

News Both Fit and Unfit!

Guest Speaker – Casey Coolbaugh

Casey Addison Coolbaugh, partner in Muckles was our speaker today.

Muckles is a screen printing business Casey and his partners started in 2012, in his basement. Casey is a believer of the free market and soon after he started the business, it outgrew the basement, out grew the barn they built and now in transition to his 4th location. The business will be located at the corner of State and Court in Binghamton, the old Family dollar, and before that, I think McCrory's. The business has always recently reached a licensing agreement with BU to provide BU logo Apparel, paraphernalia, the Greek Frats and more. Casey thrives on technology and building systems and can actually run the business from his iPad. The entire product is handcrafted manually with love in the basement of the new location; Casey appears to enjoy working out of basements. 97% of what is available is made right here. The grand opening is targeted for the first Friday in November, but the business should be open in a month. The product line includes T's, crew necks, hoodies, ¼ zips, soccer type shirts, hats, mugs and more. One very unique feature about Muckles is that it has a "location Trailer" and can "print" live out of a 4' by 6' trailer. Thank you Casey.
