

The Four-Way Test

Of the things we think, say or do:

1. Is it the TRUTH
2. Is it FAIR to all concerned?
3. Will it build GOODWILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
4. Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?

Moore Happenings

Making a Difference Here & There

Attention Please!

The more you're grateful for, the more good you bring into your life.

--Alana Stewart

My dad told me, "Don't practice until you can do it right - practice until you can't do it wrong. Excellent advice all around. Dad's some kind of secret Zen master.

--Son of Herb

Don't hold onto a mistake just because you spent a long time making it.

--Unknown

Two things said by dads everywhere:

- 1) you will never be good at something in the beginning.
- 2) we can't come back to Nana's house if we don't leave first.

Dinosaurs did not read. Look what happened to them!

Love fiercely. Because this all ends.

UPCOMING MEETINGS

Fascinating!

SEPTEMBER 14, 2016

"Seize the time, Meribor. Live now, make now always the most precious time. Now will never come again."

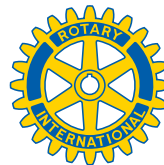

--Picard (The Inner Light)

David Anderson is the Director of Organizational Development for First United Bank. His passion and enthusiasm for guiding others in their personal and professional development have motivated audiences for more than 20 years.

Understanding and managing attention is now the single most important determinant of business success. Attention Management is an easy-to-understand, easy to implement tool for enhanced productivity. Rather than emphasize efficiency, it focuses on effectiveness. Instead of urgency, it concentrates on proactivity. Instead of fixating on time and things, it highlights relationships and results.

So the only thing to say now is, "Live long and prosper!"

Welcome, David!

Made You Smile!

In the foyer of a Manchester hotel, Sir Thomas Beecham, British conductor, saw a distinguished looking woman whom he believed he knew, though he could not remember her name. He paused to talk to her and as he did so vaguely remembered that she had a brother. Hoping for a clue, he asked how her brother was and whether he was still working in the same job. "Oh, he's very well," she answered, "and still king."

While in exile King Carol of Rumania told his friend, the British diplomat Sir Robert Bruce Lockhart, that during his reign he had selected fourteen of the brightest Rumanians for special training in the government service. He sent seven to England and seven to the United States, to study their political and economic systems. "The seven who went to England were very smart-they all achieved great success in the government in Bucharest," said Carol. "What about the seven you sent to the States?" asked Lockhart. "They were even smarter," said the King. "They stayed there."
