HAPPY BUCK$

Jan Henderson is happy to share that we should all be careful of computer viruses. She recently received an email from who appeared to be Bank of America requesting that she fill out the provided form and return. Upon further investigation the email turned out to be a scam.

Amy Mackey-Hornak is happy to announce her guest Clayton with Alaska Law Offices.

Lynn Spivey has a happy $5 for the time that she spent with our exchange student Karl.

Mike Morrison is happy to be back as he suffered greatly while vacationing in the warmer climate watching Tiger Woods play golf. It was awesome!

Dave Stratton is happy to announce that he is heading south to Mexico for a 30 day sabbatical.

Chuck Becker has an observation buck. If you received an email from him it really was not from him. He was having Yahoo issues on his computer and later found that he had his password typed in an area that could easily be retrieved by a hacker. The moral of this story is that you should not leave your passwords on your computer.

Chris Horton has a happy buck for his son's recent success in a hockey tournament. He would also like to invite everyone to please come and visit the Jewelry Cache. They will be having a liquidation sale and will be closing their doors at the end of February.

Scott McMurren is just happy to be happy.

Laura Godenzi is happy to announce that she survived her trip to Vegas as well as watching her daughter play hockey in minus 20 degree temps in Soldotna.

George Frushour is happy to be back from playing in the sun.

Paul Michelsohn is happy to be back from Las Vegas, and he is also happy to report that Josh Jennett, as well as his physicians, are optimistic.

John Sturgeon is happy to report that he had a great time in Reno at the Safari Club International.

Program Speaker: Alice Rogaff, Publisher of Alaska Dispatch

Alaska Dispatch offers the latest Alaska news, politics, opinion, culture, current events, and happenings around the world. It is your online news source - Voices from the Last Frontier.

The Alaska Dispatch and its crew are trying to make Alaska a center for journalism. They currently have approximately one million readers each month, and forty one thousand Facebook friends.

Their online ad revenue is going up like most other online publications. Their opinion is that other news mediums are on the decline. Visit their website at www.alaskadispatch.com for the latest news or browse their online photo gallery and you can be the judge.

Kevin's Korner:

In cities no one is quiet but many are lonely; in the country, people are quiet but few are lonely.
Geoffrey F. Fisher

As we enter into the hardest part of winter, according to psychologists, let's continue to reach out to others, being friendly and welcoming no matter their response. In this way, we can fight the winter loneliness and sadness that can so easily occur in many.
