HAPPY BUCK$

Matthew Nicolai is happy to announce that his son took his PE exam and thinks he passed. He is also happy to recommend that he almost sold out of his raffle tickets while visiting Anchorage East Rotary Club...a heavy dose of guilt tactics works every time.

Chuck Becker is happy to be volunteering and helping out with the American Red Cross effort taking place in NY City over the next two weeks.

Karl Berglund is happy to not be sick after having a recent cold and fever, and he's all caught up on his school work.

Lynn Spivey is happy to announce our outbound exchange student Bergan Borer.

George Frushour is happy to be back at a Rotary meeting, and he also recently received an email from a friend in Europe who said that there is a train running in his area that has a large Rotary advertisement on its side. Rotary's reach is clearly far and wide.

Mike Griffin is happy to be back after spending three weeks hunting in the Midwest. He had one encounter with a skunk, and he also entered his dog Penny into a competition and she won.

Walt Murphy is happy to announce that he will be going to the World Master's Games in Italy.

Jenny Murray is happy to announce her guest who is a visiting Rotarian from Ketchikan.

Bob Brodie is happy to be able to announce that Notre Dame is 8 and 0.

Dave Stratton is happy to announce that technology is a wonderful thing...as you can translate between one language and another on Facebook. John Brandt is home, and keep Josh in your prayers.

Amy Mackey-Hornak is happy to introduce her guest Bruce with Business Tech Solutions.

Jess Henker is happy to announce the great time that was had by all on the Halloween fun bus. She recommends that we, as a Rotary club, may want to do something similar to help raise money for our club.

Allen Bingham is glad to give a happy buck on behalf of Kevin VanNortwick for the scoop reporter.

Terri Hall is happy to be at her first ASR meeting and sporting her new Red Badge.

Ryan Callaway has a nervous buck as he has no badge. He also is happy to announce that he has dictionaries for his team.

Rabah Chettfour is happy to announce his guest.

Chris Dunn has a happy $10 in honor of his being able to take part in providing a Christmas celebration and gifts to 1,000 orphans.

Ross Johnson has a happy $5 to introduce his guest and our speaker Ken Miller with Bean's Café.

PROGRAM Speaker: Ken Miller, Director of Development for Bean's Café

Bean's Café is one of Alaska's most well-known not for profit organizations. Although Bean's Café provides numerous services for its client base; i.e., meals, transportation, social services and both day and night shelter, its primary mission is to provide a sense of hope for the individuals that it serves.

The clients at Bean's Café range from the working poor, working individuals who are employed but unable to make ends meet, those with mental health issues, those who migrate from rural Alaska to Anchorage (rural to urban migration), and young children who are served through Title 1 schools receiving meal gifts from the Children's School Lunch Box program.

Bean's Café is currently operating from a $2 million budget, and is successfully serving over 600,000 per year.
