Program

Our new member, Billy Brauer speaks extemporaneously about his life.

Billy is a successful artist. Comes from NYC - had an illustrious start by failing art in H.S

He says children should always be encouraged (whether they are good or not).

Billy went to a Liberal Arts college, became a good golfer - shot a 68, got a golf scholarship, made 1st squad on college team

He entered the Visual Arts Academy in NYC but fell behind as he did not have enough formal background - all the students could really draw. He looked at subjects from a different standpoint.

When he was in the advertising business, all the other people had nice clothes - he was more the hippie type but had original ideas

He came to Vermont for a New Year's Party

Then he looked around for a place and found a house at 68 East Warren Rd. It was a dirt road back then. The house sold for $15,000 and he got a mortgage for $15/month, while he still had a job in NYC.

All he ever wanted to do was paint. He started raising sheep. Did the shearing etc.

People were nice to him - became friends with other hippies. It was an interesting time - did not have a studio as he was still connected to NYC.

He had a show in 72 - good start in the Brooklyn Museum. He was trying to make a living as a painter not as a farmer.

His life had difficult stages, but everybody helped him. He started teaching. Had the same class for 40 years.

He worked every Thursday - that way he knew what day it was.

In NYC, if you have no money - you are poor. In Vermont he got by exchanging time for goods. (He had lots of time)

His past is mixed up in his mind - the years look pretty much the same. Here in Vermont he did pretty much what he wanted to do and could get along without money. He took 10 years to test the waters

Finally sold a couple of paintings of women

Then he hooked up with a good outfit in Boston - very good job.

His class consumes one day per week - now teaching at his highest level. He took in students on the GI bill - some were policemen. One student got a job as a security guard for a museum and became a painter.

His job is to find out what people are good at. He gets models for free - people like to do it. He often works on more than one piece at a time.

He works with galleries and then puts on shows. Now he is established.

THE FOUR WAY TEST of the things we think, say or do:

1) Is it the Truth?

- 2) Is it Fair to All Concerned
- 3) Will it Build Goodwill and Better Friendships?

4) Will it be Beneficial to All Concerned?
