

Dave Donovan – Emergency Management

Dave Donovan is the Coordinator for the Scott County Emergency Management Agency. His task is to encourage individuals and groups within the surrounding area to be prepared when disasters and emergencies occur. Much of his career has been associated with Scott County Departments.

What is Community Preparedness?

- Personal Preparedness
- The conscious act of taking steps to better deal with emergency

or unusual situations

- Step 1 – Be Informed: What are your Risks or Hazards and where will you get Information
- Step 2 - Make a Plan:
  - How you will get out or how you will take shelter
  - Where you will meet and how you will communicate
- Step 3 – Make a Kit:
  - Be Red Cross Ready or READY.gov
  - Include essential things like food, water, weather radio, important papers, etc.
- Organizational Preparedness: Extending the Personal Preparedness concepts into the workplace, the school, the church, the club, anywhere you spend time regularly
  - Step 1 – Be informed: Is there a plan; what are the risks or hazards?
  - Step 2 – Develop or Update Plan; include continuity of operations
  - Step 3 – Train and Test the Plan
  - Step 4 – Adjust the Plan and repeat
- Community Planning, Emergency Response and Emergency Management
  - Most (not all!) towns and cities have a current EOP (emergency operations plan)
  - Each County is required to have an Emergency Management Commission and a plan
  - County and Municipal plans:
    - Tend to address responsibility, communication, coordination, mutual aid and continuity
    - Can take many forms
    - Should adopt National Incident Management System (NIMS) for incident control
    - Other community disaster related plans and terms include:
      - Hazard Vulnerability/Assessment (HVA, THIRA): should drive our planning
      - Hazard Mitigation: identify and mitigate repetitive losses
      - Continuity (COOP, COG): plan for how to continue business or services; include succession
      - Radiological Emergency Plan (REP): mandated for areas (10 mi) around nuclear power

- LEPC: Local Emergency Planning Committee (community right-to-know)
- ESF: Emergency Support Function

2018-19 RI President Barry Rassin wants Rotary members to

Be the Inspiration Together

By Hank Sartin Photos by Monika Lozinska

Rotary International President-elect Barry Rassin laid out his vision for the future of the organization on Sunday, calling on leaders to work for a sustainable future and to inspire Rotarians and the community at large.

Rassin, a member of the Rotary Club of East Nassau, New Providence, Bahamas, unveiled the 2018-19 presidential theme, Be the Inspiration, to incoming district governors at Rotary's International Assembly in San Diego, California. "I want you to inspire in your clubs, your Rotarians, that desire for something greater. The drive to do more, to be more, to create something that will live beyond each of us."

2018-19 RI President Barry Rassin announces his presidential theme, Be the Inspiration, at Rotary's International Assembly. Rassin stressed the power of Rotary's new vision statement, "Together, we see a world where people unite and take action to create lasting change — across the globe, in our communities, and in ourselves." This describes the Rotary that leaders must help build, he said.

To achieve this vision, the president-elect said, Rotarians must take care of the organization: "We are a membership organization first. And if we want to be able to serve, if we want to succeed in our goals — we have to take care of our members first."

Rassin asked the incoming district governors to "inspire the club presidents, and the Rotarians in your districts, to want to change. To want to do more. To want to reach their own potential. It's your job to motivate them — and help them find their own way forward."

Rassin noted that one source of inspiration has been Rotary's work to eradicate polio. He described the incredible progress made over the past three decades. In 1988, an estimated 350,000 people were paralyzed by the wild poliovirus; just 20 cases were reported in 2017 as of 27 December. "We are at an incredibly exciting time for polio eradication," he said, "a point at which each new case of polio could very well be the last."

He emphasized that even when that last case of polio is recorded, the work won't be finished. "Polio won't be over, until the certifying commission says it's over—when not one poliovirus has been found, in a river, in a sewer, or in a paralyzed child, for at least three years," he said. "Until then, we have to keep doing everything we're doing now." He urged continued dedication to immunization and disease surveillance programs.

Sustaining the environment

Rotary has focused heavily on sustainability in its humanitarian work in recent years. Now, Rassin said, Rotarians must acknowledge some hard realities about pollution, environmental degradation, and climate change. He noted that 80 percent of his own country is within one meter of sea level. With sea levels projected to rise two meters by 2100, he said, "my country is going to be gone in 50 years, along with most of the islands in the Caribbean and coastal cities and low-lying areas all over the world."

Rassin urged leaders to look at all of Rotary's service as part of a larger global system. He said that this means the incoming district governors must be an inspiration not only to clubs, but also to their communities. "We want the good we do to last. We want to make the world a better place. Not just here, not just for us, but everywhere, for everyone, for generations."
