

Gabrielson named Rotary president

Jeffrey Gabrielson of Cape Elizabeth has been elected president of the South Portland-Cape Elizabeth Rotary Club for the 2003-2004 year.

Gabrielson took the helm on July 1 and will serve for one year, replacing last year's president, Rick Dobson.

Gabrielson retired from the U.S. Coast Guard in 1998 where his last position was a deputy director of maritime policy in the Office of Intelligence and Security for the Secretary of Transportation. Gabrielson has degrees in marine biology and oceanography from California State University Long Beach.

Since his retirement from the Coast Guard, he has been a partner in a construction business and has also worked part-time as a maritime security consultant.

Gabrielson makes his home in Cape Elizabeth with his wife Linda, a faculty member at Southern Maine Community College, who is completing her Ed.D. from the University of Maine.

Their children, Jeremy and Erin, both graduated from Cape Elizabeth High School and are recent graduates of Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. Another son, Gregory, is a senior at Cape Elizabeth High School and a member of the Cape Wet Team and Cape Fire Department.

Serving on the Rotary

Club's board with Gabrielson for this coming year are: Frank Butterworth, president-elect; Peter Cotter, vice president; Marcie Martelle, treasurer; Paul Butler, secretary; Tom Meyers, club service director; John Eliassen, community service director; Mariann Goff, international service director; Ed Ingraham, vocational service director; and Rick Dobson, immediate past president and director at large.
