THE FOUR WAY TEST THAT ROTARIANS USE IN MAKING ETHICAL DECISIONS:

Is it the truth? Is it fair to all concerned? Will it build goodwill and better friendships? Will it be beneficial to all concerned?

New Member Induction

Julia Straley is a native of Muskegon, where she graduated from Western Michigan Christian high school and then earned her BA in Accounting and Finance from Western Michigan University. Most recently, she became a Certified Professional life and business Coach from the World Coach Institute and the International Coach Federation. She lived for the past 25 years with her two sons in the mountain town of Park City, UT, before moving back to Muskegon to care for her father.

Julia is the owner of Pro Accountability, a firm that provides a full suite of accounting and business advisory services. Her goal is to help business owners alleviate the stress of running their businesses so they can focus on the big ideas that make things happen.

She has been in the finance and accounting fields for over 30 years. She has extensive experience in the field and has held positions such as financial manager, business analyst, and controller. Then, after working in the sector for a while, she made the decision that she wanted to be a part of something bigger than herself. So she joined the Peace Corps in Uganda, where she spent two and a half years working with women in development, microfinance, and with projects that assisted children orphaned by the AIDS epidemic.

She enjoys exploring the world, serving as a mentor and coach, staying active outside, pursuing her artistic interests, and working on being a lifelong learner.

Her passion is to make a positive impact by assisting individuals and organizations in finding their success in life.

THIS WEEK'S PROGRAM: Lazarusman Consulting

Introduced by: Asaline Scott

Speaker: Cedric Scott, LLPC

Reporter: Meredith Smillie

Asaline Scott introduced our presenter, Cedric Scott. Cedric and Dr. Dave Wingard started Lazarusman Consulting to create a stronger community in Muskegon County.

They are running a federally qualified counseling center and was also created to address health equity issues in Kent, Oceana, Ottawa, and Muskegon counties. Established in 2009, they are a community-based service provider whose focus is to address the growing need to treat individuals for behavioral-mental health related problems. There is a shortage of mental health providers in Muskegon County with clinicians experiencing higher than state average for a client caseload. Muskegon mental health providers are very low; 1 clinician for every 431 clients. Areas of Muskegon County are experiencing significant levels of poverty, challenges to education, and high levels of crime which leads to high levels of trauma and stress due to shortages.

Lazarusman serves our community with having a local location in the heart of Muskegon, culturally diverse staff, evidence-based practices, assessments, individual therapy, group therapy, family therapy, research and evaluation and leveraging resources. They have diversity of staff (and the degrees that they hold) and utilize multiple treatment modalities. Dr. Wingard spearheads the return-on-investment data gathered and how to best leverage resources provided. They work on community engagement, substance abuse treatment, research and program evaluation, mental health services, domestic violence services and anger management classes.

Lazarusman has a small staff, but they are making a very large impact in our community. Dr. Wolf operates BRAINS in Grand Rapids and provides neuro-psychological support to children and families. Lazarusman also runs a CPR mentoring program at Covenant Academy.

Additionally, they provide group services, mentoring, and individual sessions for youth that are living and attending Covenant Academy. They have an evidenced based program that is aimed at reducing aggression via an Aggression Replacement Training Workbook and help with developing social skills, anger control and moral reasoning techniques. Lazarusman also partners with other community resources and agencies that provide internships, job shadowing opportunities, to develop job skills and allow students the opportunity to attend secondary educational institutions.

Lazarusman's domestic violence groups are designed to help community members to not feel attacked as they go through classes and develop supports. The goal is to deliver information to individuals in a healthy and positive manner. They also offer a shoplifting and theft addiction treatment regimen. This groups helps to prevent and reduce theft behaviors. They also provide groups for substance use disorders, as well as individual treatment. They provide driver's license evaluations for driving reinstatement. They have highway safety education groups to learn how negative self-talk may drive substance use related accidents.

Lazarusman is developing a niche for supporting our community. For more information, please visit their website at: www.lazarusman.com for consulting services, productive development, and more. The Hub has awarded over $200,000.00 in grant funds to eligible businesses through the BAF program. The Hub is looking for more referrals from the community – help spread the word.
