PROGRAM – TEX Rail Update

Brian Murnahan

Brian Murnahan is new to the TEXRail project, joining the team in January. Brian has 20 years in public relations experience driving communications and media outreach across diverse industries. As an award-winning public relations executive, his areas of expertise include crisis communications, public/media relations, business development, campaigns and promotions, and social media, among others.

Brian is a member of the Fort Worth Rotary and serves as the Treasurer for the Greater Fort Worth Public Relations Society of America.

TEX Rail (also known as the Tarrant Express Railway, formerly known as the Southwest-to-Northeast Rail Corridor) is an under-construction commuter rail line in Tarrant County, Texas, United States that will provide service from southwest Fort Worth to DFW International Airport via Grapevine and other Tarrant County communities. It is being constructed by the Fort Worth Transportation Authority ("The T") and is scheduled to open in 2018. The new line is expected to cost $330 million, of which 10 percent would be Grapevine's share. This segment of the Cotton Belt Rail Line will be operated independent of the other two segments, as it is being built by the T, instead of DART, who will be building the other segments.
