Rotary ramps up COVID-19 vaccination efforts

by Ryan Hyland

Rotary clubs around the world are mobilizing in their communities to support the introduction and delivery of COVID-19 vaccinations. Rotary leaders are urging members to connect with their local health agencies to determine how Rotary can support COVID-19 vaccine efforts.

Rotary has decades of experience in supporting the distribution of polio vaccines as well as highlighting their power and efficacy, which is a critical reason why polio is on the brink of eradication. It's this expertise, along with strategic partnerships and innovation, that Rotary members can tap into to protect communities from COVID-19.

John Hall, president of the Rotary Club of Trenton, North Carolina, receives his first dose of the COVID-19 vaccine at the Jones County immunization day.

Back-up for health officials

Rotary International President Holger Knaack and Foundation Trustee Chair K.R. "Ravi" Ravindran have called on Rotary members to take action on a number of levels. Rotary members in North Carolina, USA, quickly organized to offer assistance to health officials. District leaders contacted the state's secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) to strategize support efforts.

The six district governors in North Carolina joined the state's health department in conducting a webinar, open to the more than 12,200 Rotary members in North Carolina, to provide information about the available COVID-19 vaccines, how they will be distributed, and answer their questions so they can serve as role models and instill confidence in the vaccines in their community.

"Rotarians are leaders who are looked upon for guidance, and the more information and opportunity to share ideas with health officials, the better," said Dawn Rochelle, governor of Rotary district 7730 (North Carolina).

Members volunteered at local vaccination sites across the state to help health officials with logistics including data entry, crowd control, and check-ins. Members also provide health workers and volunteers with food and beverages. In addition, the districts provided the state health department with a spreadsheet that included a Rotary member contact for each of the 100 counties in North Carolina.

Nancy Barbee and Rochelle, past governors of the same district, volunteered together during National Immunization Days in India. It's those experiences with mass immunization for polio that helped them identify specific needs for how members can help support COVID-19 vaccinations.

"The polio eradication initiative gives a blueprint that provides strategy that is effective in any community," says Rochelle, who took part in two polio immunization drives in India. "Governments take the lead on immunizations there and here in the U.S., but what's critical to the success is the additional layer of support Rotarians bring. We are here to back-up the frontline workers with anything they need. It's amazing to see the response of North Carolina Rotarians."

New joint COVID-19 taskforce gives direction to clubs

At a meeting in December, the Rotary International Board of Directors and Rotary Foundation Trustees created a joint taskforce that will help guide upcoming efforts to distribute the

Consistency is the key to successful communication

By Liz Courtney, assistant public image coordinator for Zone 8 (Australia, New Zealand & Pacific Islands)

Since the COVID-19 pandemic, we are working in a virtual world and it has created a huge upsurge in using technology to communicate. We know that using social media and online marketing tools can reach a huge audience in a cost-effective way and it gives Rotary clubs an opportunity to be seen by many. As a training leader, I often teach clubs how to make sure their club logo is used correctly and consistently in their communications, especially online and on social media, because consistency builds trust and recognition. Here's what I share during my trainings.

TAKE THE COURSE

We know from research that people learn differently and relate better to a visual learning experience. So I recommend you start by taking the Learning Center course "Our Logo: Representing Rotary," which takes you through the process of using the Rotary logo in your club's communications. Easy? Yes, and the course has the advantage that you can go back and revisit it whenever you want.

CREATE YOUR LOGO

Next, go into the Brand Center to create your club logo. Then, download your logo in all the file formats you need: a PDF for print materials, and a JPEG or PNG for presentations, Word documents, and web use. Save them to your computer to create your own logo library for the future. I also recommend you share the updated club logo with other members so you are all using the correct club logo. Share it with your partners in your community so that they're not relying on Google to find the correct Rotary logo.

APPLY YOUR NEW LOGO TO EVERYTHING

Every club should have a public image chair who is up-to-date with the latest knowledge about marketing and communications and can lead a club through this process. But it's also important for all of us to know how to use our club's logo.

- Check your club website and social media pages. Are you using the logo you just created in the Brand Center? If not, remove what you have and replace it with the logo you just created.
- Ask your club public image chair and other committee chairs to go through all your club's materials to make sure the proper club logo is being used. This could include email signatures and PowerPoint presentations. (As a club member, you should add your club's logo to your email signature for Rotary-related communications.)
- posters and advertising materials. Before printing any new materials check that the correct club logo is being used and update as needed.

If the material has already been printed, assess the cost of reprinting it. Prioritize reprinting materials that are public-facing, like a banner you use at a club event or brochures you hand out to potential members. (And while you're at it, add a QR code that can direct the public directly to your club. We have now become COVID-19 vaccines and advocate for people to get vaccinated. The newly formed group will also share information promoting vaccine acceptance, and encourage service projects to stop the spread of the disease, such as social distancing, wearing masks, and washing hands frequently.

In a joint letter to district leaders, Knaack and Ravindran said members have a successful history of getting things done when help is needed. "Through the hundreds of global grants and projects, Rotary members have demonstrated what we can accomplish to raise awareness, deliver critical personal protection equipment, and provide support to frontline health workers," they said in the letter.

The two Rotary leaders called particular attention to the importance of one specific call to action: combatting vaccine hesitancy. "Help us combat the powerful, growing force of vaccine resistance and misinformation. Our advocacy in our communities will be critical – we need to spread the message about the power of vaccines to save lives," they urged.

Other ways clubs can mobilize around COVID-19 vaccine introduction and delivery at the local level include community education, ensuring equitable distribution of the vaccine, helping stop the continued spread of the disease, and aiding local health authorities to get prepared for mass vaccinations.

The infrastructure created by Rotary and its Global Polio Eradication Initiative (GPEI) partners is already supporting efforts to combat COVID-19. The GPEI recently announced that it is ready to support the rollout of COVID-19 vaccines.

more familiar with this over the last year and it's a great way to easily direct traffic to your website or social media account.)

- Use People of Action assets to build a folder of club photos to use while promoting your club activities. You can take your own photos or find images in the Brand Center. Add them to your website, social media, pull-up banners and project signage, along with your club logo.

We can attract many people to Rotary by being smart about how we market ourselves. Taking these steps will give your club a consistent look that will build trust and awareness of your club in your community.

Rotary's Cause – Providing clean water

Rotary-USAID Partnership

Rotary International has partnered with the United States Agency for International Development (USAID) to support lasting, positive change in water, sanitation, and hygiene (WASH).

This unique public-private partnership leverages the business skills and community leadership of our volunteers with USAID's technical expertise and government relationships.

OUR WORK

Rotary volunteers work with USAID and governmental agencies as monitors, inspectors, facilitators, mentors, advocates, and instructors in communities, schools, and clinics.

Building on an initial collaboration in the Dominican Republic, Ghana, and the Philippines, Rotary and USAID together have committed $4 million for work in each of three countries: Ghana, Madagascar, and Uganda. As part of Rotary's commitment of $2 million per country, Rotary clubs in each country are responsible for raising $200,000.

SPOTLIGHT: IMPROVING WATER AND SANITATION IN GHANA

In Ghana, 6 million people lack access to clean water, leaving them vulnerable to water-related illnesses. Contaminated water and poor sanitation cause 70 percent of all illnesses in Ghana.

Rotary volunteers in Ghana work alongside USAID and local government agencies. They drill wells, improve toilets and latrines, support hygiene programs, mentor community members, and advocate for water and sanitation services.

We could not ask for a better partner than Rotary as we seek to implement our government's program to provide potable water and good sanitation for our people. President of Ghana Nana Addo Dankwa Akufo-Addo

ROTARY-USAID IN GHANA

By 2020, Rotarians from 35 clubs across Ghana and their partners will have facilitated the completion of more than 200 sustainable water, sanitation, and hygiene education projects in 6 regions of the country. You can read dispatches from Rotarians working on the ground on the Rotary Voices blog.

Your Advantage...Our Passion

☺ MOTIVATIONAL QUOTE ☺ Smile at your troubles

By Webster Edwards

Everything will not always be to our liking, and things will sometimes go awry over time.

The days will not always be bright and sunny, and the clouds will sometimes hide our vision of the skies.

But life goes on in all its fullness, and we are charged with the expectation of coping come what may.

Every life has its challenges, and the uphill battles will always be there to be faced.

Smile therefore at your troubles, and breathe in the freshness of constant renewal and hope.

For there is meaning to the life we experience, and joy is always there to be found.
