

THE CHRIS MURZIN FOUNDATION

C.H.R.I.S. (Collaborative Homicide Research and Investigative Solutions) 501(c)(3) is a remarkable initiative born from a tragic event. It is an organization dedicated to supporting law enforcement in solving unsolved homicide cases, providing hope and advocacy for victims and their families, and protecting communities affected by such crimes. By partnering with the private sector, C.H.R.I.S. aims to leverage innovative techniques and technology to enhance law enforcement efforts and bring closure to families who have lost loved ones to unsolved murders.

On February 11, 2021, Chris Murzin was killed in a senseless act of violence, leaving his wife, Christina, their children, and family without answers. Chris' zest for life and love of family, community, work, and God did not come to an end with his untimely death. Rather than succumbing to grief and despair, Christina chose to take action, seeking justice for her husband and others who face similar circumstances. Her determination led her to put up billboards, hand out fliers, increase the reward through crime stoppers, hire private investigators, and seek legal assistance. While they haven't yet captured Chris's killer, these efforts have not been in vain. They have shed light on the challenges faced by families of homicide victims and the need for additional support and resources in solving unsolved cases.

The experience gained from their own investigation has fueled the establishment of C.H.R.I.S., which goes beyond seeking justice for Chris. Every unsolved homicide represents a shattered life, a grieving family, and a community left in fear and uncertainty. The organization aims to provide solace, hope, and guidance to families facing similar situations, ensuring they don't feel alone or forgotten. By working hand in hand with the private sector, C.H.R.I.S. taps into cutting-edge technology, research, and expertise that can unlock new leads and shed light on previously unresolved mysteries. Through strategic partnerships, the organization harnesses the power of innovation, technology, and resources to bridge gaps in investigations that may aid law enforcement in solving homicide cases that have remained unsolved for too long.

Christina's belief that something good must emerge from the tragedy they endured is inspiring. Through C.H.R.I.S., she and the team are determined to turn their pain into a force for positive change, bringing support and comfort to others who have suffered similar losses. By advocating for survivors and working to protect affected communities, C.H.R.I.S. aims to create a lasting impact and leave behind a legacy that honors Chris's memory.

This story is a testament to the resilience of the human spirit, showcasing how even in the face of heartbreak and despair, people can come together to create hope, strength, and innovative solutions for a better future.
