Program

Maricopa County Attorney Bill Montgomery told us about his office and explained what he does. He was introduced by Jim Patmos.

Attorney Montgomery has been in office for seven years and was just re-elected for another four-year term.

The County budget is $1B, of which he has $1M to work with. His office handles all civil legal duties for the County. His office has 900 criminal attorneys which includes 360 prosecutors.

He noted the County is at a 50-year low for crime. Maricopa County is the third largest in the nation for size of office/budget/prosecutions.

He said that in this county, a first offense will not be jailed, nor likely will a second, so only those committing a third offense will be jailed. Ninety-five percent of all county inmates are repetitive criminals.

Changes were incorporated in October of this year to get attorneys better connected with communities. Sixty percent of county employees do community service/ volunteer activities.

He noted that George Soros spent $2M last year on Attorney Bill's campaign opponent. After the election, the opponent sent George a copy of the contract for County Attorney.

Attorney Bill said that when he meets with other County attorneys, he has determined that "it is more about right vs. wrong rather than right vs. left." They all do what is right and are not political when applying to activities of the job.

He finds that the hardest thing to do is to tell a victim that he is unable to file a case. These are situations that are either out of his jurisdiction or charges will not create any action-able penalty.
