Traumatized Kids Have an Advocate

Kerrie Cohan, Executive Director of the Madison Co. Child Advocacy Center visited the club with a member of her board, Patty Bortko. The center, located in the old radiology department of the former Wood River Hospital, is designed to "minimize the trauma" for children who have been victimized through sexual or physical abuse. Kerrie reported that the most frequent offenders (65%) are relatives or caregivers of the children. In the county, there were 2772 allegations of neglect or abuse last years, with 698 that were "indicated," meaning that there was evidence to back up the allegation. There were 262 allegations of sexual abuse with 80 indicated. In sum, 1 in 22 children are likely subject to be abused.

When there has been an allegation, the Child Advocacy Center (CAC) sets up an interview with the child in their kid-friendly environment and coordinates all of the responders (Multi-disciplinary team) on behalf of the child, so that the child does not have to retell the same story over and over. In 2008, their services resulted in 100 prosecutions of abusers. We are truly fortunate to have such a service available to us in Madison county.

Rotary Youth Exchange places around 8000 students per year in short-term or long term exchange settings where the students are able to live in a foreign country, go to school or work and experience the culture. Rotarians serve as host families for the students.

A drunk and a preacher were driving up a mountainside in different vehicles. The drunk was swerving from side to side; the preacher was driving straight and true. All of a sudden, the preacher lost control and drove off the edge of a cliff. The drunk noticed the preacher going off the edge, so he stopped his car and went to see if he was all right. He noticed the preacher was climbing up the hillside. He yelled down at the preacher, "Are you alright?" And the preacher replied, "Have no fear my son, I had the Lord riding with me." The drunk then yelled back, "You had better let him ride with me next time, cuz your gonna get him killed!"

Banerjee is choice for 2011-12 RI president

Kalyan Banerjee, a member of the Rotary Club of Vapi, Gujarat, India, since 1972, is the selection of the Nominating Committee for President of Rotary International in 2011-12. Banerjee will become the president-nominee on 1 October if there are no challenging candidates.

Banerjee said he would like to see Rotary "blossom from being the world's most recognized service organization to being the most important NGO [nongovernmental organization] in the world.

"Rotary, it is said, has the strength of a government and the tenderness of a parent," he added. Banerjee is a director of United Phosphorus Limited, the largest agrochemical manufacturer in India, and the chair of United Phosphorus (Bangladesh) Limited. He is a member of the Indian Institute of Chemical Engineers and the American Chemical Society, a past president of Vapi Industries Association, and former chair of the Gujarat chapter of the Confederation of Indian Industry. He earned a degree in chemical engineering from the Indian Institute of Technology, Kharagpur, in 1964.

Banerjee has served Rotary as a director, Rotary Foundation trustee, committee and task force chair, International Assembly group discussion leader, president's representative, and district governor.

The chair of the Southeast Asia Regional PolioPlus Committee, Banerjee has served as a member of the International PolioPlus Committee for many years and has attended international meetings with the World Health Organization and UNICEF in that capacity.

Banerjee's wife, Binota, is a social worker and Inner Wheel club member. The couple have two children and four grandchildren.
