PeaceTrees Vietnam creates a safe and successful future for children and families endangered by the legacy of the Vietnam War. In partnership with the people they serve in the region of Vietnam still suffering the most decades after the war — Quảng Trị Province — they remove explosives and return land to productive, sustainable use, build schools and libraries to educate future generations, and advance economic development to ensure a prosperous tomorrow. Their support cultivates secure, resilient and flourishing communities in a country still ravaged by the remnants of war.

because his granddaughter recently asked his opinion on something. Tom Maultsby gave a Day-100 for his birthday and to announce the United Way Car Raffle has been extended to the end of this month. Cathy Ponitz gave a Day-40 for her recent engagement to John Rego who she met 40 years ago in college at Miami and recently reconnected with. Neal Ratliff gave a Day-100 for his birthday. Kelly Lehman gave a Day-100 in honor of Lisa Grigsby and to announce that she will be President of the Film Dayton Board this year. Phil Parker gave a Day-100 for his birthday. Terry Offenberger gave a Day-100 for his office move finally being completed to their new facility on Paragon Road. Diane Farrell gave a Day-29 in honor of Tom Lasley who will serve as one of the speaker for the Women's TEDx Dayton Event on February 29th. Karla Garrett Harshaw gave a Day-100 for her birthday and also to congratulate Cathy on her recent engagement.

President Jean provided an update on Grants Committee Projects. Coats for Kids is led by Alisa Zink. The project was awarded $2500. Dayton Public Schools have made 2 requests for 150 coats, scarves, and gloves. Alisa and her husband have purchased and distributed these items. We have $1600 remaining to purchase additional coats and will be distributed this month. The Water Safety is headed by Kelly Lehman. She is working with the City, County, and the "Y." Kelly mentioned the project was in need of community contacts to provide water safety education. Priority should be given to communities that lack educational opportunities. The last project discussed was the Great Miami Riverway Safety Signage. The project is led by Sarah Hippensteel-Hall. She worked with local law enforcement and 911 to develop signage and plan out the project. The last step is to install all of the signs. 911 already has the information in their dispatch system. President Jean asked that Rotarians be ready to assist with projects when assistance is requested. She then called on Frank Scott. Scott recognized Kelly Lehman for her 3rd Paul Harris, Carolyn Rice for her 6th Paul Harris, and Frank Gilland for his 3rd Paul Harris Fellowship.

Diane Welborn, Chair of the Day, introduced the guest speaker, Larry Welborn. Welborn is a professor at Fordham University in New York and Macquarie University in Sydney Australia. He recently focused his research on the problem of generational conflict. ...continued on page 4

Many conflicts around the world today are generational in character. The Arab Spring began as an uprising among the youth in Tunisia; the protesters in Madrid's Buen Retiro Park took the name "los indignados" to express outrage over youth unemployment rate; Anti corruptions protests in Russian cities were led by young people; the "Umbrella Revolution" in Hong Kong is a pro-democracy demonstration by the young. Welborn asks the question of what causes, mechanisms, and circumstances lead to generational conflicts.

He then explored what lessons from the past can teach us on how to handle the current problems. He discussed episodes of generational conflict in democratic Athens and republican Rome that lead to two lessons. One lesson is to have the courage and intellect to deal with student debt crisis. The second lesson is to engage youth in democracy to provide representation among generations. Increasing lifespan has complicated generational conflicts. Welborn discussed the thing to watch in the 2020 election will be if we see an increase in participation by young voters.

Rotary Book Club

Our next book is by a fellow Rotarian, Carl Moyer's work: On Freedom and Revolt: A Comparative Investigation between Nobel Prize Winners Albert Camus and Martin Luther King.

ON FREEDOM AND REVOLT:
 A COMPARATIVE INVESTIGATION

The comparison addresses major concerns about tyranny, injustice, racism, poverty, exploitation and war. Moyer uncovers and reveals in his book that neither man was willing to stand in the face of these devastating issues and do nothing. Moyer finds common ground for the two men in presenting these issues in spite of their differences in terms of racial and cultural backgrounds – one a humane agnostic and the other a seminary trained, in God we trust, preacher.

Carl is selling his book at Rotary meetings for $10.00, or you can acquire one on Amazon and other on-line book stores.

Our next meeting is Tuesday, March 10, 2020, at Fly-boys Deli, 2515 Far Hills Avenue, Oakwood, Ohio 45419, 937 723-6135, www.flyboysdeli.com, 6:00-8:00 PM.
