FRIDAY—AT THE STEEPLEGATE

Martin Luther King Jr. Community Center Jerry Jones, Executive Director

I feel incredibly fortunate to have worked at the Martin Luther King Jr. Community Center for the past 12 years. Every day, we have the opportunity to instill young people, who have encountered tragedy and even despair, with a sense of hope. In all of them I see vast potential to be great. We simply need to convince them of their potential, provide the opportunity to work towards it and encourage them to realize it. It is that belief that drives my efforts. I dream of the day that the King Center is thought of as the most effective resource for youth to actualize their potential. I see youth not just completing high school but excelling so that they can choose their future as lawyers, business leaders, or even non-profit directors. But it is not a pipe dream. It is not just possible. It is expected. The staff give their best efforts on a daily basis to bring this to reality. Despite a limited budget, the King Center enjoys some of the best staff in the Quad Cities who bring high quality services. The result has been a growing use of our programs. Last year, over 150 kids attended camp daily. This year's numbers will be close to the same. We have seen the same trend in the afterschool and drug prevention programs. The results: 70 percent improve their grades, 90 percent improve attendance, 95 percent display improved decision making skills. Still, these results do not compare to the stories we hear from parents and teachers who see dramatic changes in the behavior of their kids simply because there are more people in their lives that believe in them.

This is what I am a part of and it is what drives me in the face of a budget crisis, skepticism, disbelief, and despair. There are days that the weight of the world in on me but one hour teaching a child their multiplication tables and I feel on top of the world. What happens at the King Center inspires me to be great at what I do and to expect that in those that we serve. I am incredibly fortunate.

Meeting Notes December 17, 2010 Holiday Party at Hotel Black Hawk

One hundred eight Rotary members and guests were privileged to be entertained by the Davenport Central High School Choir and Miss Iowa, Pauli Mayfield, on Friday evening, December 17, 2010.

Jody Johnston-Mohr, chair of the social committee, secured the newly renovated Hotel Black Hawk for one of their first holiday parties. Everything was perfect as Mike Reese and his talented choir sang holiday songs while dinner was served.

Charlie Jones received a surprise gift delivered from Santa himself, via Miss Iowa. It was a Rotary theme necktie from the Carl was left out earlier that week when Illinois presidents received ties at the area meeting at the iWireless center. One of Santa's elves came all the way down from the North Pole, just so that Miss Iowa could deliver the special tie to Charlie.

Julie Martens, mother of Miss Iowa, was also an honored guest that evening. Miss Iowa sang some songs and told about her send off party the week before at the Adler Theater. She is probably in Las Vegas at this time, competing in the Miss America pageant, which will be broadcast on January 15 on ABC.

2. Is it FAIR to all concerned?
3. Will it build GOOD WILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
4. Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?
