The Plus in PolioPlus

The Global Polio Eradication Initiative was launched in 1988 by Rotary International and the World Health Organization when there were an estimated 350,000 cases of polio in 125 countries. Cases have been reduced by 99.9% since that time. Rotary members have contributed more than $2.2 billion and countless volunteer hours to this effort. To support the renewed GPEI campaign, Rotary International President Jennifer Jones appeared at the Global Citizen Festival on 24 September to announce an additional US$150 million pledge toward that end.

PolioPlus, the first and largest internationally coordinated private-sector support of a public health initiative, was started 1985. For more than 30 years, the PolioPlus campaign has been instrumental to the effort to eradicate polio but has provided a big plus in other areas to improve overall health care. Monitoring multiple disease activities, disease prevention, providing clean water and creating jobs are just a few of the “plus” benefits of this program. See what RI is doing here, <https://www.rotary.org/en/plus-polioplus>.

The eradication of polio is one of RI's longest standing and most significant efforts. We won't stop until we end the disease for good.
