EATM

Adopt An Animal Program

New zoo planned

The Moorpark College Exotic Animal Training and Management Program is constructing Ventura County's first zoo, to be opened by fall.

The announcement was made by Gary Wilson, director of EATM at a recent breakfast meeting of the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise.

The EATM program was the topic of conversation at the meeting, where slides and a South African hedgehog were shown by Wilson, a 1977 graduate of the EATM program.

EATM began in 1972, and today has more than 350 animals housed at the college.

Students of EATM learn zoo management, animal training and related subjects. They work in 24-hour shifts to keep up with maintenance of the compound and animal housing.

A circus, titled Musical Journey Through Time and featuring some of the exotic animals housed at the compound, is slated every weekend through March.

To help raise part of the $35,000 necessary to feed the animals in the compound, EATM has an Adopt-an-Animal program. For more information about the program, call the compound at 378-1441.

The Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise meets at 7 a.m. Thursdays at the Quality Inn, Posada Royale, on Madera Road. For further information about the club, call president Ivan Delman at 527-4767.

Plenty to do in town during Simi Valley Days

By Dianne Hastings
The Enterprise Staff

So who says there's never anything to do in Simi Valley? In the coming weeks, there'll be plenty of activity bustling around the city — everything from a truck and tractor pull to the Miss Simi Valley Pageant.

Starting Sept. 12 until Oct. 3, it's the third annual Simi Valley Days.

This year's theme for Simi Valley Days is "We the People" in celebration of the 200th birthday of the U.S. Constitution.

The official kick-off for Simi Valley Days, sponsored and paid for by the Simi Valley Chamber of Commerce, began Tuesday.

"We're just getting bigger and better every year," said Ivisie Vogt, president of the Chamber. "It's very exciting."

Just some of the events planned for the three-week long event include a rodeo, a carnival, and arts and crafts show.

And it all begins Sept. 12 when the Simi Valley Historical Society will sponsor a barn dance and barbecue at Strathern Historical Park.

Entertainment for the dance will be provided by the Rick Tucker Band and the Blue Grass Band. The cost is $15 per person and includes a barbecue beef dinner.

The next event on line for Simi Valley Days is an arts and crafts show at Rancho Tapo Community Park. Sponsored by the Rancho Simi Recreation and Park District, the show will have some 40 booths featuring wares of local crafts people and artists.

By the end of September, "the main event" of Simi Valley Days begins.

From Sept. 23 to 27, a carnival and merchant's tent will be at Los Angeles Avenue and Madera Road. More than 20 carnival rides, food booths, plus daily and nightly entertainment are just some of the happenings at this event, sponsored by the Simi Valley Kiwanis Club.

Also at the carnival location, the Chamber is sponsoring a merchant's tent, which will feature booths of local businesses.

And then on Sept. 26, the Simi Valley Days Parade will be marching down Los Angeles Avenue, starting at Galt Street and ending at the carnival site.

It's anticipated that the parade, sponsored by the Chamber, will have some 200 entrants, including 20 high school bands from Ventura and Los Angeles counties.

Traveling all the way from Disneyland, this year's parade grand marshal is Mickey Mouse.

"We're anticipating a very large parade," said Lloyd Boland, "better than last year."

But the fun doesn't end with the parade.

On Sept. 25 and 26, a truck and tractor pull featuring professional truck pullers will be at the Madera Road and Los Angeles Avenue site. The truck and tractor pull, sponsored by the Simi Valley Sunrise Rotary, is being produced by the Pacific Truck Pullers Association.

And for all the cowboys and cowgirls out there, the Sunrise Rotary will also be sponsoring a rodeo on Sept. 26 and 27 at the carnival site.

Sunrise Rotary will also be sponsoring a chili cook-off on Oct. 3, when the best chili in Simi Valley will be crowned.

Simi Valley Days will finally come to an end on the night of Oct. 3 when the new Miss Simi Valley will be crowned at the Wood Ranch Country Club.

LOCAL CHAMPION: Mike Hargrove of Simi Valley won first place in the truck pull category at Saturday's truck and tractor pull competition. The two-day event, now in its second year, drew a record crowd of more than 5,000 on its final night at the Simi Valley Fairgrounds.

Little guys come out on top at tractor pull

Who said bigger is better? Certainly not Simi Valley's Mike Hargrove or George Gault of San Jose.

Gault, owner of the Barbarian, a modified "monster truck," and Hargrove, whose modified, alcohol-burning Chevrolet truck captured a first place trophy at the Simi Valley Days' truck and tractor pull Saturday night, proved to a sell out crowd that small can be mighty, too.

Gault, who has played second fiddle to the highly touted Goliath, a six-toe, 13-foot high GMC truck, got his chance to show what he's got at the end of Saturday's show.

Unlike Friday night's show at the Simi Valley Fairgrounds, where Goliath got to go first and took his turn first Saturday.

After making his last pass over the row of junk cars placed in the middle of the fairgrounds arena, all that Gault left for Goliath to trounce was a pile of broken glass and twisted wreckage.

Before the event, Gault said he was never impressed by Goliath, its 66-inch tires or its front and rear engine, anyway.

"It's (Goliath) just a different type of animal, whether he has bigger tires or not," Gault said as crewmen prepared the arena for the event. Barbarian has 48-inch tires, which make for a noticeable difference.

But, Gault said, "Tires do not make the truck."

To the whistles and cheers of the more than 5,000 people who packed the arena for the annual event, Hargrove took first place in the truck pull category, despite having one of the smallest engine blocks in the competition.

His Popeye Express, a four-by-four truck with a 50-cubic inch block, dragged a 30,000, 30,000-pound specially made sled 232 feet.

Hargrove's closest competitor was Dave Ribiero of Tulare. Ribiero's 1960 GMC 1,100 horsepower truck could pull the sled only 202 feet. That was far enough to grab second place.

Dave McCormick of Dave's Club Towing Service took exception to recent complaints that only professional drivers could compete in the weekend event.

One of the principal organizers of the event since it became a part of Simi Valley Days two years ago, McCormick is also a member of the International Footprinters Association. The Footprinters and the Simi Valley Rotary Club were major sponsors of this year's event.

"We have to carry a $5 million liability (policy)," McCormick said of the decision to allow only professionals into this year's event.

"All vehicles have to meet what the National Hotrod Association puts down," he said.

Although they worked behind the scenes, two other locals played a role in winning entries.

In the mini tractor pull competition, Chad Bettencourt's Woolly Sucker took first. Although Bettencourt is from Hanford, his tractor was painted by Moorpark's Brad Campbell and Mark Holland of Coast Auto Body.

John Mellow's Super Fly took second place in that event and Gene Rizzo's Defiance came in third. Mellow is also from Hanford and Rizzo is from Visalia.

Cowboys from near and far riding 'em at 'Days' rodeo

By Kevin Uhrich
The Enterprise Staff

Modern Cowboys from as far away as Arizona to San Jose wrestled, roped and rode their way into Simi Valley Saturday with the Third Annual Pro Rodeo.

Part of the Simi Valley Days celebration at the corner of Madera Road and Los Angeles Avenue, the rodeo attracted about 2,000 people who came out to watch some of the foremost cowboys in the nation perform at the city's fairgrounds.

Sponsored by the Simi Valley Police Officers Association, the local chapter of the International Footprinters Association and the Rotary Sims Sunrise Club, the two-day event will start up again today at 3 p.m. Gates open at noon.

Part of the proceeds from the professional rodeo will be donated to charities sponsored by the local Rotary Club and scholarships provided by the two law enforcement clubs. The Footprinters Association is "made up of local business people and retired and active police personnel."

During the three-hour show, Royal High School graduate Kyle Norton received a $1,000 scholarship from Dr. Ivan Delman. Delman is the scholarship chairman of the local Footprinters. Norton has expressed an interest in FBI work and said he will be attending Stanford University. He graduated from Royal High with a 4.0 grade point average and was co-captain of last year's football team.

Rocky Serena of Simi Valley also won a $500 pair of lizard skin boots from the Boot Ranch of North Hollywood. Boot Ranch owner Ken Rude is an assistant chief with the California Highway Patrol.

Other local organizations also got in on the act by setting up concession stands around the fenced arena. Most of the money made from those sales, said rodeo organizer Dave McCormick, will go to charities. McCormick, who three years ago took out a $7,000 personal loan to help bring the rodeo into Simi Valley, said money raised from the event will also be donated to the Rotary's Polio Plus campaign which specifically targets Asian children for inoculation.

McCormick owns Dave's Club Towing of Simi Valley and belongs to several local civic clubs besides the Rotary Club and the Footprinters.

"I enjoy doing this," McCormick told the audience. "Bringing the western flare back to Simi Valley."

"Each year it gets bigger," he said later. "We're getting a lot of pro riders and we're putting Simi Valley back on the map in the rodeo circuit."

Winners in the seven categories were: Steve Danylo for bareback riding, Tim Engellhart for the saddle bronc competition, Allen Martindale for steer wrestling, Justin Mitchell for bull riding, Kathy Epperson for the barrel race, Walt Woodard and Jake Milton for team roping and Ralph McCrae for calf roping. McCrae's son, Jim, also is in the pro rodeo circuit but did not travel to Simi Valley for Saturday's event.

While most of the public saw only the glamorous side of the professional rodeo trade, Kathi Sherman captured part of the other, more intimate side of the sport with her video camera. The torn ligaments, the disappointments, the smiles and the snarls were all recorded on Sherman's camera.

Her husband, Lars Enggren, of Los Angeles, was entered in the Saturday bull riding event. The couple are originally from Colorado and have been married for the past two months. Because the California rodeo circuit is so large — there are more than 250 rodeos scheduled around the state in 1987 — Enggren was forced to turn pro two months ago, she said.

"People in Los Angeles and around here don't know there are rodeos happening all around them," Sherman said. For instance, she said, there are six rodeos scheduled in Los Angeles County alone in the next two weeks.

Sherman said she and her husband arrived in Simi Valley Friday night. It's often like that, she said. No sooner are they in a city, than they have to pack up an get on the road again.

"It's just a different way of life," she said. "The people you meet at the rodeos are a lot different than people you meet in L.A."

HELPING IT COME TOGETHER: Simi Valley Chamber of Commerce Vice President Dave McCormick is heading up this year's Simi Valley rodeo.

Community involvement is what celebration's all about

Community involvement

If any two words were to describe what Dave McCormick lives and breathes by, it would be the above.

McCormick, owner and operator of Dave's Club Service, serves as vice president of the Simi Valley Chamber of Commerce, and although busy with Chamber activities all year around, his part in community involvement does not end there.

Every year, McCormick devotes hours and hours to events that are part of Simi Valley Days, including this year, the rodeo, the truck pull and motor sports spectacular and the chili cook-off.

"I started doing the rodeo in 1985 after I talked to a friend of mine. I said, I wanted to reactivate having a rodeo. He was real skeptical that we could do it. But we did. And every year the rodeo has been bigger and better."

McCormick, sitting behind a huge desk in a cluttered office of his business on West Easy Street, leaned through a stack of photos and biographies describing this year's rodeo entrants.

"We contacted Triangle T, which is a rodeo contractor, and they arranged for the cowboys and so forth. In fact, we'll be getting more famous cowboys this year and next because of a new ruling in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association," McCormick said.

He explained that now all rodeo cowboys are required to achieve a certain number of points each year instead of just having to participate in 10 rodeos per year as in years past.

"This new rule makes them participate in more rodeos than before and ours is one of the qualifiers," he said.

Among the cowboys this year are Tuff Hedeman, 1986 world bull riding champion from Gainesville, Texas; Jim Davis, 1986 world steer roping champion from Bandera, Texas; Lewis Peild, 1986 world all-around champion and bareback champion from Elk Ridge, Utah; saddle bronco champion Bud Monroe from Valley Mills, Texas; Jake Barnes and Clay O'Brien Cooper, 1986 world champion team roping champions: Steve Duhon, 1986 world steer wrestling champion from Opelousas, La.; Chris Lybbert, 1986 calf roping champion from Argyle, Tex.; and Charmayne James of Clayton, N.M., 1986 world champion barrel racer.

The "Truck Pull and Motor Sports Spectacular," Sept. 25 and 26, will also have the McCormick touch to it, and it also will be twice the size as last year.

"We tried to get 'Big Foot' this year and just missed it. But we'll have some professionals this year and hoping to get 'Big Foot' (a huge tractor-like machine on wheels) for next year."

The Chili Cook-Off, set for Oct. 3 at the corner of Madera and Los Angeles avenues, also promises a lot of action this year, McCormick said. More than 400 fillers were sent out and calls are still pouring in from prospective chili cooks, he said.

"I just love the community," said McCormick, a 13-year Simi Valley resident. "It's been good to me and my family and I want to give something back. I have three daughters and they all pitch in." He smiled. "I have a little girl, Jessica, who is 7, and she's the little boss."

Planning for the events never stops, McCormick said. "As soon as this year's Simi Valley Days is over, the planning starts for next year's. We meet once a month beginning in January and it goes on from there."

What he would really like to see happen for Simi Valley Days, he said, is the establishment of a permanent site for the events and others throughout the year.

"There is Hopetown, of course, but I sort of like the site to be in the west end of the valley. I found out that there are state funds for a thing like this. You know, it would be like having fair grounds in the east part of the county."

McCormick envisions a site approximately 40 to 50 acres in size with a paved parking area.

"It's a dream but you'll see, we'll do it," he said.

Monster trucks to take over town during Simi Valley Days

Horror of horrors for the minitruck crowd.

Monster trucks will take over the city on Sept. 25 and 26 during Simi Valley Days.

They eat other cars. They play tug of war with tractors. They pull heavy sleds and battleships across dirt fields. They try to squash each other.

said event chairman Dave McCormick. McCormick is also in charge of the Simi Valley Days Rodeo.

"It's a zoo this year," he said. "Everything's twice as big, twice as busy. This year is strictly a professional pull. No amateur class."

Funny cars, two-wheel drive and four-wheel drive pickups, tractors and, of course, minitrucks will compete in the event. A rather large GMC van named Barbarian is

—Dave McCormick, event chairman

More than 100 skilled motorists from all over the western United States will participate in the Simi Valley Days Truck Pull and Motor Sports Spectacular, sponsored by the Simi Valley Police Officers Association and the local International Footprint Association Chapter 81.

"I'm looking forward to the community having a good time and to the money that will be raised for our youth activities and charities scheduled to appear in the grand finale. McCormick said he's not yet sure who Barbarian's contender will be in the car-crushing extravaganza.

Before the grand finale, residents will see which beefed-up truck can pull the weighted sled, otherwise known as a battleship, barge, boat and weight transfer machine, the farthest distance without breaking down.

POWER THRUSTER: This might look like a pretty ordinary jeep but it's a powerful version of the popular vehicle — it's rigged for heavy-duty pulling, as is truck and tractor pulling, which is one of the events that have been lined up for the community's Simi Valley Days celebration.

The regional competition will take place in a field arena set up at the west end of Simi Valley, at Los Angeles Avenue and Madera Road. The gates will open at 7 p.m. The show starts at 8.

Presale tickets are $8 each, $10 at the door. Children under 16 will be admitted for $4, presale, $6 at the door.

"If they're looking for a good time and lots of excitement, they should come down," McCormick tells residents. "This year's show is bigger and better."

In Four Wheeler Magazine, Bob

George, founder of the U.S. Hot Rod Association, was quoted with his version of the sport. "To me, truck and tractor pulling is the same as drag racing. They just don't go as fast. Pull trucks to me are the funny cars of the four-wheel-drive world, and tractors are the dragsters."

September Highlights Youth Activities

The month of September is traditionally set aside as the month for Rotarians to focus their attention upon all Rotary-sponsored youth activities. Clubs in District 524 are being asked to plan now for this important aspect of Community Service. They are also encouraged to use the slogan "Every Rotarian an Example to Youth" in their club bulletins and other publicity during the month of September.

While there are many ways in which Rotarians, both as individuals and/or clubs, can be of service to youth there are three general rules that can apply: (1) Furnish leadership in awakening their community to a realization of its duty and obligation to youth; (2) Provide leadership in discovering the real needs of youth in the community; (3) See that the needs of youth are being met by those persons and agencies that should be responsible.

Rotarians have long been involved in varied youth activities such as Scouts, Y, 4H, Future Farmers, and Disabled Youth. This list of suggested activities continues to expand with changing times and now includes an increasing concern for combatting the use of drugs and many other needs that arise from our changing society.

Another crucial part of youth activities has been the establishing of Interact clubs and September, with the opening of school, is an excellent time for each club to examine its relationship to an existing or possible club on a nearby campus. Clubs doing this would fulfill one of President Keller's eight goals for the year.

Detailed information on Youth activities is found on pages 93 through 98 in the current Manual of Procedure and further help may be secured from Community Service Director Jerry Harter and his committee chairpersons who are listed on pages 13 and 14 of your District Directory. ■

Argentine Exchange Set

Plans are now being made for our Group Study Exchange with District 492 in Argentina, a district which runs along the coast and inland below Buenos Aires. There were a number of reasons given by PDG Frank and Governor Ray for requesting this area but predominant among them was the fact that the district is very similar in economy and geography to our district.

Present plans call for a team of a Rotarian leader and five young business and professional men to arrive in our district on February 14, 1988, and remain here through our District Conference at the Park Suite Hotel March 18-20. Our District in turn will send a similar team to Argentina with a tentative departure of April 30, 1988, and return on May 16. Additional time for team members may be required for a crash course in Spanish. Rotary, through its Foundation Program, provides the entire costs of transportation for the team members. The host district, clubs and families will pay for all but the personal needs of the team.

The next important priority item is to select that special person who can lead the team from our District to Argentina's District 492. This person must be a Rotarian and must also have the ability to speak Spanish; as much of the interview for the team leader will be conducted in that language. The person selected must be a leader who has the ability to be just that — a leader — and must be a Rotarian who can interpret in a positive way our American lifestyle and commitments while relating well to a culture different than ours.

Candidates for the team leader are now being accepted and clubs with a potential leader are encouraged to contact GSE Chairman Felix Masci who is listed on page 16 of your District Directory. ■

Simi Valley Days wrapped up the third and final week of citywide activities Saturday with a first-ever chili cook-off at the corner of Los Angeles Avenue and Madera Road and the Miss Simi Valley pageant.

Sponsored by the sunrise Rotary Club, proceeds from the daylong charity event are earmarked for the International Rotary Club's Polio Plus program.

Although the Polio Plus campaign initially targeted Asian children for inoculation, the program has been since become a worldwide project, event organizers said.

About 2,000 people attended the seven-hour event. Thirty-three chili cooking specialists then plied their craft for some of the toughest judges ever assembled.

Simi Valley Mayor Greg Stratton and Assemblywoman Cathie Wright, R-Simi Valley, served as honorary judges and kicked off more than four hours of cooking and tasting. During the contest Cross Country, a local country-western band played standards by Credence Clearwater Revival.

Neither Stratton nor Wright, however, stayed for the final tally or the announcement of the winners.

Top prize winners were: Kenton Stafford and his "Seven-Eighths Chili," Jay Thompson and his "Two-Ton Tomato Chili" and Jerry "Dr. Slice" Webb. Stafford, who won $300 for his efforts, will go on to compete in the International Chili Society's Western Regional competition at the end of the month.

Dick McCoy's "Desperado Chili" won the Peoples' Choice award. And Roger Yarnell and "Buckhorn Chili" won both best showmanship and best booth prizes.

Miss Chili Pepper prizes went to Kim and Joni Toland.

Although afternoon temperatures ranging in the low 100s managed to chase away a few less stout-hearted people, Sal Pavula said the turnout for the event was still high.

"This was an outstanding opening," said Pavula, a past president of the Rotary Club Simi Sunrise, an organizer of the cook-off and a judge for the Saturday event.

Jan and Ken Brown of Simi Valley — who usually are picking up a prize for their chili entries at local cook-offs — also served as judges for the event. The Browns most recently won a second place award at the Tropic Antelope Valley Regional Chili Cook-off in early September.

Even the so-called father of local chili cook-offs, Lee Westenhiser, showed up for the Simi Valley Days event.

"It's getting to be an old gathering now. And that's nice," said Westenhiser, who credits himself with bringing the chili cook-off phenomenon to Ventura County 13 years ago.

"For the past 13 years they're all this around and all still having fun," he said.

Thanks to all for cook-off help

To the editor:

Somewhere, a simple thank you just seems so inadequate. On Oct. 1, the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise sponsored a chili cook-off in conjunction with Simi Valley Days and sanctioned by the International Chili Society. The proceeds went to Rotary International's Polio Plus Program, which is determined to eradicate this disease worldwide.

We want to thank all the participants who extended their time and talent to make the cook-off a success. Thanks to The Enterprise, the Simi Valley Police Officers' Association, Simi Valley Drive-In, Bob Perrault of the Mitchell Co., Frank White, and Barbara Liberman of the New York Life Insurance Co. for sponsoring our trophies and plaques.

Thanks to Dave Sumrell of Big D's Hat Sales for supplying the silver belt buckle for first prize. Thanks to Pacific Beverage for all the assistance in advertising. And a very, very big thanks to three Rotarians whose endless effort is an example of true community spirit: Dave McCormick, John Blase and Bill Hughes.

And thank you Simi Valley for coming, tasting and enjoying.

SWAP MEET BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

THE PREM' PLACE

(overheard at a recent club event: "How can ANYBODY want to pay good money for all that junk?")
If any of the ladies happen to read this bulletin, please accept our sincere thanks for the magnificent results that you had at the swapmeet last weekend.
For those of you who have been out of the country, the ladies of the Rotary (with a little help from their male counterparts) organized a gathering of mostly saleable junk at the Mini Drive-In swapmeet last Sunday.

Prior to Sunday, member's garages poured out a veritable deluge of items. Everything from couches and bowling balls to T.V. sets and metal tubs filled with dirt-encrusted mounds of rusty nuts & bolts. There were enough items to completely fill Jim Lowry's truck.

The ladies took to the task of vigorously hustling the unsuspecting swapmeeters out of $600.00 for all that junk. That, coupled with some presale of items by the aforementioned Jim and yours truly, the grand take for that Sunday's worth of participation will be over $900.00!!!
The ladies will be using those funds to offset the cost of the upcoming Christmas Party. Ladies, you did a heck of a job. We look forward to celebrating the holidays, thanks to your efforts, with less of the "normal" financial squeeze associated with an assessed event. Thanks again.

JOHN & BOB... NO ONE BOUGHT THEM.

September 13, 1986 the members of District 524 were invited to attend The Simi Sunrise Rotary Club's Charter Night at the Posada Royale Quality Inn in Simi Valley.

In October, 1986 a Community Service project to help in gathering food stuffs for the shelves of Care and Share, a community food bank which provides for the needy, was sponsored by The Simi Sunrise Rotary Club. This was done as part of the Halloween, Trick-or-Treat activities of our community youth.

A beautiful place to live, an excellent place to prosper...Simi Valley presents a rare and valuable balance.

Contentment prevails here. Business executives and homebuyers alike have discovered the benefits of uncongested freedom. Yet, with magnificent country all around, there is no isolation. Business is served with forward thinking legislation, excellent transportation services, and a broad labor pool. Residents may delight in wide-open spaces or partake of city glamour and excitement only minutes away. Best of all, reasonable land, home and building costs open the door for ease of relocation.

The police chief finds himself as butt of many jokes at roast

By Stephanie Stassel
The Enterprise Staff

Police Chief Paul Miller was the butt of many jokes Saturday night as his friends recalled incidents, some amusing, some painful, from his six years in Simi Valley.

Miller's close call, the time he shot himself in the rear as he got dressed, inspired quite a few puns.

"Paul is an honest, straight-shooting, from the hip, I mean through-the-hip kind of guy," said Rep. Elton Gallegly, R-Simi Valley.

Dale Miller, a battalion chief with the Ventura County Fire Department, kidded the police chief about his real first name: Lindsay.

"The night he had his accident, I got three calls from the Fire Department. They said Lindsay has shot himself. I said, 'Lindsay who?'"

For safety's sake, the battalion chief gave Miller a plastic bow with suction cup arrows.

The police chief showed his appreciation by sticking one of the arrows on the battalion chief's plastic fire hat.

It was a night of good-natured humor that didn't stop with Miller. The traffic initiative group and The Enterprise also took some of the heat.

About 100 people paid $25 each to attend Miller's roast at Mountain Gate Plaza. Proceeds will go toward police prevention and local charities. The group included city officials, policeman and private citizens.

Each roaster took about 10 minutes to poke fun at and occasionally compliment Miller.

His chiropractor had a few words.

"One night some burglars stole all the toilet seats in the police station. Paul tells the newspaper they had nothing to go on, then he blames the paper for misquotes," said Dr. Ivan Delman.

Some of the jokes got a little personal.

Like the one from Bob Barrett, owner of Ken's Stationers, who said (Please see ROAST, Page 2)

TAKING AIM: Simi Valley Police Chief Paul Miller takes aim at Ventura County Fire Department Battalion Chief Dale Miller at a roast in the police chief's honor Saturday night. The toy weapon was a gift from Dale Miller as a reminder to the guests about the time the police chief shot himself.

Police Chief Miller to be roasted tonight

Simi Valley Police Chief Paul Miller will be roasted by the Simi Valley Footprint Association tonight at Mountain Gate Plaza.

The roast will begin at 9 p.m., with a no-honor bar at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $25 each for dinner.

Proceeds will be divided among Polio Plus, a Rotary International project, and local charities.

The roasting will be done by several prominent local personalities, including Simi Valley police Capt. Jerry Boyce, Ventura County Fire Department Battalion Chief Dale Miller, City Councilman Glen McAdoo and Dave McCormick, president-elect of the Simi Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Rep. Elton Gallegly, R-Simi Valley, has been invited, but his attendance has not been confirmed.

A few tickets are being made available to the public and can be obtained from Dick McCoy at Simi Valley Electric Co., 526-2736, or from McCormick, at Dave's Club Service, 538-4221.

Roast

that Miller has recently had a few problems.

"He picked up his coffee cup and the handle fell off. He went to grab his briefcase and pulled the handle off. He hasn't gone to the bathroom since," Barrett said.

Never missing the chance to joke about politics, Simi Valley City Councilman Glen McAdoo said the city fathers were thinking of banning toys guns.

"We decided against the idea because if we did, Miller wouldn't have a gun," he said.

"You should see him in the Thousand Oaks mall, walking up to everyone, saying, 'I'm the chief of Simi Valley,'" Capt. Jerry Boyce said.

Boyce hinted a few times that he wants the cherished morning shift at the Police Department. But given his enthusiasm for telling the jokes, it didn't look hopeful.

Dave McCormick, owner of Dave's Club Service, took a shot at Miller's receding hairline.

On a serious note, Attorney John Williamson called Miller "Perfect Paul."

"He can take scorn with dignity and grace. He has decided that polio is worse than ridicule. I don't know about you, but if you ask me, that's being perfect."

enough. We should do it more often," he said. "We tend to take life too seriously."

"They were all lies," she said. "If they were true, we'd all be in trouble."

The Simi Valley High School cheerleaders served as hostesses during dinner. The bar was run by the Simi Valley Elks. Both groups will receive a donation for their efforts, said Police Lt. Don Austin.

Austin, who was one of the organizers, said that he has enjoyed working under Miller. Austin has been with the department for 14 years.

"He's provided some strong direction," Austin said. "I can't begin to tell you what he's done."

The event was co-sponsored by the Simi Valley chapter of the International Footprint Association and the Sunrise Rotary Club of Simi Valley.

about you, but if you ask me, that's being perfect," Williamson said.

After the last joke was told, Miller took the microphone and told the group how much he appreciated their attendance.

"We don't get together like this

It was the first time Miller has been roasted, he said.

"It was fun," he said afterward. "I did it for money. I wouldn't do it for free."

His wife, Dorothea, said none of the jokes were true.

Talk of the town

Was the ribbing, joking and punning worthwhile at Simi Valley Police Chief Paul Miller's recent roast?

Members of the Rotary Club of Simi Valley think so. Miller recently presented a check for the proceeds of the fund-raiser — more than $1,700 — to the club. The money will be donated to Rotary International's Polio Plus program, reports Ivan Delman, Sunrise Rotary president.

FROM THE PRES'

CLUB GROWTH. . . BOY, DO WE NEED HELP!

One of the responsibilities that we accept as Rotarians is to share Rotary with others and to help extend Rotary through proposing qualified people for membership.

There are two more reasons why we would want to expand our membership: 1. with our projects upcoming plus future planned activities, it is a lot easier to have a larger group to work on these projects than what we have at the present time. 2. There is always attrition in a club and to keep it growing and viable, we should always plan for a constant 10% yearly growth.

Based upon the above and as stated at the last meeting, we have put together six committees whose express purpose is to get ONE member recruited into our club by the end of May, 1988. We'll call this the Five-For-One plan.

It is a total club effort to put a little more people-power muscle into our club and to give us a little deeper "bench strength".

Each committee will be chaired by a Rotarian who has several years under his belt of being in service clubs and having the ability to get members into the club.

To make all this work, a little planning has to be accomplished therefore it is important that each chairman has a meeting at his home or wherever is convenient BEFORE MARCH 15TH. If you don't have a place to meet, my office is available any day or night of the week.

THE PRES' CONTINUED

We are asking Frank White, who is the Club Membership Development Chairman to help coordinate all the "Five-For-One" groups so that all will be informed of each others progress. If we are to make our club THE club of choice in Simi Valley, a viable, active membership is one of the ways to accomplish this fact.

COMMITTEES FOR "FIVE-FOR-ONE PLAN"

A. Fasulo (Ch), Austin, Jackson, Malkin, Purdon; B. Delman (Ch), Blazey, Foster, Miller, Rogalsky; C. Lowry, (Ch), Cantrell, Cooksey, Patrick, Wilson; D. Coons (Ch), Carter, Hughes, Wike, Pompel; E. McCormick (Ch), Chase, Liberman, Perrault, F. White; F. Peet (Ch), Schaltenberg, G. White, Wieben.

When your meeting is held, it would be a good idea to keep notes so that any good ideas can be passed on to Frank White for the general membership development planning.

There is only one way to get someone interested in Rotary. . . JUST ASK SOMEONE. Please Get in touch with me if I can be of any assistance.

Again, Please try and complete your planning meetings so that we can have six new members by the end of May.

Thanks again. . . . Ivan

WHAT THE HECK IS A CLAM BAKE?

Before a small group of us got together at George Chase's house last Saturday, that's what I was thinking. By the end of a very pleasant afternoon, I was excited at what George and his crew have in store for our community and for the membership of our club.

Since I grew up in the "wilds" of Chicago, I really didn't have much of an idea what a "Great New England Clam Bake" was all about. George spent a considerable amount of time explaining the art and the logistics of putting together a clam bake. (How to dig the pit, lay in the layers of seaweed, clams, potatoes, sausages, corn, etc. etc. & etc.) (We also spent a considerable amount of time drinking beer, eating great snacks prepared by Anne Chase and, for the finale, George prepared many samples of his own recipe of New England clam cakes)

The bottom line is, you not only missed a great social afternoon but you missed the beginning plans for the "Great New England Clam Bake" which will take place on Saturday, April 30, 1988. This will be our second major event for our club and should prove to be a fantastic annual event & fundraiser.

Before we have the big event, we will have a trial clam bake so that we can work out the "bugs". This trial event will take place on Saturday, February 6, 1988. We will invite local dignitaries, business leaders and others who will be able to spread the word to the community about the upcoming event in April.

More about the clam bake in this bulletin and future meetings.

New England Clam Bake to benefit PolioPlus

Simi Valley Postmaster Neil Havens was recently presented with the first ticket to the "Great New England Clam Bake" by Ivan Delman, president of Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise.

The clam bake, scheduled for May 1 at the Strathearn Historical Park, is the second largest event sponsored by the Rotary breakfast club this year.

The repeat will feature clams, chicken, Portuguese sausage, corn on the cob, potatoes and the famous New England clam cakes. The food will be prepared in the traditional New England clam pits by steaming for several hours.

There will be entertainment all day with Country and Western bands, special events for the kids and a visit from the famous Budweiser Clydesdales.

Visitors should find plenty to eat and drink all day from noon to 6 p.m. and the proceeds of each $20 ticket will go to the PolioPlus Foundation.

PolioPlus is an international campaign by all Rotarians to eradicate polio in the entire world by the year 2000.

For more information, call Clam Bake Hotline, 584-6300, or for information about the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise, call Delman at 527-4767.

Rotary Club donates $500 to local DARE program

Officer John St. Laurent of the Simi Valley Police Department's Drug Abuse Resistance Education program recently spoke at a breakfast meeting of the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise. Following St. Laurent's presentation, the club's board members voted to donate $500 to DARE.

According to Chief Paul Miller, Simi Sunrise Rotary's contribution is the first donation made by a service club.

The DARE program began in 1983 in the Los Angeles Unified School District and spread to the Simi Valley Unified School District last year.

In the program, two police officers are given the full-time assignment of increasing sixth graders' ability to resist the use of drugs through education on peer pressure and self-esteem.

The Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise meets 7 a.m. every Thursday morning at the Quality Inn, Pasadena Royale. For information about membership, call President Ivan Delman at 527-4767.

Hundreds clam up to try to eradicate polio

ON THE WAGON: Bud, the Budweiser dog, stands guard on top of the beer company's wagon as a guest at the Rotary's clambake Sunday at Stratheam Historical Park. The world famous Clydesdales are hitched to the wagon. The event raised funds to eradicate polio.

By Carol Tucker
The Enterprise Staff

Hundreds of people were happy as clams at the Great New England Clambake on Sunday at Stratheam Historical Park.

The clambake, cosponsored by Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise and Stratheam Historical Park to benefit Polio Plus, drew more than 600 people to the park, said event chairman Len Carter. He estimated that about 400 people bought the dinners, which cost $20 per person.

As of this morning, the amount of funds raised had not yet been tallied, Carter said. "We'll see a profit of donations to Polio Plus. At this time, we don't know how much it will be," Carter said.

"The Rotarians' goal is to eradicate polio by 1995," Carter said. Money raised in the clambake will help the three Simi Valley Rotary clubs meet their combined goal of $150,000 this year to combat the deadly disease, Carter said, adding that a chili cook-off is planned this fall to benefit Polio Plus.

While the clams were steaming, people were basking in the sun as they listened to music, watched a Kung Fu exhibition and a corn-on-the-cob eating contest. The corn eating competition was intended to pit students from Simi Valley's three high schools against each other. But only one showed up, so organizers persuaded people in the audience to see who could gobble up the corn the fastest.

Carter said the winner, Randy Stoneking, chomped through 10 ears of corn in the eight minutes allowed. Monty Zuniga and Peter Moyer ate nine and eight ears of corn, finishing in second and third place respectively.

In addition, a team of Clydesdales pulling a red wagon of Budweiser beer was on display for several hours, brought by Anheuser-Busch Inc. from the Coney Valley Days. A Dalmatian stood in the back, wagging its tail.

Carter said the Clydesdales, which are from the East Coast, enhanced the program. "We felt they would lend a touch of the East Coast to our clambake because of their presence back there," he said.

Sitting on haystacks in the hot sun, people relaxed to the country-Western sounds of Rick Tucker and his band. "Yeah, I'm having fun," said Carol Lang, who had brought her 4-year-old daughter, Amanda.

Lang said she was enjoying the entertainment and beer. "It sure beats sitting at home."

Besides Tucker, the Simi Valley High School jazz band performed.

By mid-afternoon, a long line had formed for the feast of clams, which were steamed over an open barbecue pit, clam chowder soup and clam cakes. For non-clam lovers, there was barbecued chicken, grilled halibut, Portuguese and Polish sausage, corn on the cob, potatoes, onions and plenty of soft drinks and beer to drink.

People eagerly anticipated the meal. "All the people who don't like Simi Valley and are always putting it down ought to try this," said resident Lou Parfitt.

For John Smith of Simi Valley it was his first experience eating the shellfish. "It looks good," he said. After taking a bite, he said, "It tastes like clams."

Volume 2, No. 11

WHAT IS A CLAMBAKE?

I recently spoke with a lady in Portland, Maine who described a clam bake as an epicurean's delight. Well, that's not exactly what she said. It was more along the line of, it's a hell of an event with damn fine food. Ah, those New Englanders, they do have a way with words.

On the East Coast clambakes are common but never common. A clambake is an event not unlike our own barbecue, barn dance or picnic. We are going to bring that event to the West Coast. We are going to introduce our friends and neighbors to a Great New England Clambake, with a touch of the old west of course. The whalers of New England joining hands with the cowboys of the west. We will substitute the park for the beach, grass for the sand, sun for the fog. A perfect melding of the two cultures.

Imagine strolling through a beautiful, scenic, historic park, bands playing from an old western wagon, clowns making balloons for the kids, magicians and mimes, local and theatrical celebrities, the smell of food cooking on a giant grill.

Further on, after stopping for a cold beer, inspect and enjoy the giant barn and other buildings restores and maintained by our exceptional Historical Society. Then on to view the eighth wonder of the world those magnificent Clydesdales.

Finally back to the dining area for a repast of steamed clams, barbecue chicken, grilled halibut, clam chowder, clam cakes, portugese sausage, polish sausage, corn on the cob, potatoes, onions, sauces and dressings. Eat to your hearts content, there is still time to sit in the shade of the trees, sipping a cool beer or soft drinks and relax to the music of yet another band. A whole afternoon of fun, enjoyment and fine food.

All this and a donation to Polio Plus.

My friends, it just doesn't get any better!

Len

Rotary club feted for service

The Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise received an Extraordinary Act of Service Award from a representative of Rotary International for its contributions to the worldwide Polio Plus Foundation.

The Polio Plus program is a concerted effort by various organizations, including the World Health Organization and Rotary, to eliminate polio and several other communicable diseases by the year 1995. According to president-elect Paul Miller, the Simi Sunrise Club has so far contributed more than $5,000 toward that effort with a commitment of $10,000 to be achieved one year early.

At the same meeting, the station commander from the Simi Valley recruiting service, Sgt. 1st Class Randolph Dannelley, discussed the "new" Army and its emphasis on quality recruits. He also explained that the Army's educational program offers a $25,000 scholarship plan to recruits after four years of enlisted service. According to Dannelley, under the plan a new recruit contributes $1,500 during his first year of enlistment, and at the end of four years of enlistment, the recruit will receive the scholarship.

Dannelley contributed $100 to the Polio Plus Foundation on behalf of the recruiting station.

The Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise meets at 7 a.m. every Thursday at the Quality Inn, Posada Royale. For more information, call Rotary president Ivan Delman at 527-4767.

Adult School grad sets sights on respiratory therapy

Whether he's working as an automobile mechanic or as the director of the Cardiopulmonary/EEG Department at Simi Valley Adventist Hospital, Tom Jackson is proud of his accomplishments and looks forward to his future.

Jackson was introduced to respiratory therapy by his sister, who worked at Simi Valley Adventist Hospital in the late 1960s. Always eager to pursue knowledge, Jackson entered the respiratory therapy technician program at Simi Valley Adult School in 1978, but for financial reasons, he dropped out of the program to work full time as an auto mechanic. During that time, he entered the Air National Guard and was trained in air/medical evacuation techniques.

Jackson returned to the respiratory therapy technician program at the Adult School in 1982 and, while still a student in the program, he was hired as a technician by Adventist Hospital.

Upon graduation, Jackson passed the respiratory therapy technician certification examination and received national certification and California licensure as a respiratory care practitioner. He continued his educational pursuits by commuting to Glendale Adventist Medical Center, and he also attended the American Society of EEG Technologist School in Utah.

Upon returning to Simi Valley in 1984, Jackson established the EEG Department at the Adventist Hospital.

"The (cardiopulmonary/EEG program) was a contracted service before," Jackson said. "We had to set up the necessary protocol and purchase equipment. At first, I was the only technician. I worked seven days a week, and was on call 24 hours a day."

After Jackson successfully completed the national pulmonary function technician examination, the hospital promoted him to the position of clinical coordinator of the Cardiopulmonary/EEG Department in 1985, and technical director in 1987.

Since its initiation, the department has expanded to include four technicians. Jackson was instrumental in developing a sleep disorder clinic, related to breathing disorders during sleep, within the program. Working with lung specialists, he also helped to set up a fiber-optic bronchoscopy lab in 1987. The procedure allows doctors to diagnose lung problems without (in many cases) having to actually cut a patient's chest to perform surgery.

Jackson is a member of the American Association of Respiratory Care, the California Society of Respiratory Care and the American Association of EEG Technologists. He is currently enrolled in an off-campus program of the San Diego-based California College of Health Science that will prepare him for the registered respiratory therapist examination. He also plans to take the polysomnography (sleep disorder) registry examination in 1989.

As director of the Cardiopulmonary/EEG Department at Simi Valley Adventist Hospital,

Jackson lends his support to the Simi Valley Adult School respiratory therapy program. He and his "crew" supervise the Adult School students during the clinical site training portion of their program.

"Students from the program come to the hospital for hands-on training," Jackson said. "It's a very good program — we've been happy with the quality of the students. As a matter of fact, approximately one-third of our staff are graduates of the Adult School."

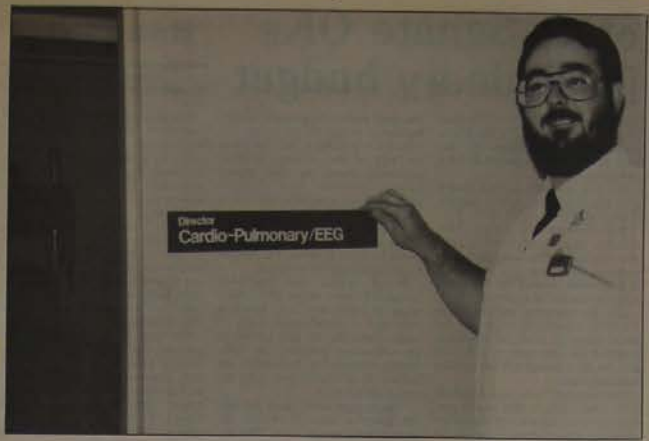

When not working or studying, Jackson is active within the community. As a board member for the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise, he works with other members to benefit various charity programs, including Polo Plus and Rainbow House.

He is currently serving on the board for the Simi Valley Days Planning Committee, and is chairman of the Simi Valley Days Chili Cook-off.

True to his days as an auto mechanic, Jackson's favorite hobby is restoring old automobiles.

"In a vague sense, medicine and mechanics are very similar," Jackson said. "With both, you look at the symptoms, try to diagnose the problems from those symptoms and then correct the problem. Automotive training helped me with that thought process."

Simi Valley Adult School will be accepting applications for its 1988-89 respiratory therapy technician program through July 15. For more information, call 527-4940.

PROUD DIRECTOR: Tom Jackson, a former auto mechanic, graduated from the Simi Valley Adult School's respiratory therapy program and is now the director of the Cardiopulmonary/EEG Department at the Simi Valley Adventist Hospital. He is working toward his certification as a respiratory therapist.

NEW MEMBER: Sal Fasulo is congratulated by his wife Mary after he was sworn in as the newest member of the Rancho Simi Recreation and Park District Board of Directors. Fasulo is replacing Don Mielke.

Fasulo sworn in as board member

A new member of Rancho Simi Recreation and Park District's Board of Directors said Thursday night that he expects to take a few weeks to get acquainted with the district.

But Sal Fasulo, 51, said he anticipates it won't take him very long to become adjusted and make a viable contribution as a board member.

Fasulo was sworn in near the start of the board meeting and a brief intermission was called for district staff and others to meet him and wish him well.

"I've got a lot to learn about the issues," Fasulo said, "but I'm eager."

Fasulo is replacing Don Mielke, whose resignation due to health problems was effective June 1. Mielke's seat, which he had for seven years, is to come up for election in November. Therefore, Fasulo will have to be elected in November to retain his position for a full four-year term.

According to Board Chairman Don Funk, Fasulo was the top candidate for the position out of the nine who applied.

"We needed an experienced person who had an idea of how the park district works," he said, adding that Fasulo is also a very respected member of the community.

Fasulo, vice president and general manager of theater operations for Metropolitan Theatres, has lived in Simi Valley for 25 years and has been active in youth recreation as a boys and girls basketball coach.

His experience working with the Park District on the perimeter, he said, has prepared him for this step.

"This is kind of a continuation of that career," Fasulo said. He said he was planning to run for election to the board in November when Mielke announced his resignation.

Later in the meeting, Funk appointed Fasulo to serve on the district's youth activities committee and to act as a liaison with the Simi Valley Planning Commission.

So far, Fasulo said, he has been impressed with the district and with the materials provided to familiarize him with the issues. Soon he intends to arrange to have a tour of the district with Don Hunt, assistant general manager for planning.

Director Rick Fields also expressed satisfaction with the board's decision. "Sal's a great man. We did real good," he said.

I would like to thank Simi Sunrise Rotary for your organization's generous donation to the D.A.R.E. Program. The contribution will help enable us to continue teaching our youth to say "No" to drugs.

The overwhelming success of this program is due, in part, to the support given from the service organizations in our community. This support will aid in the continued expansion of the program and help in the purchase of materials used for teaching D.A.R.E.

SIMI VALLEY — Two women were formally accepted Wednesday as the first female members of the Simi Sunrise Rotary Club of Simi Valley, said the club's president, Paul Miller.

Keeping world peace afloat—The Rotary clubs of Simi Valley, Simi Sunrise, and Rancho Simi, California, U.S.A., entered a local parade last September to symbolize the role that Rotary's international quest for peace plays in an imperfect world. Not surprisingly, their float, for which 34,000 sheets of facial tissue were used, was the first-prize winner in the competition.

Rotary bell

Chief of Police Paul Miller, president of the Simi Sunrise Rotary Club, took pity this week on Jere Robings, president of the Rotary Club of Simi Valley.

Miller presented Robings a giant soup pot and a ladle to bang on it.

It is a Rotary tradition to start meetings by banging a gavel on a bell, and it has become a tradition of sorts for someone to steal the bell of an incoming president of the Rotary Club of Simi Valley, and that's exactly what happened to Robings.

Which is why citizens are asked not to become alarmed if they hear strange sounds coming from the El Gallito Restaurant at about noon each Tuesday.

Club History for the Rotary Club of Simi Sunrise, Simi Valley, California, U.S.A.

1987-1988 Ivan Delman, D.C., President

The quick wit and always positive attitude of President Ivan led the Sunrisers through a great year of accomplishment. Working with District Governor Raymond "Ray" Wirth, The Club pushed through the critical third year of its existence, by outperforming the expectations of its active and boisterous membership.

August 29, 1987 was the first Rotary Ann luncheon where the ladies had a chance to meet and discuss plans for a fun filled year as part of The Club team.

In September, 1987, The Club took on its first series of major fund raisers by sponsoring a full RODEO, along with a TRUCK AND TRACTOR PULL, followed in one week by an officially sanctioned CHILI COOK-OFF. The events put The Club on the map and raised sufficient funds to support several local charity organizations and send monies to meet The Club's commitment towards Polio Plus.

Once again The Club conducted a mystery night, chaired by one of its newest members Doug Wieben. A 90 minute bus trip took us through space and into the Medieval Times where an evening of fun and laughter was had by all.

Not a Club to follow time proven procedures, but one that trudges ahead into new and uncharted areas, The Club held a 'members swap meet' during November 1987 at the local community Swap Meet. Sponsored by the Rotary Anns, the event was more successful than anyone ever dreamed. Surely an annual event that citizens everywhere will be looking forward to participating in again.

Rotarian and president-elect Paul Miller, aka Chief of Police, allowed himself to be the subject of a "roast" by local dignitaries, politicians and fellow Rotarians. The April 9, 1988 event was well attended and produced laughs galore and $2,000.00 for Polio Plus. It was another example of creative fund raising and Service Above Self.

On May 1, 1988, The Club held it's first NEW ENGLAND CLAM BAKE at the local Historical Park. Everyone who participated in this labor and material intensive activity enjoyed themselves and were looking forward to an even bigger and better event next year. The funds raised were designated to The Club's Polio Plus commitment.

As a way of educating the citizens of Simi Valley and spreading the word about Rotary, The Club created the idea of an information booth at the Chamber of Commerce's Trade Fair on May 21/22, 1988. The event was coordinated with the other two local Rotary Clubs. A brochure outlining the uniqueness of The Clubs was produced and handed out by members of the Rotary Clubs of Simi Valley, Rancho Simi and Simi Sunrise to nearly 1500 prospective members and interested attendees.

On June 25, 1988, President Ivan was demoted and his wife Joan was presented a Paul Harris Fellow. She was recognized for her many activities involving the Rotary Anns, the Christmas party and many photographs of events throughout the year which made The Club activities memorable.
