of the city's mandate is to make things work. We have transit, health, safety, housing, and other files which require cooperation with the other levels of government. He also points out that this year they are building three new schools south of Front Street in our city, very surprising development.

Knud Westergaard claimed the Ace of Clubs prize by drawing the ace from a pack down to only seven cards. Knud won almost $5,000, and a similar amount was raised for our club by this draw. Knud attends regularly and buys lots of tickets, so where is the surprise!
