

Cape Elizabeth photographer Jack Kennealy will exhibit his work in the 20th annual Laudholm Nature Crafts Festival, to be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 8, and Sunday, Sept. 9, at the Wells Reserve, 342 Laudholm Farm Road in Wells.

"I'm thrilled and honored to be invited to exhibit my work at Laudholm," said Kennealy, whose work was selected by jury. "It's a tremendous festival in truly gorgeous surroundings with so many excellent artisans." The festival features 100 New England artists and craftspeople.

Admission is $5 per person. The Wells Reserve has a no-pets, no-smoking policy. Lunch is available on site, including lobster rolls, clam chowder, and a variety of home-baked sweets.

All proceeds from the Laudholm Nature Crafts Festival benefit Laudholm Trust, which supports research, education, and stewardship programs at the Wells National Estuarine Research Reserve.

For more information, call 646-4521.

Jack Kennealy