Donna Moore Dresses for Girls

DAGdesmoines.aol.com

Donna has been involved in this world-wide project for several years and has recently involved those of the Urbandale Community. She noted St. Pius, Drake University athletics, and The Reserve provided rooms for the group to work, or provided volunteers who cut and made the kits for dresses. She has met local connections to church groups that have access to pilots and planes to fly the dresses along with supplies and prepared meals to Ghana ad Hati.

Our speaker detailed all the local volunteers and groups who assist in cutting and creating packets of dresses to be sewn. There are other volunteers that sew the "kits" and create the dresses for girls and attach a special emblem to show that the girls are cared for.

How can we help as individuals or as a group?

Donations of t-shirts that are used to make the bodices of the dresses, cutting the fabric to help assemble kits, providing fabric and trims for the dresses, or monetary donations to buy materials are all ways for each of us to get involved.

To read more or find out details, you can read "Dress a Girl Around the World" because every girl deserves at least one dress. National organization: dressagirlaroundtheworld.com

Donna's personal email can be used to help you make a donation or assist her in this huge local volunteer effort.
