CHRC Members hear from Flight 33 and Live Love Chandler

Christine Puzauskas displays check from Chandler Horizon Rotary Foundation.

We had two speakers again last week, both representing recipients of funds from our 27th annual Hole-in-One Contest.

Chris Puzauskas told us how Flight 33 came to being in February, 1999, when she was watching the news on TV in her home in Tempe and saw the horrific story of a murder-suicide in Guadalupe leaving six children without parents and their grandmother, mourning the loss of her daughter, as their sole caretaker.

Chris went to Guadalupe, found out where they lived and went there only to discover there were 18 children in three families living in the home. She went to her church and they conducted fundraisers.

She and volunteers started to tutor the 18 children, which grew to 35, then 50, then 100, then 200. "It was something I had to do," she said.

Today Flight 33 has 15 volunteers and little to no overhead. The educational program has expanded to high school, ASU and even some adults including a few in pre-med. Flight 33 provides basic needs, such as clothes and shoes, plus school and medical supplies, and always are in need of more.

Chris thanked Tim and Susan Gibson for their donation of fruit (oranges, grapefruit and lemons) off their trees and for their support as tutors. Tim noted he soon will have additional fruit, including apples, plums and figs.

Chris said the coronavirus pandemic started slowly but recently has spread much more rapidly in Guadalupe. They have had three deaths in the past week.

She thanked CHRC for its continued support, both financial and hands-on.

Mike Sorce told us that Live Love Chandler was started 10 years ago by Paul and Melinda Gunther, who had been missionaries in Guatemala. They discovered people in need near downtown Chandler, particularly near Erie and Colorado streets.

MIKE SORCE

Live Love is a faith-based organization that has developed service projects as well as mentorship programs. They recently completed a project of painting 40 double-wide trailers.

In whatever way possible, they strive to promote compassionate connections with those they serve, one neighbor to another. They currently have about 180 volunteers but always are looking for more.

Live Love has expanded its faith-based support into a global perspective, including in Haiti and Malawi in Africa. Liberia is on the horizon.

Mike brought us up-to-date on their OASIS project near Gazelle Meadows Park. They have purchased a two-acre parcel of land and plan to build a community center and a vocational center, although plans have recently been modified to make the buildings smaller to allow increased space for their community garden.

Mike thanked CHRC for its continued support.

It was interesting to note the similarity of Flight 33 and Live Love, even though they are on opposite sides of the city of Chandler. The service they provide and those who are served are in many ways very similar. We thank both of them for all they do for their respective communities.

THE FOUR WAY TEST of the things we think, say or do

1. Is it the TRUTH?
2. Is it FAIR to all concerned?
3. Will it build GOODWILL and BETTER FRIENDSHIPS?
4. Will it be BENEFICIAL to all concerned?

SONGS, FINES & SUCH

Roger Morsch paid $10 each for three of his grandchildren who are spending a couple of months with Roger and Mitsi. A fourth grandchild couldn't come because she is getting married later in the summer. Roger then took a step in memory of his mother-in-law, Patsy Thomas, who passed away suddenly in Illinois. She was in the hospital and they thought she was doing better, but then passed away May 12.

Jim Patmos paid $3 for Memorial Day and, while he was digging through some boxes of family archives he had an unfortunate encounter with a scorpion. Soo-San Stevens-Clarke paid for a Memorial Day remembrance: $5 each for our four members who served in the Armed Forces: Doug Gardner and Jerry Turner in the Army, plus Tim Gibson and Ron Stevens in the Marine Corps.

Tim Gibson paid $5 for a trip to Prescott where he watched his granddaughter paddleboard and he spent some time on his boat. Brad Raymond paid $3 for a good time at the cabin, including kayaking adventures.

Larry Gardner paid $2 for his son who is going through some medical issues, including loss of blood and loss of weight.

Jim Hoenig paid $2 for a chance to see his daughter and son-in-law when they delivered peaches to him and then headed home where Joy made seven batches of peach jam over the weekend, and for the speedy recovery from coronavirus by PDG Norma Taylor-Roderique. She had tested positive a few weeks ago while her husband tested negative; however, Norma tested negative early last week. Said she felt like she had a bad cold. She's doing better now.

Board Meeting

The Board of Directors held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday, at least part of it.

The virtual meeting was cut short because of technical issues. It will be completed after this morning's club meeting to finish review of the items on the agenda.

The board agreed to write off fees charged to members who wish to pay their dues electronically. This will be on a six-month trial basis.

The board also approved renewal of our membership in the Chandler Chamber of Commerce. Along with Kurt Rohrs, Terry Locke agreed to be a liaison with the chamber.

Terry Locke reported that a recent survey of club members regarding a return to San Marcos for our meetings produced 15 yes votes, eight no (at least not at the present), and five he didn't hear from.

The plan is to go back to San Marcos next week, at least for those who want to venture out. It will be a live as well as a virtual meeting for those who wish to say home. You'll hear more about the plans at this morning's club meeting.
