Who Can host?

Any kind of family - single (s), married couples with kids, retirees, anyone with a spare room and an interest in sharing it with an international visitor.

Why Hosting Matters

Open World has placed more than 30,000 delegates with American host families across nearly every state since 1999. The Members of Parliament joining us in July are sitting elected officials studying how a working democracy legislates — at a moment when that question is anything but academic. They'll see how it works at the kitchen table, not just in conference rooms.

What do I need to know?

That you want to welcome this delegation into your home! (no special expertise!)

We will provide you with guidelines, a guest profile, and meet with you in advance of their visit. We can also answer questions at anytime!
