How Our Club Started...

The Rotary Club of Ventura was chartered by Rotary International on May 1, 1919. The club was sponsored by the Rotary Club of Santa Barbara.

But that date is not really the beginning of the story. A meeting of Ventura business people and Santa Barbara Club Rotarians took place almost a whole year earlier in the week of June 3, 1918, where the seeds were sown for the establishment, immediately, of an unchartered Ventura Rotary Club.

The first meeting of the Ventura Rotary Club took place on Wednesday, June 12, 1918 at the Hotel De Leon in downtown Ventura. James Briscoe, retiring President of the Santa Barbara Rotary Club, which had received its charter in January, 1918, and Byron Terry, a charter member of Rotary Club Number One, (Chicago Rotary Club, Mr. Terry actually knew Paul Harris), were present and explained the purposes of Rotary.

Twenty prominent Ventura members of different professions joined that day, electing J. Hyde Chaffee President and L. P. Hathaway Secretary. A committee was formed and instructed to formulate a Constitution and By Laws. Wednesday at noon was fixed as the date and time of the weekly meeting, which, of course, holds to this day.

Before receiving its charter our club was very active, recruiting more members and working for Rotary International approval.

On January 2, 1919, the Club speaker was William Dalliba, an American in Paris that organized the great American Ambulance during World War I and received the highest honor of the French Republic, the Chevalier Legion of Honor.

On February 12, 1919, by unanimous vote, our club voted to affiliate with the International Association of Rotary Clubs. At the time Rotary International had 429 Clubs and a membership of 38,800, located in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Ireland, Cuba, China and Uruguay. Through this affiliation our club had to raise its annual dues from $5.00 to a whopping $10.00.

The Ventura Star reported on April 1, 1919, that Dr. F. F. Nalder of the University of California gave a talk on the popular Rotary idea of "Pulling Together." Club singing was a preferred method.

"If any Rotarian knows another Rotarian who has nerve enough to sing in that bunch of highbinders, an opportunity may be given at an early meeting."

Our Club received its Charter from Rotary International on May 16, 1919, and appropriately celebrated together in song.

Our Club heritage and its activities today truly reflect the history of our County, the events that have shaped the lives of many generations, the individual and cooperative contributions of our many members and the purposes of Rotary International.

Program

Ed Summers introduced the program which brought together, in a forum, club members who are directly involved in the City of Ventura’s homelessness issues. For many reasons, Ventura continues to have the highest percentage of homeless in the County. In recent years, a more cooperative interaction among social service providers has been having an impact on those numbers.

Jeff Lambert, Community Development Director for the City, spoke of the formal efforts of the council, particularly the “safe and clean” initiative to act on vagrancy and illegal activities as opposed to criminilizing someone’s housing situation. Jeff reminded us that the City itself does not provide homeless services, but rather the Ventura County Behavioral Health Department.

Jim Duran of Project Understanding emphasized the “hand up not hand out” approach used by churches and agencies to address the needs of the homeless.

Rob Orth, with the Salvation Army, touted the “Homeless to Home” project to transition people to self-sustaining
