

VOLUNTEER CONFIDENTIALITY AGREEMENT

All Mobile Food Pantry participants have the right to expect that their information be kept private. No identifying information (photo, name, address, family circumstances,) may be revealed to anyone outside the Mobile Food Pantry Distribution, unless permission is given in writing. It is possible for others, even without knowledge of a name, to recognize a person's identity from details disclosed outside of FBA, so these details should not be shared without express permission.

Information, including name, address, phone and income, and is confidential. Any notes about an individual/family's need, amount donated or a donor's motivation to give is confidential. Your signature here indicates that you will respect confidentiality and will not share information you may learn with anyone outside of Food Bank of Alaska. This includes confidential information entered in Food Bank of Alaska's databases, on any forms or paperwork, or any information acquired during conversations in the course of your volunteer work.

Any questions regarding confidentiality should be addressed to the Volunteer Coordinator or directly to the Manager of the program with which you are volunteering.
