This Week's Program: Rotary Ethics

Chuck Bill

Luke Fanning

Jane Sebens

The Object of Rotary is to encourage and foster the ideal of service as a basis of worthy enterprise and, in particular, to encourage and foster:

FIRST: The development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service;

SECOND: High ethical standards in business and professions; the recognition of the worthiness of all useful occupations; and the dignifying of each Rotarian's occupation as an opportunity to serve society;

THIRD: The application of the ideal of service in each Rotarian's personal, business, and community life;

FOURTH: The advancement of international understanding, goodwill, and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional persons united in the ideal of service.

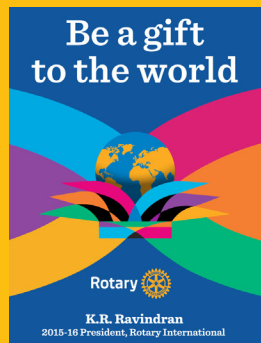

These principles have been developed over the years to provide Rotarians with a strong, common purpose and direction. They serve as a foundation for our relationships with each other and the action we take in the world.

Today we have asked three Rotarians to share with you their thoughts on how they utilize the Ethics tenet of Rotary in their profession and business. Our three Rotarians are from different professions and businesses but each deal with the challenges of ethical behavior on a daily basis in their profession.

Chuck Bill is the CEO of Bartlett Hospital, Luke Fanning is Vice President and Regional Manager for First National Bank Alaska and Jane Sebens is Deputy Municipal Attorney. They represent three very different professions and perspectives. Banker, Hospital CEO and Attorney and with three perspectives on the question we hope their thoughts will help you understand their professions and they challenges they face in living up to the ideals of Rotary.
