Your Advantage...Our Passion

Building professional skills across borders

By Mona Mousa, past president of Rotaract Stockholm and its international representative

Idon't have a professional background in social media management, but I have managed several social media accounts such as Rotaract Stockholm and Rotaract Oceania. In advance of the Global Citizen Live event in Paris in September, the rest of my team decided I should handle the Rotary Instagram page, as they have followed me for a long time.

It was an exciting and a scary opportunity because there are thousands of followers, but I went in with an open mind.

I became more connected to Rotary about 3½ years ago through a friend and through my dad, who was the first one to tell me about Rotary and suggest I investigate it.

What appealed to me about Rotaract was the like-minded people I found there, and that it was a community where we can do projects and network for our own and society's benefit. It started as a place for me to find new people and friends when I moved back to Stockholm to pursue a bachelor's degree. I went in with no idea what to expect and enjoyed developing an international family.

Opening doors

Being a Rotaract member has opened so many doors for me, like the immediate connections and trust I built with Rotaract members globally. I made friendships that I don't think I'll ever lose. Rotaract gave me the opportunity to work on global projects for a good cause such as Move for GECAF (Give Every Child a Future). Through Move for GECAF, Rotaract has raised funds this year and last for children in the Pacific to get immunized against deadly diseases. What really made me proud is Move for GECAF's global reach with participants from 40 countries.

When the pandemic hit, many clubs struggled to remain active and suffered from low engagement online. A Rotaract member from Italy had the idea to open a Zoom link for any Rotaract members who were alone or wanted some company while working from home. As more people joined, we started to have online events, such as speakers, game and quiz nights, and even online parties with live DJs. With the pandemic, many of the big conferences like REM (Rotaract Europe Meeting) and EUCO (European Convention) were going to cancel their in-person events, so we decided to help run them online through Zoom. This gave us the opportunity to learn and manage events online. With all of the events, friendships grew and personal connections were made with people from all around the world. After almost two years, we still remain online with the same people we met in the beginning of 2020, and I couldn't be prouder to call them my friends and have a second online family to rely on.

Why Each One, Bring One is personal to us

By MaryJane Shackelford, District Governor (Rotary Club of Zanesville Daybreak, Ohio, USA); Jenny Stotts, District Membership Chair (Rotary Club of Athens Sunrise, Ohio); and Matt Wideman, Each One, Bring One Coordinator (Rotary Club of Lancaster, Ohio)

Why are you a member of Rotary? For a lot of people, the answer is you want to help others or build friendships. But why is this important to you? That's largely a personal question, and every person's story is unique. That is why we have found the best membership efforts have to start with the personal.

When Rotary International President Shekhar Mehta challenged Rotary members with his appeal of Each One, Bring One, we knew we had to get personal and inspire our members to share their Rotary experiences with others.

Our Each One, Bring One challenge had to include three things:

- A personal touch
- Customizable tools to set club leaders up for success
- Friendly competition

In our district, our membership effort begins with an exercise to inspire members to consider why Rotary matters to them. From there, members are asked to share their Rotary experiences with others and invite them to join a club meeting, a service project, or a social event. That member is then entered into our monthly drawing. Each month, a winner is selected and our district makes a cash donation to their favorite charity.

Over the first seven months, 461 guests have been invited by 309 Rotarians across 33 clubs. Of those guests, 249 have become members of Rotary.

There are a few notable themes across clubs that have enjoyed success.

- First, they focus on "who." Successful clubs are intentional about inviting individuals whose values align with Rotary.
- They connect with community members already engaged in service but haven't joined Rotary yet. Successful clubs have gotten into the habit of asking "who is missing here" to promote diversity and growth.
- They recognize and celebrate members who invite guests.
- And finally, they consider the value-proposition to the guest and ensure that the meeting or event adds value to the guest's day. Those same clubs know that follow-up is a key ingredient to welcoming new members into Rotary.

Using our Each One, Bring One tool kit, clubs are encouraged to develop a strong and reliable process to build relationships with guests as they transition to membership. Strong clubs educate and involve their entire membership in welcoming new guests and new members.

Each One, Bring One is a great reminder that the responsibility to grow Rotary belongs with every member, every day. We grow Rotary because it expands our capacity to do good in the world. When we engage all members and all clubs in this effort, we create organizational habits. These habits empower members to share their

Celebrating our Interactors & Rotaractors

On March 21st and March 24th, both the St. Andrew High School for Girls Interact Club and the UTECH Rotaract Club inducted 32 and 24 members, respectively. These inductions were attended by President Ammesha and Director Angella. Both participated in the induction ceremony and highlighted the importance of Rotary and the work it continues to do in the community.

Building professional skills across borders cont'd. fr page 9

This past September, at Global Citizen Live in Paris, we had another chance for engagement when Rotary International President-elect Jennifer Jones put together a Rotaract “social squad” to take over Rotary’s Instagram stories to showcase Rotary’s involvement in global events. The social squad consisted of me, Pauline Amiel (France), Hanh Minh (Vietnam) and Tamara Gojkovic, my online best friend from World Rotaract Week. Tamara and I had tried so many times throughout the year to meet up somewhere either in my country or hers (Bosnia), but it never worked out until Global Citizen Live.

For the event, I was given creative freedom within respectable limits to showcase on Instagram what the event was all about. I wasn’t sure at first how to set the tone for the content, but I decided on a fun yet professional approach that people would enjoy.

Creating excitement

To create excitement and anticipation, I posted stories asking people where they thought we were heading, starting with our train ride to the Global Citizen Live event. At the hotel, we posted little hints of what we were doing, then posted how we were preparing for the event to engage followers and show off the skills and capabilities of Rotary and Rotaract members as we collaborated.

I was excited to see people interacting through the comments. My favorite part was people guessing where they thought we were heading. Some were correct and some were funny. I was also inspired by how many people tagged and posted about the event and were tuning in to watch Jennifer Jones from home.

I’m hoping this “social squad” takeover experience will allow me to take on similar opportunities and experiences and use social media to promote what Rotary and Rotaract are doing. We already had a panel discussion with Rotaract Oceania where we spoke about the international connections we made through the pandemic. I led a breakout session talking about international collaboration, and specifically about the Instagram takeover and how Rotary connected us internationally over a project. Despite the loneliness and sadness the pandemic has caused for many, we Rotaract members found a silver lining by creating the best friends we could ever imagine.

Why Each One, Bring One is personal to us

personal Rotary experiences with the people around them... and all of Rotary and all of the world is better because of it.

Not all of the people write or express their gratitude. But to be honest, I don’t expect this. After what these people have gone through – the fear, stress, spending three to four days at the border – we do not need them to say, “thank you.” We just need to make sure these people are safe and that they get what they need to survive and help others.

Now is the time for understanding. Of course, when some of the people do write their appreciation, it is a pleasure.

TRY TO LIVE IT RIGHT

by Webster Edwards

There are some tasks for which we have been given a multiplicity of opportunities to succeed. We can fail repeatedly, before redoubling our efforts to achieve success.

Many great persons of our times have had such experiences. One friend told me that he had failed his final professional exams three times before eventually succeeding.

But there are other things for which we have been afforded a single chance to achieve success. Once we fail, that opportunity disappears, and we spend the rest of our lives melancholy moping over an opportunity that has been permanently lost.

The world is filled with persons who failed to grasp such opportunities when they were presented. Let not your experiences be conditioned by regrets.

Instead, approach life with extreme caution. Think carefully before exercising choices. Remember, it's your only life, so please try to live it right.

2. Deal fairly with others and treat them and their occupations with respect.
