4-Way Test Essay Contest

Michael Magasinn, Chair

Michael Magasinn explained that high school students in the area were asked to take an event in their every day life and apply the principles of the 4-Way Test. Over 100 entries were received and reviewed by the committee. Michael then introduced Cary Runnels, Paul Dryman, Trevor Tyloch, David Harris, and Nelson Buss. Each of them then introduced one of the winners.

Each winning student read their essay to the group. Lizzy Benton spoke of teen age anxiety and how the principles aided her sense of herself. Nikki Zivkov described a burglary next door and how the neighbors bringing food and being beneficial to all concerned turned a bad situation into something good. Aliya Adegoke spoke of the challenge she faced when donating blood and choosing to be truthful about the rare blood type she had. Leela Mogadam spoke of a driver who hit her car and asked her to lie to the police, and how she knew she would not be doing good that way. Benjamin Chow described his experience with cyber bullying and how he resisted returning the aggression. All student winners were from TO High School except for Leela, who was from LaReina.
