HAPPY BUCK$

Dean McVey is happy to encourage all to purchase their Glacier Pilots tickets for only $20.00 with 50% of the proceeds going to Polio Plus.

Jan Henderson is not happy to share that the moose who recently visited her yard are happy as they ate all of her beautiful flowers that were wintered all season long. The dreadful flower eating moose...

Colleen Baer is happy to announce that she will be celebrating her birthday next week.

Ross Johnston is happy to announce our guest speaker who will be introduced later.

Jenny Carty is happy to encourage everyone to sign up for the Changing of the Guard Dinner that is taking place June 19th at the Petroleum Club. This year's theme is golf – Hawaiian island style attire.

Jess Hinker is happy to share that they had a moose as a left fielder during her recent softball game. The moose are out and about.

Paul Michelsohn is happy to announce that he recently had a nice business meeting back East and is also happy to introduce his guest and nephew, Dellis Kassik.

Amy Mackey Hornak is happy to announce that she is feeling well after being sick for three weeks. She is also happy to share that she is well on her way to converting the soccer field at her house into a peony farm.

Scott McMurren has a happy buck for the Slipper Salmon and the great hospitality offered by Susan Kaer.

Michael Ferris is happy to introduce his wife Shannon and his son Curtis.

Julia Tucker is happy to share that Vesta is working at Suite 100, and if it's a sunny day she works the deck over at the Bradley House. And if we are lucky we will see Vesta at the Changing of the Guard dinner.

Lynn Spivey is happy to pay up as her cell phone went off.

Bob Conklin is happy to be back after being in Montana for the spring round up.

Michael Archer is happy to share that his food bill significantly dropped after his two exchange students left for the west coast tour.

SPEAKER: Jon Bittner, Vice President of AEDC

Jon is a fifth generation Alaskan with over a decade of experience working in the public and private sectors within the state. He joined AEDC in early 2011 as the Director of Business and Economic Development before being promoted to Vice President in 2012. As Vice President, Jon is tasked with managing the day to day operations of AEDC as well as developing new projects and initiatives that will drive the organization forward. Those projects and initiatives are focused around bringing new industries to Anchorage through national and international outreach as well as working to grow new industries and develop existing businesses locally using modern economic development techniques suited to the unique nature of the Alaskan economy.

Jon spoke to us on the topic of crowd funding – financing for small businesses. Crowd funding is a mechanism to get projects presented to a larger audience to make a specific project become a reality – KICK START FINANCING.
