FRIDAY'S PROGRAM: DAVENPORT FLOOD TASK FORCE, WEATHER TRENDS AND CONSIDERATIONS

Everyone has an opinion about the weather, but Friday we'll have a chance to hear from someone who makes a living analyzing it every day.

Ray Wolf is the Science and Operations Officer for the NOAA National Weather Service (NWS) office in Davenport (at Mount Joy), and has been a member of the North Scott community since 1994.

He is responsible for leading office operations, training and research. Most recently he is a member of the Davenport Flood Task Force, and will give an update on the activities of that group which was formed after the record Mississippi River floods of 2019.

From 1990-94, Ray was a forecaster at the NWS office in Denver, Colorado, where he evaluated new forecast and warning technologies utilizing a prototype AWIPS workstation and NCAR's Mile-hi Doppler radar that formed the basis of the NWS Modernization.

Prior to 1990, he served as a NWS agricultural forecaster in the MidSouth, supporting farmers and producers in the region with weather and climate information.

Ray received a master of science degree in Agricultural Climatology in 1985 and a bachelor of science degree in Meteorology in 1982 from Iowa State University.

Ray and his wife, Cindy, reside in Park View. Their three children, Jeffery, Matthew, and Kimberly, are all North Scott graduates.

NORTH SCOTT ROTARY MISSISSIPPI MUDDER

Saturday August 17th 2019
7 AM to close (Help needed at 6 AM)

The North Scott Rotary Mississippi Mudder is a 5K mud run obstacle course filled with 30+ obstacles.

Run up and down hills, through pastures, woods, and rugged terrain. Climb over and under obstacles and finish with a creek you'll snake through in the last 1/3 mile!

All ages and levels of ability are welcome. The course is challenging and will test your endurance. Walkers are encouraged to participate and all obstacles are optional. Some obstacles may seem difficult while others are 'a piece of cake'. The Mississippi Mudder is great for team building—no experience necessary!

LAST WEEK

LAST WEEK - August 2, 2019 – Emily Shenk-DeMay: Mississippi Valley Regional Blood Center

Sixty-three members and guests attended on Friday. Visiting Rotarians were Duncan Cameron, Naples, FL and Mary Egger and Emily Shenk-DeMay, Iowa Quad Cities Rotary Club. Additional guests were Nancy Case and Angie Reese, guests of Scott Case, Reed Hittle, guest of Duncan Cameron and Theresa White, prospective member. Also present were 4 guests of John Maxwell, Norlin Mommsen, Robert Maxwell, Mary and Brian Christenson.

John Maxwell gave a recap of the Corn Boil and Glen Keppy told how appreciative the Veterans Center and Salvation Army meal site were for the donations of corn and tomatoes. Sara Somsy received her blue badge and Ryan Johnson won the 50/50 drawing for $100.00. Brad Burt was the sergeant and collected $61.00 in fines.

Emily Shenk-DeMay has been with the Mississippi Valley Blood Center for 15 years. She herself is a blood recipient and had a powerful story to tell about her “near death” experience with an ectopic pregnancy. She first fell ill on a Friday afternoon at work and when she came to on Sunday morning, in the hospital, she was receiving a blood transfusion for her own employer.

MVRBC serves 110 hospitals and has 18 fixed donor centers. Hospitals are from Madison, WI to Peoria, IL. The blood that was donated yesterday will be transfused tomorrow. One donation can save 4 lives. Trauma patients receive a universal type blood, as they are not able to be typed. Red blood must be used within 42 days, plasma can be frozen for up to a year.
