Amber, an Indiana University graduate in Applied Communication/Public Relations with a minor in Environmental Management, brought her passion for promoting food security and sustainability to Texas in 2020. Having previously worked as a program coordinator, offering vital resources and social services to low-income housing communities, she found her calling with Second Servings, a local nonprofit committed to diverting surplus food away from the landfill to feed those in need instead. Now, three years later, Amber spearheads fundraising campaigns, special events, volunteer coordination, social media, and other marketing initiatives. Additionally, she spends her weekends supporting global hunger relief efforts with another nonprofit, Rise Against Hunger, as a part-time/seasonal event coordinator.

Supporting the environment is Rotary's seventh area of focus. It joined peace-building and conflict prevention; disease prevention and treatment; water, sanitation, and hygiene; maternal and child health; basic education and literacy; and community economic development.
