Mr. Harold Fasulo
President, The Rotary Club
Simi Sunrise, California

Dear Harold:

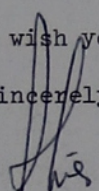

It is a pleasure to welcome you and all charter members of the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise, California to the worldwide association of Rotary International. Today, as I write this letter, there are 22,316 Rotary clubs with 1,016,747 members in 160 countries.

You join a select group of men who share the goal of service to others. The diversity of Rotary service is truly amazing, and it is well documented in the publications and other materials which will be made available to you by Past District Governor I. Nilo Fanucchi and from the secretariat staff.

As the first president of the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise, California, you play a significant part in developing the fellowship and service efforts of your club. I would like to suggest that one of your earliest Rotary meetings be devoted to a discussion among the members of the Object of Rotary. This brief statement is well worth study and discussion by each individual Rotarian.

I wish you every success in your leadership task this year.

Sincerely,

Philip H. Lindsey
General Secretary

I've got some fantastic news, we now have sixteen membership applications for our club.

Yesterday we had four new prospects, Jerry Smith, Grant Ikola, Steve Davis, and Richard Cole, in addition to three visiting Rotarians from other clubs.

Terry Patrick volunteered to be attendance chairman, and Steve Davis program chairman. Neil Havins of the Simi Club will be resource person for Terry, and Hank Henry also of Simi Club for Steve.

Next week our speaker will be John Williamson, charter President of Rancho Simi Club, and our District Governor Milo Fanucci will also join us.

See you at Howard Johnson's 7 AM Thursday Feb. 20th, and don't forget to bring a prospect for one of the unfilled classification's.

World Court says U.S. violated law by supporting rebels

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (UPI) — The World Court today found the United States guilty of violating international law by supporting Contra rebels fighting to overthrow the Nicaraguan government and ruled Washington must make reparations.

The series of rulings, most of them by a 12-3 vote, came after nine months of deliberation on Nicaragua's suit charging that U.S. support for the Contras was illegal.

The landmark decision was axiously awaited by Nicaragua, but it likely will be ignored by the United States, which walked out of the proceedings last year.

By a 12-3 vote, the court said it "rejects the justification of collective self-defense" maintained by Washington "in connection with military and paramilitary activities in and against Nicaragua."

The court said that in "training, arming, equipping, financing and supplying the Contra forces," the United States was "in breach of its obligations under customary law not to interfere in the affairs of another state."

The court ruled that by "certain attacks on Nicaraguan territory in 1983 and 1984," the United States was guilty of using force against Nicaragua and that in mining the harbors and authorizing overflights of the country in 1984 it had violated the sovereignty of the Central American nation.

In Santa Barbara, White House spokesman Larry Spokes said today, "We wouldn't have any comment on that now. Maybe later today."

In another ruling, the court, by a 14-1 vote, said the Central Intelligence Agency's dissemination to Contra forces of a manual advocating assassination encouraged acts contrary to the general principles of humanitarian law.

The World Court demanded the United States stop supporting the rebels and ordered Washington to make reparations to Nicaragua for breaches of a 1960 friendship and commerce treaty between the two nations.

If Washington and Managua fail to agree on a reparations figure, the court said, if necessary, it would step in to resolve the issue with enforce-

A WEATHERMAN STAR: KNBC weatherman Fritz Coleman touches up his hair using a camera lens before filming "The Spirit of Southern California" at Rancho Tapo Community Park today. Mary James, president of The MOMS Club in Simi Valley, was featured on the show.

'The Prince of Weather' reigns in Simi Valley KNBC weatherman honors local citizen

By Dianne Hastings

The Enterprise Staff

It's not every day that a weatherman turns into a star for his television news show. Perhaps such a feat can only happen in Southern California.

If that's the case, it's appropriate that "The Spirit of Southern California" is what brought KNBC weatherman Fritz to the filmed segment, Coleman travels to various communities in five counties and recognizes a citizen for individual accomplishments.

This morning, Coleman and a KNBC camera crew were at Rancho Tapo Community Park to give an achievement plaque to Mary James of Simi Valley. James is president and founder of the MOMS Club, which started in Simi work at home or have part-time jobs. The mothers and their kids stage regular meetings with guest speakers and go on outings, creating an environment that keeps members from feeling isolated, lonely or unfulfilled, James said.

James will be appearing on KNBC sometime in August or September. The feature is aired on Thursdays during the 5 p.m. newscast.

weatherman who calls himself "the prince of weather." She presented him with a plaque honoring his "spirit."

"I think it's neat that he recognizes the little people. It's the little people all added up together that really make a difference in a community," James said. "If anyone exhibits the spirit of Southern California, I think Fritz does."

Chamber thanks its membership

Their mission was simple and direct — to deliver 325 membership directories throughout Simi Valley Thursday afternoon.

And within three hours, another year of "Operation Thank You" had been completed and deemed a success, reported a pleased Nancy Bender, executive director of the Simi Valley Chamber of Commerce.

This was the third year in a row for "Operation Thank You," in which chamber volunteers spread out to canvass the community and personally thank each member. Approximately 56 volunteers gathered at noon Thursday before heading out to fulfill their instructions.

Directories are mailed to the chamber's out-of-town members.

The annual event provides an opportunity for core chamber members to personally thank other members for their participation, and find out if they have any problems or suggestions, Bender said.

"The feedback has been just terrific. The volunteers who do this come back with smiles on their face because it's such a fun and very positive thing," she said.

Thursday evening, the chamber members again gathered at the organization's headquarters for a party celebration. An estimated 250 members attended, overflowing into the chamber's parking lot, Bender said.

"Our offices aren't big enough to accommodate them all anymore," she said.

In the past year, the chamber's membership has grown from 630 to 710 members, representing 16,000 employees, Bender said.

"Our members use that directory like other people would use the yellow pages whenever they want goods or services, because they have to do business with another chamber member," Bender said.

Family of girl mauled by lion sues Orange County

SANTA ANA (UPI) — The family of a 3-year-old girl mauled by a mountain lion in a wilderness park has filed a $20 million claim against Orange County, saying rangers failed to warn them about the animals, a family lawyer said.

The personal injury claim charges that county employees knew or should have known mountain lions roamed the rugged mountain area in and around Ronald W. Caspers Wilderness Park, about 50 miles southeast of Los Angeles, but neglected to warn hikers.

"They knew of an extremely dangerous situation and they disregarded that dangerous situation. In essence it amounts to Russian roulette," Richard J. Staskus, a San Jose lawyer who filed the claim, said Thursday.

The claim, filed Wednesday, demands the county pay $20 million to Laura Small of El Toro, who remains partially paralyzed and may lose her right eye from the March 23 attack, $3 million for each of her parents, Susan Small and David Mattern, and $2 million for their 9-year-old son, David.

If the county refuses to pay the claim, the family will file a lawsuit in Orange County Superior Court, Staskus said.

Park officials have called the mauling a freak attack.

Former LA Zoo director allegedly mishandled ivory

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former Los Angeles Zoo director Dr. Warren Thomas was fired for allegedly mishandling the transfer of several animals and for a 1982 incident in which 300 pieces of ivory stored at the zoo disappeared, sources close to the case said.

The sources also told UPI Thursday that Thomas was fired because he dismissed two civil service employees.

The city, which runs one of the country's largest zoos, has refused to state publicly why Thomas was fired, citing only a "loss of confidence in his administrative ability."

Thomas was dismissed last month after a brief hearing by James Hadaway, general manager of the Department of Recreation and Parks.

Thomas, who served as the zoo's director since 1974, has challenged his firing, claiming he didn't get a proper hearing. On Thursday, he filed a lawsuit in federal court seeking an order to reinstate him and unspecified money damages from the city and Hadaway.

A federal court judge was scheduled to hear the case today.

Thomas said Thursday the charges made against him by Department of Recreation and Parks officials are "out of context" and "blown out of proportion."

HEADLINES THE DAY SIMI SUNRISE WAS OFFICIALLY CHARTERED June 27, 1986

New Rotary group rises with the sun

By Mimi A. Slawoff
The Enterprise Staff

They're up with the sun, and over breakfast discuss what type of service they can provide for the community.

The early birds are members of the new Simi Sunrise Rotary Club, which they meet at 7 a.m. every Thursday at the Howard Johnson's in Simi Valley.

Like other Rotarians, members gather to mix business with pleasure. The Rotary Club is an international organization. Discussion at meetings revolves around what type of service members can do to benefit the community. Some Rotary Clubs meet at noon, while others meet evenings. The morning club was established to cater to individuals who are unable to attend noon or evening meetings, said President of the Sunrise Club, Sal Fasulo.

"We can have business sessions and still have evenings for events," said Fasulo, general manager of the entire chain of Metropolitan Theaters. Sunrise Clubs are increasingly becoming more popular, he said.

New Rotary Clubs require a minimum of 20 members to start. The 25-year-old Simi Valley Rotary Club is sponsoring the new group, which met for the first time March 30. Membership roster became official June 5.

All Rotary Clubs consist of professional businessmen. The men qualify for the prestigious organization if they own a business or are in a high-level management position. Members use their professional clout to successfully propel various projects, such as fund-raisers, so the city can reap from the proceeds.

"I'm impressed with the quality of our membership," said Fasulo, who for 13 years was a member of the Simi Valley Rotary Club. He also served as president from 1982-1983.

If members miss four consecutive meetings, they are ousted from the club. However, members can make up absences by attending any other Rotary meetings, anywhere in the world.

At each meeting, a guest speaker discusses topics that either pertain to business, or service projects, such as a fund-raiser, to help the community.

For example, Law Roth, President of the Simi Valley Board of Education, discussed at length Thursday the necessity and advantage of advertising. Other times, the guest speaker's role might be to provide entertainment for the Rotarians.

Individuals who join the Rotary do so because they feel a commitment to help the community, said several members. Most Rotarians said they wanted to join such an organization because the community has helped their business in some way, and now they want to return the deed.

Club Treasurer Steve Davis, is a broker for Dean Winter Reynolds, in Thousand Oaks. "I've gotten a lot out of the community and I want to give something back," he said.

Terry Z. Patrick, chairman of attendance, agrees but also looks to the club for business contacts. "It's the commitment. I deal with people every day in my job. This is a way to meet more people. It's community oriented," said Patrick, administrative director of Simi Valley Adventist Hospital.

Other members concentrate on recruiting businessmen for the club. Sid Liberman, business and personal insurance planner for New York Life Insurance Co., in Encino, is membership chairman for the club.

"We're looking for people who are interested in serving the community. When we have a project, we can go directly to the top," he said.

Howard B. Pempel, an insurance broker, is the club's secretary. He believes the club is a vehicle to help the community prosper. "I've been active in the community a long time. I joined to give back to the community what I've been fortunate enough to reap," said Pempel.

In general, Rotary clubs are able to achieve their goals because members are a group of doers, said President-elect Ivan Delman, a chiropractor. "I enjoy this because the Rotary is an organization of doers. And it enhances me to be associated with doers," he said.

"We're a world-wide group holding hands," said Delman.

Joe Light, general sales manager of KWNK radio, is program chair.

IN THE NEWS...

Simi Sunrise Rotary Club rises, shines

Early rising Rotarians now have an official club of their own. The Simi Sunrise Rotary Club was formally chartered at 7:10 a.m. Thursday by the district governor of Rotary International, Nile Panuchi.

The group has been meeting since December, 1985. It has 27 members and meets at 7:10 a.m. every Thursday at Howard Johnson's restaurant. Anyone who owns or manages a business may join.

Those interested should call Sal Fasulo, president, at 526-3199.

Tuesday, Sept. 9, 1986

The Enterprise

Chartering Rotary club up at Sunrise

And new club makes three. With the official chartering of the Simi Sunrise Rotary Club in June, Rotary International added its third chapter in Simi Valley. The others are the Rotary Club of Simi Valley, which meets in the afternoon and the Rotary Club of Rancho Simi, which meets in the evening.

The new club, which meets at 7:10 a.m. Thursdays, will be officially welcomed by Rotary International at a Charter Night affair Saturday at the Quality Inn Posada Royale.

Club president Sal Fasulo, 25-year Simi Valley resident and vice president/general manager of Metropolitan Theaters Corporation, is excited about heading the early morning club and is ready to hit the service trail.

Starting a brand new Rotary Club is an exciting process, said Fasulo, who is a past president of the Rotary Club of Simi Valley.

"The most rewarding aspect of developing a new club is listening to the enthusiasm of the new members. When I hear these fellows say that they felt it was time to give something back to the community and to serve, I feel great. It's satisfying to hear member after member say they want to make this world a better place to live," said Fasulo.

The 28-member club, he said, is dedicated to living up to the Rotary slogans of "Service above self" and "Let profits meet who serves best."

The club's first project will be a food booth at Simi Valley Days. Numerous service projects are in the offing, Fasulo added.

In order to become a Rotarian, a man must be a manager or business owner and he must be invited to join the club by a current member. The club, however, is not so much a business organization as it is a service organization designed to aid the community and specifically those who need the most help, such as the underprivileged and the elderly, said Fasulo.

The first Rotary Club was born in 1905. Beginning as a businessmen's club where men "could get to know other businessmen for the sake of business," it evolved into a service club, he said.

Today there are more than 22,000 Rotary Clubs compiling millions of members in 160 countries worldwide. Rotary International is involved in several worldwide efforts including Polio Plus, a program to immunize the world's children against polio; CPH training; and Flying Doctors, in which medical personnel are flown to people in remote regions who are in need of care.

With projects like these, said Fasulo, "You can't help but feel good."

Sal Fasulo

man. His responsibility is to provide guest speakers each week.

"With morning meetings, I want to bring something interesting to them, or entertaining. Being a new club, we've had several veteran Rotary members speak," he said.

John McNamara is responsible for community service projects. "I am concerned about a community outlet for the youth of Simi Valley. Our kids don't have an outlet. That's my current project," he said.

District "Kick-Off" Month

July 1986

FRANKLY SPEAKING

It's finally here! After all of the waiting and planning, all the hard work of getting ready, all the anticipation and excitement — the 1986/87 Rotary Year is now a reality. We all took office on 1 July with enthusiasm, determination, and — yes — a little apprehension. But with our goals established, our plans in place, and our adrenalin high, we're off on our Grand Adventure together!

We couldn't have picked a better year in which to serve! Rotary is growing with over one million members now in over 22,000 clubs in 160 countries and geographical regions. Our District is growing too — up some 50 members last year with 58 clubs and our newest one at Simi Sunrise which became number 59 on June 27th. We have a firm foundation of achievement upon which to build and an outstanding team of leaders to extend our progress. Yes, the 1986/87 Rotary year has dawned with great promise!

Now it is time for us to build upon that firm foundation and to realize the promise that this year together holds for us. The time for planning has now passed and we must turn our attentions to action. Action on R.I. President M.A.T. Caparas' goals. Action on our 17 District goals. And action on our club goals so that at the end of our year together it may be said that previous years were great but ours was the greatest ever! With your help and that of every Rotarian, Rotary Ann, Interactor and Rotaractor in our District we can make this prophecy come true. There's no limit to what we can accomplish if we all contribute our best effort to the team.

I'm counting on each and every one of you to do your part. Care enough to act through service to others. Now there's nothing to it but to do it!

"Rotary Brings Hope"

Our International President's Theme For 1986/87

Dear Fellow Rotarians,

Rotary, which we joined in search of friendship, is a great, dynamic force. Through its varied forms of service, it has touched the lives of the destitute, the disabled, and the disenfranchised for more than eighty years. In many times and places, it has meant food for the starving, precious pure water for the thirsty, a healthy future for infants, solace for the lonely, a brighter, happier world for the young, and a meaningful existence for those in the twilight of life. Thus, Rotary has become, to millions of people around the world, a strong and far-reaching ray of hope that their dreams for improving the quality of their lives and the lives of their children will be a reality, here and now — and not in some distant future.

Born in club fellowship, nurtured in vocational service, raised in community service, and growing in international service, Rotary not only humanizes the world, but it also makes it a better place.

WELCOME SIMI-SUNRISE!!!

It is now official! On June 27th, our 59th club in District 524 was admitted to the Rotary family! Heartiest congratulations to the officers and members of the Simi Sunrise Club!

If you're in need of a makeup — even if you're not — why not visit our newest club at one of their regular meetings at Howard Johnson's in Simi Valley. They meet at 7:10 A.M. and would appreciate your support. Be sure to meet new President Sal Fasulo and Secretary Howard Pempel, two fine Rotarians who will lead our newest club in its Charter year. And ask your Board to consider a donation to Simi Sunrise's fledgling treasury so that our newest club gets off to a good start. Welcome Simi Sunrise!!!

Sunrise Rotary awards fellowships

Simi Sunrise Rotary Club, the newest in the trilogy of Simi Valley Rotary clubs, has presented Paul Harris Fellowship awards to two of its members.

The fellowships, $1,000 each, were presented to the Rotary International Foundation in the names of Ivan Delman and Walt Hansen. The money is used to support international projects of the Rotary Foundation, Delman said.

This is Delman's second fellowship honor. He was awarded a Paul Harris Fellowship while he was a member of the Rancho Simi Rotary Club. This is Hansen's first award.

This year's project for Rotary International is the elimination of polio from the world by the year 2000. Monies raised are being used to provide inoculations to people throughout the world.

Simi Sunrise Rotary Club meets at 7 a.m. Thursdays at the Quality Inn, Posada Royal. Guests are welcome.

For more information, call Delman, president-elect, at 527-4767.

The Rotary Club of Simi Valley will meet at 7 a.m. Thursday at the Quality Inn, Posada Royale.

The featured speaker this week will be Walter Hanson, club member and CPA with Gorse, Stuecker & Hanson, an Accountancy Corporation, who will speak on "Financial Planning and How It Relates to New Tax Laws."

At the last meeting of the club, Phil Jones, Rotary information chairman, presented a program on the local, national and international aspects of Rotary and how local participation has impact around the world.

Guests are welcome at any of the club's meetings. For more information call Dr. Ivan Delman at 527-4767.

Stan Gurlach will speak on the Rotary Foundation's internally funded charitable projects in each community through local Rotary Clubs, at the 7:10 a.m. Thursday meeting of Simi Sunrise Rotary Club. The members will gather at the Quality Inn, Posada Royale.

Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise recently elected its new officers, including Ivan Delman, president; Howard Pompel, secretary; Dick Schwaiblmair, treasurer; Paul Miller, club service; Jim Malkin, vocational service; John Blazek, community service; Garvel Wike, international service; Terry Patrick, director at large; Sal Fasula, past president.

The Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise meets at 7 a.m. Thursday at the Quality Inn Posada Royale. For more information, call Ivan Delman at 527-4767 or Howard Pompel at 526-0156.

Sunrise Rotary sets Cajun Creole Festival

Joe Simien Band

Live music, Cajun food and family fun will be dished up Saturday at the second annual Cajun Creole Festival.

The event, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise, will be at Strathern Historical Park.

The gates will open at 11 a.m. Live music is planned from noon to 4 p.m. Featured will be three Cajun groups — Lisa Haley and the Zydeco Party Band, the Joe Simien Band and Wilfred Latour and the Louisiana Cajun Trio. Free dance lessons will be provided, and there will be dancing throughout the afternoon in the enclosed barn at Strathern Park.

Food will range from traditional barbecued food and hot dogs to Cajun creations, including a booth selling alligator meat served on a skewer. Beer, wine coolers and soft drinks will be available.

Handicraft booths will have goods for sale, and a variety of activities for children are planned, including face painting and a children's Mardi Gras.

Participants are invited to bring lawn chairs, relax and spend the afternoon. Special features will include a flag ceremony at 11:45 a.m. and Lisa Haley singing the national anthem — Cajun-style — at noon.

Tickets will be available at the gate: $6 for adults and $2 for children under 16 who are accompanied by a paying adult.

Proceeds from the festival will support local charities and youth organizations.

cation of the prospective member. The departments within regular commercial banks normally are not sufficiently independent to warrant the establishment of separate classifications.

Q. "I have seen the phrase 'additional active' as part of the classification of some club members. Is this a correct form for a classification?"

A. No. A classification describes the activity of a firm or institution with which a member is connected, or, if he is independently engaged, his business or professional activity.

Q. "My classification is 'automobile retailing.' I plan to bring in the head of our service department as an additional active member. Should his classification be 'automobile service'?"

A. No. An additional active member's classification must be the same as that of the active member who proposes him.

Q. "Wouldn't it simplify the process of establishing classifications if we were to use a man's title as his classification?"

A. The "Standard Rotary Club Constitution" says a classification must describe the activity of the institution or firm with which the man is connected, not his particular kind of work within that firm. The same principle applies in cases of self-employed members—the classification describes the activity rather than the title. It would not simplify matters if a man's classification were "Director of Research and Development of the Color Film Division, Central Photo Product Company." "Photographic film manufacturing" makes a tidy and understandable package.

Q. "Should our roster of filled and unfilled classifications include specialties in the fields of law?"

A. Yes, if the practice of this profession is organized in your community to the extent that not only the members of this profession, but also the general public recognize that legal practitioners in the community are engaged in specialized branches of law.

Q. "We have some members whose firms have gradually changed their line of business. How can their classifications be changed?"

A. Article V, Section 2(c) of the "Standard Rotary Club Constitution" provides that the club board of directors may correct or adjust the classification of any member, if circumstances warrant such action, and that due notice of such correction or adjustment shall be given the member and he shall be allowed a hearing in the matter.

Guides to effective committees

1. Inform committee members in ample time of subjects to be discussed.
2. Use printed or typewritten forms to call meetings, listing time, place, and subject.

3. Contact personally those members who are to report to the meeting, asking them if they need assistance.
4. Keep the meetings short and to the point.
5. Avoid unnecessary paper work.
6. Give each person a chance to voice his opinion.
7. Keep track of assignments and follow-up.

Keep your committee going

1. Review the status of your committee regularly.
2. Replace members who must withdraw.
3. Motivate committee to take on new challenges.
4. Direct members into common action.
5. Respect the direction of committee when it is different from what you might choose, so long as it is sound.
6. Encourage members by various means both privately and publicly.
7. Congratulate members upon completion of tasks.

Always keep in mind, as chairman of the committee, that after the next election you, too, will be a member of a committee. Treat all members as you would have them treat you next year.

MEMBER PROFILE

Walter S. Hanson
Certified Public Accountant

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth in a series of profiles on Simi Valley Chamber of Commerce members. Business cards are drawn at the monthly Business After Five gatherings, and the business whose card is drawn will be featured in the following month's Business Report.)

Walter Hanson has been a CPA for 17 years. For the last 10 years, he has been in business with Gorse, Stuecker & Hanson, serving clients in Los Angeles, Orange, and Ventura Counties from their office in Los Angeles, where they employ 15 people.

Walter, being a resident of Simi Valley for the past three years, has become aware of the opportunities for and the need of the services which his firm provides in this rapidly growing area.

The services of Gorse, Stuecker & Hanson are geared to provide comprehensive advice to the "entrepreneurial growing business" and go beyond the traditional accounting services of just financial planning, computer systems planning and selection, budget and profit planning, and cash management.

Walter is becoming actively involved in the community through the Chamber of Commerce and Rotary because it is important for business people to help foster the area which benefits them.

The firm intends to open an office in Simi within the next six months to a year as, hopefully, during this period they can build their local practice in order to make an office here more economically feasible.

Chef to Celebrities Shares Dessert Recipe

Chef Mario Orjuela, who has worked for such luminaries as Elvis Presley, Frank Sinatra, Bill Cosby, Telly Savallas and Buddy Hackett, has consented to share one of his recipes with RELAX readers. This recipe is one of the dishes he prepared on the Mike Douglas Show.

Orjuela has been recently named banquet supervisor and maître d' at Simi Valley's New Quality Inn, Posada Royale.

Well-known Chef, Mario Orjuela prepares his Banana Vessubio dessert on the Mike Douglas Show as another guest, Bill Cosby looks on.

HALLOWEEN HELPERS: The sketch above, created by Rotarian Ernie Fortin, was featured on flyers sent home with more than 9,000 local elementary school youngsters inviting them to take part in a Rotary-sponsored trick-or-treat project to restock the shelves of Care and Share.

Rotary, kids link hands for Care and Share

Simi Valley may be overrun with little witches and goblins Friday, but doing good deeds and not tricks will be the order of the day. Scores of youngsters are expected to take part in a special project sponsored by the three Rotary clubs of Simi Valley in an effort to replenish the shelves of Care and Share, the community food bank which provides for the needy.

More than 9,000 flyers have been passed out at public and private schools throughout Simi Valley, inviting youths kindergarten through sixth grade to don the gold badge attached and go trick-or-treating for Care and Share. The effort is sponsored by the Rotary Club of Simi Valley, Rancho Simi Rotary and Sunrise Rotary.

The project got off to a late start, reports Irwin Alesmad, Rotary Club of Simi president, because Ernie Fortin, who designed the flyers for the project, was stricken with a heart attack three days ago and is recuperating at the Sepulveda Veterans Hospital.

The bulk of the flyers, however, went home today with about 9,000 public school students, reports Al Jacobs, Rotarian and assistant superintendent of instruction and support services for the Simi Valley Unified School District. Several hundred flyers were also doled out at area private schools and churches.

The youths, who will be in and out of costume Friday night, are asked to spend part of Halloween collecting canned goods and non-perishable items for Care and Share. Rotarian volunteers will be manning parking lots at all 19 public elementary schools, Jacobs said, from 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Friday to collect the bounty. Items may also be taken to any Simi Valley fire station or to Care and Share directly during its regular 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday hours.

Those unable to transport items collected, can call Alesmad at 322-2181, for pickup.

Although there is the potential for mild disaster if a child is the untimely one knocking at a door and asking for a canned good, Alesmad says there really shouldn't be a problem. "It will be pretty much the same situation as if I ran out of candy — I would just tell the kids sorry."

He suggests, however, that food is not the only item needed by Care and Share. A bar of soap, a roll of toilet paper — these are all items that a family might have on hand and be willing to donate.

"Basically, this is something that people should do in their own neighborhoods, that way the number of collectors will be more evenly distributed."

The project idea, he noted, stemmed from an article in The Enterprise two weeks ago that included a picture of Care and Share director Willie Dobbs standing in front of bare shelves at the food bank. For the first time in its 17-year history, Care and Share ran out of food and had to shut its doors to the public for two days.

Since that time clubs, schools and individuals have rallied to the cause and planned fund-raisers and collections for Care and Share.

Because it is a last minute effort, Rotarians aren't counting on overwhelming support for the project — this year. "But even if we get three cartons of cans, it will be worth it," Jacobs said.

Rotarian Don Otto Auel is also helping with project, and he sees a different kind of contribution being gained from the undertaking. "I think it's a wonderful idea, not only in getting food to Care and Share, but because we're trying to orient the efforts of our youngsters toward helping other people."

"Even though they are trick-or-treating, rather than candy, they'll be willing to accept food or any item for those with less. This is a dynamic thing we need to do to help our young people help others," Auel said.

This year, ghosts and goblins in Simi Valley may just become "Halloween heroes," as the flyer put it, helping those in need.

Jacobs invited youngsters to put on the gold badge and be one to boast, "I'm trick-or-treating for Care and Share."

And there's nothing spooky about that.

Club History for the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise, Simi Valley, California, U.S.A.

1985-1987 Sal Fasulo, President

Under the direction of Charter President Sal Fasulo, the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise spent the first year in an organizational mode, planning and co-ordinating its direction and activities to maximize its efforts in all Avenues of Service. Its first meeting was held at Howard Johnson's Restaurant in Simi Valley.

In May, 1986, The Club had its first mystery night where the Rotarians and Rotary Anns got together for a Club Service Project.

The Club received word from Rotary International and District Governor Nilo Fanucchi that the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise had been officially chartered on June 27, 1986.

September 13, 1986, the members of District 524 were invited to attend The Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise's Charter Night at the Posada Royale Quality Inn in Simi Valley. In attendance was Past District Gov. Fanucchi and the 1986-87 District Governor, Frank B. Geddes.

In October, 1986, a Community Service project to help gather food stuffs for the shelves of Care and Share, a community food bank providing for the needy, was sponsored by The Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise as part of the Halloween Trick-or-Treat activities for our community youth.

Saturday, June 20, 1987, Charter President Sal Fasulo was demoted and his wife Mary was recognized for her efforts in bringing The Club together. Ivan Delman, D.C., was installed as Club President and his lovely wife Joan as the Leader of the Rotary Anns.
