VOL. 92 NO. 8

WPAFB Materiel Command

Speaker: General Arnold W. Bunch Jr., Commander
Air Force Materiel Command

AFMC is the most important command in the United States Air Force to build the Air Force we need and execute the National Defense Strategy. Every day, 87,000 AFMC Airmen execute our wartime mission. We research and develop new technology to expand our competitive edge. We buy, test, and maintain the Air Force's conventional and nuclear weapon systems to ensure that our most valued resource -- our nation's sons and daughters -- are lethal and ready. We build, maintain, secure and provide critical services to our Air Force's installations. The AFMC mission impacts everything the Air Force does. Together, we are one AFMC ... powering the world's greatest Air Force.

President Brian Martin called the meeting to order with nearly 70 Rotarians and guests on the Zoom call and Bill Nance shared an invocation on the importance of the spontaneity of love and a reminder that we should help one another on the spur of the moment. He then led us in the 4 Way Test and the Pledge of Allegiance, and News of the Day. Kim Bramlage announced the upcoming Virtual Breakfast Social on August 21, and then recognized guests of members. She then turned to the birthdays for the week, including of Brady Kress who shared special childhood memories of growing up around NCR country club and meeting folks including Fred MacMurry! Ron Smith, Jerry Ross and Jack Fritzsche also celebrate birthdays this week.

There were several Day 10's starting with Kim herself who offered a Day-10 for a successful COVID-19 testing event. Suren Singhvi offered a Day-15 for Kim visiting him at his home and sharing her India Trip photos with him, Bill Serr gave a Day-25 in honor of Elk Pride; Iris Juergens gave a Day-100 to celebrate her birthday (not her 100th!); John Lyman gave a Day-40 to celebrate his 40th wedding anniversary; Paul Gruner gave Day-50 to celebrate his anniversary; Steve Naas gave a Day 20 to celebrate all 3 of his children being employed and a special request to support teachers during the time of COVID-19; Brady Kress gave a Day-100 for his birthday; Jack Lohbeck gave a Day-25 for Elk Pride; and Jason Hillard gave a Day-100 to celebrate the 100th anniversary of women getting the right to vote.

Brian then introduced Shaun Yu who presented visuals and explanation of the survey taken by 111 Rotarians that covered topics including 1) finding out how all of us are doing; 2) how the Zoom meetings are working for everyone, 3) upcoming topics to be addressed; and 4) new dues structures. Shaun thanked Diane Ferrell and Brad Roediger for their help in analyzing and synthesizing the data gathered from the survey. Of those that participated in the survey, 70% were Rotarians of 6 years or more and, of those surveyed, 95% attend meetings at least one time per month. More than 80% have attended at least 1 Zoom meeting since they started in April and 60% have attended at least 3. What most missed about in person meetings is the socializing and networking. What most did not miss is having to drive and park to attend meetings. Overwhelmingly those surveyed did not want to resume in person meetings until it was safe to do so. ..Continued on page 3

Book Club

The club decided to read something lighter and significant. After much discussion and deliberation, they decided on The Pioneers by David McCullough. Perhaps better understanding Ohio's past would be educational, entertaining, and a great read by an excellent author, for the summer. Our next Zoom meeting is Tuesday, September 15, 2020.

To support people who want to have dinner with their partners, or get home from work, we moved the meeting to 6:30 - 8:00. Enjoy reading this book, and we look forward to another great discussion in September.

Once in person meetings are able to resume, most were willing to consider a time change for the meeting, with a break-fast time slot more favored than later in the day. Even when in person meetings resume, however, the majority of those surveyed wanted a continued Zoom option to attend. Regarding dues, most of those surveyed were open to discuss a new structure but one third wanted the structure to stay as is. There were suggestions regarding how to improve the meetings such as table assignments, time allotted to network before the meeting. Finally, there were several suggestions that there be more focus on local service projects. The survey results can be sent to Rotarians privately if requested.

John Lyman served as Chair of the Day and introduced Ryan Hawk, local author and host of The Learning Leader podcast. Ryan shared his background as a quarterback for the Centerville Elks and his playing days at Miami and then Ohio University. Ryan looks to the quote from coach Pat Riley to provide the definition of excellence: The "gradual result of always striving to do better". The tenets Ryan teaches are designed to reframe adverse moments and not to waste them. First, Ryan advises never to fear competition as it makes us better for it. Second, to pursue excellence one must develop an operating framework to become a learning machine. That includes consuming knowledge, testing that knowledge, reflection and teaching. Third, consistency is key and to achieve excellence, you must show up each and every day and do the work. Fourth, he encourages everyone to write down what triggers us to focus and do the deep work. Spend more time on those things that are important but may not be urgent versus more time on those things that are not important but may seem urgent to others. Finally, he encourages us to surround ourselves with quality people that we can learn from, be encouraged by and those we can help or be mentors to.
